Legislators offer to work diligently

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — While decrying "dismal" timing, legislative leaders have promised Gov. Christopher S. Bond they will work diligently to pass needed legislation when he calls them into special session.

The prospect of a special legislative session this year became all but final Wednesday when Bond, after meeting with leading House and Senate members, said he would probably recall them to the Capitol shortly after the November election.

According to an aide, the governor is expected to make the official announcement after the Nov. 5 balloting, probably setting the date for the session for Nov. 18 or Nov. 19.

The major concern of the lawmakers will be revision of the state's 8 per cent ceiling on interest, the lowest in the nation, and possibly an emergency appropriation for some state welfare programs.

House Speaker Richard Rabbitt of St. Louis and Speaker Pro Tem Richard DeCoster of Canton both opposed the November legislative recall, claiming the usury question was too complicated to be considered in a short period by a lameduck legislature. But both pledged to work hard if the session was called.

Senate President Pro Tem William Cason of Clinton agreed the timing of the session would be bad, but offered his support to the governor.

Bond, who has announced his support for recommendations of his Consumer Affairs Chief Alfred Sikes on revision of the state interest ceiling, said the possibility of a welfare appropriations submission to the legislature during the session would depend on the results of a pending attorney general's opinion.

The governor has asked whether it would be legal to transfer funds from one budget line item to another so that the Welfare Division could transfer Medicaid payment funds to finance December's $3.8 million welfare payment bill for the aged, disabled and blind.

If those funds cannot be transferred, Bond said he would seek an appropriation of $25.9 million to finance such payments through June.

The legislative leaders agreed with the governor that the interest rate ceiling must be lifted because it is drying up the home-buying industry throughout the state.

Sikes has recommended that the lid be completely lifted on home-mortgage loans, corporate loans and business loans under $5,000 while raising the limit on other loans to 10 per cent.

On that matter, the state Supreme Court has before it a case claiming that a 1935 law exempts Federal Home Administration loans from the usury law. Should the court agree, the FHA home loan market would open up again in Missouri.

Also facing the Senate will be the confirmation of some 100 gubernatorial appointments made in the wake of state reorganization last July.

Although many of the appointments will be treated routinely, some could become controversial, including the reconfirmation of Agriculture Department Director James Boillot, who has been severely criticized by some members of the Senate Appointments Committee for his role in the leasing of the state fairgrounds for the ill-fated Ozark Music Festival last July in Sedalia.

The special legislative session in November will mark the fourth time in the last 12 months the House and Senate have returned to Jefferson City, beginning last December with a special session on state reorganization.

Man arrested in theft of quantity of hats

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department has arrested Clayton Gaines, a former employe of the International Hat Co. in Dexter in connection with the theft of a large quantity of hats from the company's plant located at 515 W. Market.

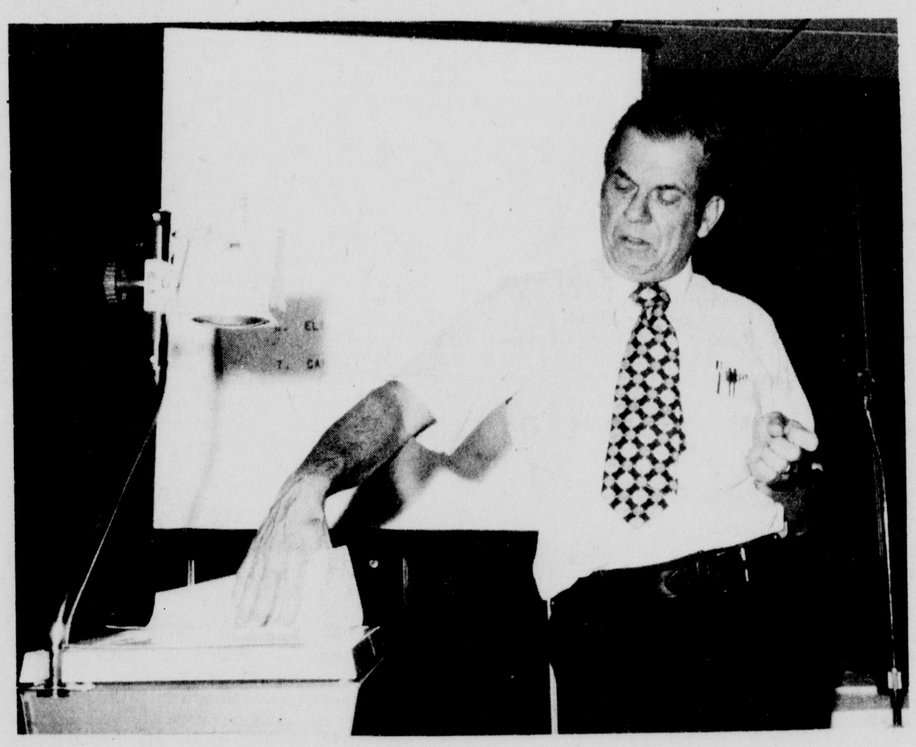
Gaines, charged with felonious stealing, was arraigned in Magistrate Court. His bond was fixed at $1,000 and his trial was set at Nov. 7.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said several dozen hats were found in Gaines' possession and that the investigation is continuing.

When asked if other employes could have been involved in the thefts, Mouser replied: "It could be that something might have developed in the investigation in the two days I was out of town, but I just don't know."

Mouser said he had been in St. Louis for the last two days.

"I just don't know how deep this investigation is going to go," Mouser said.



Co-ops serve more than members

Owen Hallberg of Washington D. C., president of the American Institute of Cooperatives and chairman of the October National Cooperative Month program, discussed ways cooperatives serve their members, communities and nation. Cooperatives not only serve farmers, but also grocery stores, news media, banks and other groups, he said.

Matthews calls sewer bond vote

MATTHEWS — City voters will cast ballots Nov. 5 on two bond issue proposals totaling $250,000 for funds to construct a city sewage system in a special election scheduled to coincide with the general election.

Proposition No. 1 calls for the issuance of $100,000 in general obligation bonds which would be repaid by taxes levied against real estate and personal property.

The second proposal, for $150,000 in revenue bonds, would be repaid with revenue from operation of the sewage

Burn victim dies

ST. LOUIS — William L. Franklin Jr., 18, of Cairo, Ill., died at 5:30 a.m. today at the burn unit of St. John's Hospital.

He was critically burned Tuesday night in a gasoline tank explosion and fire at the Illinois Waterways Oil Co. terminal on Route K near the Birds Point Community.

The body will be taken to Crain Funeral Home in Cairo Arrangements are incomplete.

Fertilizer demand up 10%

Cooperatives are meeting the challenge of supplying fertilizers to the American farmer, according to Harvey Stratman, manager of the Missouri Farmers Association fertilizer plant in Columbia.

Stratman made the statement at a National Cooperative Month meeting of 50 representatives of Southern Missouri farm cooperatives Wednesday at Ramada Inn.

Unlike private plants, cooperatives do not make fertilizer for the lucrative overseas market, he said. Their fertilizer is produced strictly for American use.

Stratman said the spot shortages of fertilizer will continue in areas where companies shut down small, less profitable plants.

Consumption of fertilizer this year was up 10 per cent from last year, he said, and demand is expected to grow. Supply will also grow, he said, but is expected to be four or five per cnet short of demand.

Two- thirds of the shortage will be in nitrogen, he said.

"Today's export prices are about double what we get here in the United States. Fertilizers are being exported in large amounts, but the 1974 figures actually show a decline from the previous year," Stratman said.

The Arab oil boycott caused higher fuel prices, according to Kenneth Swails of Farmland Industries who

Stress tester is potential lifesaver

By TIM LUDWIG

Missouri Delta Community Hospital has added another potential lifesaver to its facilities.

Stress testing equipment was received by the hospital about one month ago and has since been used to test the heart functions of all of the staff of doctors there.

The principle behind the stress test is to increase the heart rate by moderate exercise until a level is reached where, according to a person's age, the heart is working hard enough to show any irregularities that would not otherwise be found in the more common electro- cardiogram. The test can also be used to find the level of a person's physical conditioning to determine if more exercise may be needed.

Stress testing is conducted at the Sikeston hospital by having the subject walk on a treadmill that adjusts to speeds of from one to 10- miles- per-hour. When a heart rate, determined for the subject's age from charts compiled by the American Heart Association has been reached, careful checks are made to find any irregularities in heart function that could indicate damage or blockage to the coronary arteries.

Should the test show potential damage, the subject would be referred to a surgical test where dyes would be introduced into the coronary arterial system and x- rays made to pinpoint the damage site. Following a positive location, medication or surgery could be the next step.

The 45- minute test is available to the public at the hospital, but a patient must be referred by his personal physician before being accepted. A doctor is present at all times during the test to

Legality of extradition agreement questioned

By RON JAYNES

JEFFERSON CITY — A question has been raised about the legality of Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond's acceptance of extradition stipulations announced by Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller's office Wednesday in relation to Dr. Norman Asa Garrison Jr. of Corinth, Miss., a spokesman for the Missouri governor's office said today.

Waller announced Wednesday that he would allow Dunklin County authorities to return the former Kennett doctor to their county to face first-degree murder charges in connection with the Sept. 8 death of his ex- wife, Lee Ann Garrison, if Bond would agree to an "irrevocable bond setting."

Many lawyers in both states have claimed that neither governor has the power to agree to such an arrangement, saying the setting of bonds is done by the courts and is a judicial matter.

The governor's office is a completely different branch of the government, they say, although he does have the power to grant full pardons.

A spokesman in the Missouri governors office said today that Missouri Attorney General John C. Danforth would be asked for his legal opinion of the 'stipulation' when the proper papers are received from Mississippi.

Since the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that there are no longer capital crimes, which once stipulated that person or persons charged with such offenses would be denied bail or bond, it would seem that Garrison would be elibible for bond, if he returned— the amount of which would be set by the Dunklin County courts.

Attorneys in both states have indicated their doubts that an agreement of the sort set forth by the Mississippi governor would be binding.

Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker continued the silence he has maintained throughout the case today when he told The Daily Standard he had no comment on the governor's decision.

Baker did, however, indicate that bond has been set at $25,000.

"I have had no official word on the agreement," Baker said.

Missouri authorities want to prosecute Garrison for the Sept. 8 murder of his former wife, whose body was found beaten and shot in her Kennett, Mo., home.

Garrison contends that, as his lawyer argued in a closed extradition hearing, he can produce witnesses who will swear that he was in Mississippi when the slaying happened.

Garrison's lawyer, John Hopkins of Corinth, said he did not expect to appeal the extradition ruling, which Waller stressed did not determine Garrison's guilt or innocence.

"There is a serious conflict of evidence in this case, and considering this and the welfare of scores of patients of Dr. Garrison I feel that he should remain free on bond," Waller said.

"No official action will be taken on the extradition until action is first taken by the governor of Missouri," said Waller, who said an executive agreement could insure Garrison's freedom on bond.

Sikeston to offer Value Day

The Sikeston Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday and agreed to sponsor a promotional campaign called Sikeston Value Day on the second Wednesday of each month.

The campaign was approved during a dinner meeting attended by over 100 merchants in the high school cafetorium.

On each Sikeston Value Day, merchants will feature sales and specials on their products in an effort to draw customers into Sikeston from other communities.

The campaign will feature heavy newspaper and radio advertising with some television advertisements.

The promotional effort will last for one year initially and, if successful, will be extended.

The second Wednesday of each month was chosen because it is near pay day of a majority of customers and Wednesday's are traditionally slow sales days.

Stratman outlines role of Co-ops

Harvey Stratman, manager of the Missouri Farmers Association fertilizer plant in Columbia, spoke to a group of cooperative leaders Wednesday at the Ramada Inn. Other cooperative leaders attending, from left, include Kenneth Swails of Jefferson City, Farmland Industries; Nelson Willingham of Mexico; Consolidated Electric Co-op; Tom Brown, University of Missouri - Columbia; and Gene Talley, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

THE NEED FOR SOUND MONEY

The defiant reaction of the oil producers to the new U.S. hard line talk on petroleum prices, the continuing plunge in the stock market, the meetings of Western foreign and finance ministers at Camp David, and the babble of conflicting, often angry, opinions and prescriptions at the economic summit conference in Washington — all emphasize and reemphasize the point that our country and much of the rest of the world is now in a crisis far grimmer and more potentially dangerous than anything the current generation has faced in its lifetime.

It is not overstating the matter to say that the whole free enterprise system is at stake.

Senator Mike Mansfield spoke truly when he said, "Inflation has turned the world of the past two decades upside down ... words will no longer satisfy the nation. Inflation is social dynamite ... recession is social dynamite ... the divisions among people, among societies, among nations, are on the rise. They will not wait for the 'self- adjusting' mechanisms of the economy to self- adjust."

If inflation continues, and even accelerates, which is quite possible, the tinder of social revolution will soon be present. History teaches us that the impoverishment of the middle class leads them to turn in almost any direction for relief. The "man on horseback," be he of the left or right, finds that his time has come.

The President has vowed to fight inflation on all fronts. Well and good. But public disillusionment with economists and politicians alike runs very deep. What evidence can they give us that they understand how we got into this awful mess in the first place or that they will exercise the necessary wisdom and discipline to get us out of it?

The answer, we believe, lies in the restoration of sound money. One way or the other we must reestablish public confidence in the value of money — not fiat money printed at will by politicians responding to political pressures, but money linked to a real standard of value, such as gold.

The "New Economics" philosophers, to be sure, scoff at gold as a "barbarous relic" of the past. But they also promised us no more recessions. They should depart the scene in disgrace, for they have failed us. Restoration of a gold standard will not alone save us, but without it, and the fiscal discipline that it imposes, there is not much chance that anything else will do the trick.

Spring comes again

Now the fairest season of them all, Spring, is about to take its place in the turn of the seasons. This year it is due to arrive officially on March 20 at precisely 7:22 a.m., EST. As the sun moves further into the northern latitudes, it will bring with its warmth the flights of migratory birds, the greenness of new grass and the sound of new life quickening all around us. The sweetness of early flowers will be with us again. The freshness of the earth and warming air will be a reminder that with allittle luck, a reasonable amount of goodwill toward his fellows and a lot of hard work, man should be able to preserve this beautiful planet on which he lives.

From the earliest scratchings in which his thoughts were set down on stone or clay, man has expressed his feelings of encouragement and faith in a new beginning that is associated with the coming of Spring. In this year of 1972, we, as a people, need much faith, and we need confidence in our own ability to bring the light of new reason and persuasion to bear on old problems as we seek to end a war, to talk with our enemies, to guide our nation through the search for greater individual security and

GOVERNOR BOND'S VIEWS ON THE AUDITOR'S OFFICE

Governor Christopher Bond, who has never been associated with Missouri politics until a very few years ago, may be finding out that statements made at random sometimes come back to haunt one in the great game of politics.

Back in the year of 1970, Christopher Bond was State Auditor. He apparently had some great thoughts on the office he held. And next to having his picture taken, Missouri's millionaire Governor likes best to see his name in print. So here is what he had to say in 1970. Read these direct quotes from him:

In the Kansas City Star on Apr. 23, 1970, State Auditor Bond had this to say. "The citizens of Missouri have just as much right to ask that their State Auditor be someone who is not linked by tradition and party loyalty to the State Administration."

Then in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat of Oct. 17-18, State Auditor Bond had this to say: "To supervise and direct the operation of the Auditor's office requires men with education and training in accounting. Until we bring in these qualified professionals at the top levels, Missouri will continue to be saddled with horse and buggy audits."

In the same St. Louis Globe- Democrat on Oct. 3-4, State Auditor Bond had these words of wisdom: "This is one of the most sensitive posts in state government. The framers of the Constitution set it up as the only high elective office to come before the voters in the off years.

"It was good reasoning. They did not want this office to be pushed down on the ballot in the regular election years so it would receive an automatic vote. They did not want the Auditor riding in on the coattails of the administration in power. They wanted it independent."

So what happens? The Attorney General of Missouri, John C. Danforth, is the campaign manager for George Lehr's opponent for State Auditor. And Mrs. Christopher Bond reportedly is spending these final days of the campaign in behalf of George Lehr's opponent.

And to cap it all off, back on Nov. 5, 1970, State Auditor Bond was quoted in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat as saying: "I have no other plans. I plan to serve out my four-year term as State Auditor."

Mr. Bond served one-half of his term, then made the race for Governor. Go back over his views and statements on the office of Auditor.

HATCHET-MEN FOR HIRE

Laudatory campaign biographies are a standard feature of the American political scene. Most of them are produced as part of a candidate's campaign literature and are understood by reviewers and the public to be inspired political propaganda.

The unfriendly campaign biography is less common, and may become rarer now that the circumstances surrounding a biography of Arthur Goldberg have been revealed. Victor Lasky was commissioned by Laurance Rockefeller to do the book on Goldberg to undercut Goldberg's chances of defeating Nelson Rockefeller in the 1970 New York gubernatorial race. Laurance Rockefeller secretly put up $60,000 to produce and distribute the work, which was a typical Lasky- style hatchet-job on the former U.S. Supreme Court justice.

The book created little stir and had no impact on the election, which Rockefeller won handily. But the $60,000 was spent with the intention of having the biography widely circulated. readers were given no inkling that it was inspired and paid for by the Rockefellers and were misled into believing it was the work of an independent journalist.

It's disturbing to find the Rockefeller family involved in this sort of deception. The Rockefellers have a well-earned reputation for good works and rectitude. The deal with Lasky is out of character from what is publicly known about the family and seems more in keeping with the "dirty tricks" of the Nixon administration.

Nelson Rockefeller initially stated that he had no knowledge of how the book was financed or of his brother's part in the episode. Later he admitted that the book project had been called to his attention during the campaign and he said he took responsibility for it. Nelson Rockefeller's association with the enterprise is one of the things Congress will have to investigate as it examines his fitness to be vice-president.

Also worth examining by a committee of Congress concerned with campaign financing are the circumstances surrounding the production of political books. The hatchet-job on Goldberg during the 1970 election is similar to the hatchet-job Lasky did on John F. Kennedy prior to the 1964 election ("J.F.K. — The Man and the Myth"). If this and other books on political figures were bought and paid for by persons or groups with political axes to grind, the public was never told.

The involvement of the Rockefellers in such seamy business makes us wonder how common it is. Perhaps a truth-in- labeling law is needed on the financing of political books.

U. S. SENATE FLUNKS ANTI-INFLATION TEST

By a 64- to - 35 vote, the United Senate on Sept. 19 rejected President Ford's first attempt to back up his anti-inflation talk with action. Despite their publicly stated agreement with the argument that the high rate of government spending is a major cause of the inflation which now undermines the nation's economy, nearly two-thirds of the members of the Senate refused to go along with Ford's decision to cut federal spending by $700 million through a simple three- month delay in pay raises for federal employes.

Despite campaign- year talk in favor of reduced federal spending and the need to balance the federal budget, a majority of senators decided that they would cast their lot, not with the silent majority of Americans fed up with government- induced inflation, but with the federal employe unions' special interest lobbies, which have more political clout in Washington.

If it is not possible to defer, let alone cancel, a federal employe pay raise of less than a billion dollars, how can we possibly expect Congress to marshal the courage to take tough steps needed to reduce multi- billion- dollar spending for programs dominated by other politically potent special interest groups?

Will "welfare rights" organizations tolerate cutbacks in welfare spending? Will the National Education Association allow reductions in the $25.4- billion education authorization? Will veterans' groups sit still for any lessening of veterans' benefits? Where will Congress have the courage to cut?

The most common argument uttered by senators seeking to justify their votes was that it would be "unfair" to single out federal employes as the ones obligated to hold the line against inflation. But if Congress does not start someplace, no beginning will ever be made. Every cut, after all, will "hurt" someone. And there is no better place to start than with the federal bureaucracy, whose employes enjoy an extraordinarily high degree of job security and fringe benefits.

For example, starting professional salaries for some newly graduated college alumni are $12,167 for GS-9's. Even those bureaucrats at the GS-12 level are now able to receive salaries in excess of $20,000 a year (after virtually automatic-promotions to step 6 in the federal pay scale). Thirty-thousand- dollar incomes are widely available for employes GS-14 and up, while the top career income of $36,000 a year is now enjoyed by thousands of federal officials.

All of these bureaucrats can be enrolled to receive liberal, government subsidized health and life insurance benefits and are part of an extremely generous retirement system. Overall fringe benefits have risen 147 per cent since 1968, while pay jumped 45 per cent from fiscal 1968 to fiscal 1973.

The fact is that the muscle of the government employe unions may produce at the polls for the senators who did their bidding, but special interest politics will not reduce the double- digit inflation for which all Americans must pay.

NEEDY CANDIDATES

According to the word we get, candidates for public office this fall are running into some hard financial facts of life.

Political fund- raisers, especially for state offices and Congress, say that because of Watergate, new campaign reform laws and a sluggish economy, money to run campaigns is getting tougher to raise.

What's more, the money that can be raised doesn't go as far as it used to -- due to inflation.

Mexico Oil Strike

Offshore oil reserves, reportedly larger than Alaska's, are believed to lie along Mexico's gulf coast. That good news, if translated into production, could increase healthy competition among oil-exporting nations.

It should be remembered that Mexico once had a booming oil industry, until a revolutionary government expropriated the property of U.S. oil "exploiters." Mexico found that its "nationalized" government- operated oil industry fell far behind in exploration, production and refining, both in quality and quantity.

As the Alaska discoveries proved, the finding of oil and gas does not automatically mean quick production of fuel oil, electric power, or gasoline. Evidence of huge offshore reserves along our own east coast has been apparent for years, awaiting only exploration and production.

In a few years the oil industry probably will be assailed by charges conceived by some candidate or congressional committee that oil companies "hid" knowledge of the U.S. east coast oil in order to raise prices. The fact is that, through action by federal, state and local government agencies, exploratory drilling along the east coast is prohibited.

If Mexico had not inhibited enterprising U.S. oil men years ago through expropriation, no doubt that nation would by now be reaping a profit harvest comparable to that of the Arab nations-- all from discoveries by U.S. oil men. As it is, neither Mexico nor an energy-hungry world will fully benefit for a decade or more. The very poor of Mexico could well use that income now. HLH

October is for Poor People

WASHINGTON-- "October," my friend Sedgewicke told me as we sat on a street curb, "is absolutely the best month for poor people."

"How's that?" I asked him.

"It's just before election time, and all the politicians need us. Everyone promises that if he is elected he's going to do something for the poor. Of course, they don't, but it gives you a real warm feeling to hear everyone takling about you. Do you know that I've shaken hands with three congressional candidates, had my picture taken witn an incumbent mayor, been interviewed on televeision with a guy running for governor, and they told me if I sit here today I might wind up in a TV commercial for a senator up for re- election?"

"Doesn't it get you angry that they use you just for election purposes?"

"I should say not," Sedgewicke replied. "I don't have anything to do and, I'll be honest with you, I like the excitement of a political campaign. A lot of poor people resent politicians coming into the neighborhood just before election time with their campaign managers and busloads of press. But I don't feel that way. I figure we're a very important part of the democratic process. If it weren't for us, politicians would have a tough time getting on TV. Have you ever seen a candidate talking to a rich person on television?"

"I must say, Sedgewicke, you have a good attitude. If I were poor, I would be very bitter about the politicians in this country."

"What is there to be bitter about?" Sedgewicke said. "If it weren't for poor people, the rest of the country wouldn't know how well off they were. No matter how bad things get, the politicians can always point to us and say that a majority of the people in this country really have never had it so good. Would you like a piece of my stale roll?"

"No thank you, Sedgewicke."

"The only thing that disturbs me," he said, "is that there are a lot more people now, and we're not as much a novelty as we were in previous elections. They also have us broken down in categories. Before if you were poor- you were just poor. Now you're competing with people who are 'economically disadvantaged,' 'culturally deprived,' 'senior citizens' and 'oppressed minorities.' Just yesterday a guy running for police chief came in the neighborhood, and I was about to shake hands with him for a TV station when his press representative pushed me aside and said they wanted the candidate to be filmed shaking hands with a black. Now I have nothing against blacks, but I don't think they should get priority when it comes to having their pictures taken with a guy running for chief of police. That's what you call poverty discrimination."

As we were talking, we heard a loudspeaker on a car. "Here comes the senator," Sedgewicke said as he got and brushed himself off. "Well, I've got to go to work."

"How do you know he'll stop here?" I asked.

"It's in front of a supermarket. All the candidates are doing supermarkets this year."

Sure enough, the car stopped right in front of us, and the candidate got out.

"Aren't you going to shake hands with him?" I whispered.

"Not until the TV guys are set up," Sedgewicke replied. "Most poor people don't have enough sense to wait until the press get out of their bus. Okay, they're ready now. Senator, what are you going to do about us poor people?" Sedgewicke shouted.

The senator put his arm around Sedgewicke and looked into the cameras, "I'm glad you asked me that. As you know, I have always been concerned about the cruel proverty in this great country of ours and..."

I started to walk away and Sedgewicke, grinning, yelled after me, "Don't forget to watch the 6 o'clock news."

White House Tightens Security

WASHINGTON-- Less than three months after President Ford promised he would ran an open White House, he vetoed a Freedom of Information bill, which would have given the public more access to government documents.

The veto was accompanied by a move inside the White House to tighten security clearances. A memo, intended for the eyes only of staff chief Donald Rumsfeld, called for establishing procedures "to ensure that only cleared personnel deal with national security materials."

The memo proposed "a system," which would "continually verify" the tight security. It was necessary, stressed the memo, "to be certain that no one who has access to national security matters is not properly cleared."

Both the veto and the security crackdown are intended to protect diplomatic and military secrets, a White House spokesman explained.

Of course, we don't wish to jeopardize the nation's security. But in the past, our leaders have used security regulations to censor the news and protect themselves. They have swept their blunders and embarrassments, their inefficiency and corruption under the secrecy stamp.

There are surprisingly few documents that must be kept secret in the interest of national security. The number doesn't even begin to approach the 20 million documents and papers that the government hides from the people.

President Ford, who started his presidency with such openness, has been listening lately to Henry Kissinger. The Secretary of State gets highly excitable over news leaks, which he fears could hamper his personal diplomacy.

His howls about leaks helped to stimulate the wiretaps and other excesses of the Nixon Administration. Now he is again in an uproar over leaks. He is particularly upset over our stories, quoting from secret documents on the Cyprus crisis and African policy.

On October 7, he slashed cable distribution to the various bureaus. The European Affairs Bureau, for example, was cut from 30 to six copies of incoming cables. This was accompanied by a strict warning not to circumvent the limitation by Xeroxing secret cables.

Top aides have also been making the rounds to discuss the leaks and to impress on the underlings how much Kissinger detests them.

"It's the old Nixon paranoia," one State Department official told us. "The Secretary believes we're all out to get him. He runs foreign affairs like a mid- 19th century German diplomat."

Footnote: It should be added, of course, that Kissinger's diplomatic style continues to produce amazing results.

PENTAGON BLUES: The most dreaded word in the bureaucratic language, "Rif," is now being whispered in the backrooms of the Pentagon. Rif means reduction- in- force.

Pentagon planners believe it will take a drastic Rif to keep the defense budget within acceptable limits. The stark fact is that the inflationary squeeze has sent weapons costs skyrocketing. Inflation has already robbed this year's defense budget of a staggering $6 billion in purchasing power.

In modern warfare, the Pentagon chiefs believe, machines are more important than men. A B- 1 bomber, for example, will cost $76 million instead of the $46 million that was originally forecast. To maintain our arsenal, therefore, they must make drastic savings elsewhere.

A gigantic Rif, they fear, is inevitable. They are quietly preparing contingency plans that could reduce captains, majors and lieutenant colonels to noncommissioned officers.

"It will be (expletive deleted) bloody," one general told us.

WATCH ON WASTE: The armed forced are short of doctors to take care of legitimate military patients. Yet in our military hospitals, surgeons perform hundreds of face- lifts each year to beautify military wives, and the taxpayers pick up the doctor bills.

Air Force surgeons alone performed 141 face- lifts last year. The number of beauty operations was even higher in the other armed services. A Pentagon spokesman explained that the face- lifts are permitted only when "space and time allow." Each plastic surgeon is required "to maintain a degree of competency in this area," a spokesman said.

BRASS RING: A brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry- go- Round, goes to Missouri's Attorney General John Danforth.

In behalf of the state, he recently filed suit against Ralston- Purina for alleged price- fixing. Danforth's grandfather founded Ralston-Purina, his father was chairman of the board and two brothers now serve on the board. Danforth's own assets consist primarily of Ralston- Purina stock, which he placed in a blind trust when he entered public service.

Although it could hurt his own financial interest, Danforth said he would follow the recommendations of the chief prosecutor on the case.

Inside Labor

Hospitals New Target: Rival Unions' Organizers Launch Massive Drives To Sign Up 3 Million Health Workers

NEW YORK -- Men -- and women -- in white, scores of thousands of them black, are on the march in sweeping drives to unionize hospitals, nursing homes and health services across the land.

They are newly union-conscious interns. They are residents. Even veteran doctors. But mostly they are about a million nurses and uncounted legions of skilled and semi- skilled workers who clean toilets, mop floors or assista as technicians in operating rooms.

Within a year or two, few major communities will be immune to organizers of the "Martin Luther King, Jr." National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees (1199); the Laborers' International Union; the Service Employees International Union; the State, County and Municipal Employees; the Teamsters, wven the Operating Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Though few have threaded the hospital crises on one string of reports, serious strike threats have affected 337 institutions, according to federal mediation director Bill Usery. But it's merely the beginning. The field is vast. There are some 1.7 million workers in 4,000 private (voluntary) and proprietary hospitals. There are another 1.3 million in some 18,000 nursing homes and more in special health facilities.

Since there are few services in any town more vital than hospitals and clinics, the union which juggernauts to massive control of the majority of the nation's health care workers will be one of the labor movement's most powerful forces.

It is a seething, restless field. Its impact on we, the people, can be awesome. Depends on your pocketbook. Already hospital rooms in New York go for more than $220 a day. And some cost far more. It's just the beginning. Porters and other "unskilled" hospital workers now get about $181 a week. This increases to an average of $210 a week next year. Some hospitals face bankruptcy. Some huge health complexes such as Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and Mount Sinai run multi-million- dollar deficits and some now dig into endowments.

The pendulum has swung too hard, too swiftly, too costly from the days, not too long ago, when hospital workers were getting $50 and $60 a week, working long hours and were subject to the starched whims of nurses, supervisors and the elitixm of doctors, especially surgeons.

Now the competing unions outbid each other in their drives to win thyloyalty of workers. Health could price itself out of the market unless there is reason. Or it could bankrupt labor- management welfare funds. Or inflate prices in huge industridwhich spend billions of dollars on health coverage for workers during each contract period.

Most dramatic of the pile-driving organizing unions is the "mother" organization of 1199s-- the National Union of Hospitals. It is headquartered there on West 43rd Street. Since it was launched late in 1973 at a convention addressed by Mrs. (Coretta) Martin Luther King, Jr., and the Farm Workers' Cesar Chavez, it is pushing out of its Northeastern and New York enclaves.

Though its president is the vetran Leon Davis -- whose militant uproarious hospital strikes opened the field here (with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's help) back in the '60s, the new dynamo is executive vice president and national director Elliott Godoff. He's like a progessional gambler. He never takes chances. Not until he has 65 per cent of a hospital force signed up does he call for an NLRB election (now legal since Aug. 25 in the private hospital field under a National Labor Relations Act amendment signed by Dick Nixon on July 26).

His union has some 80,000 to 100,000 members. It has called for elections involving 15,000 more health workers. And has some 10,000 signed membership cards waiting offstage.

This union is blazing through West Virginia and across Pennsylvania. It has opened fronts in 197 states reaching to the West Coast. It hasN.t sent its flying squads into hospital administrators' offices as it did in New York just a few months ago. Nor has it run the kind of strike which gained it national attention in Charleston, S.C. But it is moving and is bigger now than its national affiliate, the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (AFL-CIO).

Not far behind, though more traditional in its organizing tactics, is the (Building) Service Employees union led by George Hardy. He's less dramatic. He's pushing on a wide front and not too long ago hit hard in San Francisco. And AFL-CIO vice president Peter Fosco, president of the Laborers' INternational, has told his people they're in the hospital field to stay.

At this moment there are critical pre- strike one- man inquiry boards attempting to head off the shutting down f 19 hospitals. But don't get the impression that only the "workers" are tough. Those ladies in white who've movd their national American Nurses Assn. to Kansas City (Mo.) are just as tough, perhaps tougher. They clobbered hospitals in San Francisco. It is they who proved that hospitals no longer are sacrosanct. They walked out of virtually all hospital departments in recent strikes.

New costs, under new contracts, iwll be gargantuan. I asked the director of one of the nation's biggest hospitals: "how will you survive?" He reported, "We'll survive. We will do what they do in the construction industry -- pass it along, friend, just pass the costs along. Health can't go out of business."

So don't anybody get sick. You can't afford it.

Area Lions to hold joint meeting tonight

MALDEN — A combined meeting of the Malden, Parma and Bernie Lions Clubs will be held tonight at Chat 'n Chew Restaurant at seven o'clock.

M. G. Lorberg Jr., Lions District governor 26D will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "The Year of the Lion."

Lorberg has been professor of speech and head of the department of speech at Southeast Missouri State University since 1967. He has been director of the speech and hearing clinic at SeMo State since 1953.

Railroad hearing set

SCOTT CITY — A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday on a proposal to close two railroad crossings in the city and to install warning lights and gates at three others.

Moves to install adequate gates and warning devices at crossings in the city were undertaken some months ago by citizens who said numerous fatalities at the crossings could have been prevented had warning lights and gates been in service.

At a meeting Monday night, the City Council heard a suggestion from the Cotton Belt Railroad that approximately $14,000 in additional costs to upgrade safety at the three crossings should be equally borne by the city and the railroad.

C. C. Mitchell, a railroad official, said in a written statement that the cost of installing warning devices at Louie and Daugherty streets is greater than at Oak Street because approach circuits extend beyond the south switch of double tracks at the crossings, requiring additional circuitry.

There is a 90-10 cost agreement, with the state of Missouri paying 90 per cent of $29,920, for the Oak street crossing. The railroad's share would be $3,240. At Daugherty street, a cost of $33,870 would be borne by the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad, and the city would finance the $37,860 necessary for work at the Louie street crossing.

Mitchell said that if the city and state agree to shoulder their cost for installation, agree to close the two remaining crossings and agree to repeal any ordinance regulating speed of trains going through the city, the work can be done.

There is an ordinance that regulates speed of trains passing through Scott City at 10 miles per hour.

Mayor Cliff Campbell said he would recommend that trains be allowed to travel through town at a speed no faster than 30 miles per hour, which is the same speed limit set for highway traffic coming through the city.

The council approved Campbell's suggestion, and voted to close the Delmar and Crites street crossings. Tom Arnold, city attorney, was instructed to apply to the Missouri Public Service Commission for elimination of the crossings.

The council will also meet with Joe L. Cassidy, a representsative of the Missouri Safer Roads Committee, to seek information on funding for the project.

Auto destroyed by fire

Fire destroyed an automobile on Highway 60 at the Interstate 55 interchange about 11:25 p.m. Wednesday, according to the fire department.

The car was owned by Charles Fisher of Pool, Ky., and was pulling a rental trailer filled with the family's possessions. Firemen said the trailer was saved.

Fisher told firemen the fire started in the back seat of the car. He said he smelled smoke and stopped the car. As he pulled the back seat out of the car, the flames erupted and spread through the car.

A passing truck driver used his citizens band radio to call a CB operator in Sikeston, who called the fire department.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer said the fire probably started when sparks from cigarette tossed out the window blew into the car and smoldered in the back seat.

Sikeston man to be honored

Tom Roberts of Sikeston and Haywood Snipes of Poplar Bluff will be honored at the 47th annual meeting of the Easter Seal Society of Missouri in Cape Girardeau Friday and Saturday.

The meeting, which is expected to attract delegates from throughout the state, will begin at 3 p.m. Friday with an open house at the Southeast Missouri Regional Easter Seal Center and school, 316 South Plaza Way in Cape Girardeau.

Curtis Ballenger of Chicago, Ill., consultant with the national society and former executive director of the Tennessee Easter Seal Society, will speak at a dinner at 7 Friday night at the Holiday Inn, meeting headquarters.

Roberts is chairman for 14 Southeast Missouri counties for the Paducah, Ky., Lions Club Telethon for crippled children. Snipes, who serves on the board of directors for the Easter Seal Center in Cape Girardeau, has also done extensive work with the telethon.

The LaFemme Club of Kennett will also be honored for its work in sponsoring the Dunklin County Easter Seal Society.

There will be a panel discussion Saturday morning on the topic "What do we do for the handicapped." Serving on the panel will be regional directors from various parts of Missouri. They are Mrs. Rebecca Andrews, Southeast Missouri regional director and director of the center here; John Farnham, Jefferson City; Rex Henderson, Springfield; Conrad Fassold, Kansas City and Dan Henroid, St. Louis.

Keynote speaker at a noon luncheon Saturday will be Harold Kuehle, past president of the Southeast Missouri area. His speech will deal with hiring the handicapped on a state and local level.

Felts receives ASCAP awards in Nashville

MALDEN — Narvel Felts of Malden won four American Society for Composers, Authors and Publishers awards last week at the National Country Music Association awards dinner in Nashville, Tenn.

Felts had four of his recordings listed on the national charts for at least 10 weeks. They were: "All in the Name of Love", "When Your Good Love Was Mine", "Till the End of Time" and "I Want to Stay".

He won an award in 1973 for his song, "Drift Away".

Felts also was among the top 10 best- selling recording artists in the nation. Charlie Rich was first and Felts ranked 10th. Also, he was one of three to have five recordings listed on the national charts. The other two were Rich and Don Williams.

His recording of "Rain Drops" now ranks 34th nationally and he has two albums on the national charts.

Felts continues to rise in popularity and is ranked fifth on Record World's most promising recording artist list, and he and Sharon Vaughn won an award for the most promising duo of the year.

Jaycees plan shopping streak

The Sikeston Jaycees are planning a "Shopping Streak" contest for grocery shoppers in and around the Sikeston area, it was announced today by Clayton Vandivort and David Shy, co-chairmen of the project.

The "Shopping Streak" will be held from Oct. 18, to Nov. 10. Tickets can be purchased at all the participating grocery stores.

Each ticket has a stub which is numbered. People should keep their ticket stub until the drawing is held after the Nov. 10 deadline.

The number of that ticket will be published in the Daily Standard and announced on both Sikeston radio stations on Nov. 11, 12, and 13. The person holding the winning ticket, and presenting it to the Jaycees before midnight Nov. 15 will be entitled to the grand prize.

The ticket holder may then pick the participating store of his or her choice for the "Shopping Streak". The winner will be allowed three minutes to carry all grocery or food products to the front checkout stand, exluding tobacco and liquor items. All these grocers will be paid for by the Sikeston Jaycees.

There will also be a number of consolation prizes awarded by drawing other tickets. The exact number of these prizes is determined by the number of contributing stores in Sikeston. The Jaycees will publsh every two or three days the total number of tickets sold and other information relating to the "Shopping Streak". Proceeds from the "Shopping Streak" will be used to purchase toys for needy children for the Sikeston Jaycee Tree of Lights Campaign, which is a Jaycee annual project. These toys will be delivered to the needy children on Dec. 24, Christmas Eve day.

In candlelight ceremony

Miss Gray, Rowe united

First Christian Church was the setting on Sept. 28 at a 7 p.m. candlelightwedding ceremony uniting Margaret Jane Gray and Trent Martin Rowe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gray, 527 Montgomery St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy F. Rowe of Blytheville, Ark.

A double- ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Walker before an altar adorned with an arch candelabrum holding 15 glowing tapers and flanked by tree candelabras entwined with greenery. Arrangements of bronze and yellow mums completed the decorations.

Organist Dan Malone provided pre- nuptial music selected by the bride and groom.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a formal gown of white polyester crepe. The empire waist accented with a self- band and bow featured a V-neckline and long full sleeves, banded by lace and self- ruffles. The A-line skirt, which swept into a chapel-length train, was encircled by a band of lace and ruffles.

The veil, designed and made by the bride's mother, was fingertip length of white illusion edged with lace. It fell from a headpiece of stephanotis and pearls. The lace of the veil and gown were hand re- embroidered with seed pearls. The bride also wore a diamond ring which belonged to her great grandmother.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow rosebuds, white gardenias and baby's breath.

Miss Mary Waldman of Sikeston was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Juli Tanner and Miss Jamie Beaird of Sikeston and Mrs. Cheryl Parks of Jonesboro, Ark.

The bride's attendants wore identically styled formal- length gowns of crepe- back satin with long fitted sleeves and V-necklines with collars edged in white lace.

Miss Waldman's gown was a grayish- green, and the bridesmaids wore the same color with tiny white dots. They wore white picture hats trimmed with wide bands and bows to match their gowns. Each carried a buttercup arrangement of white, yellow and bronze daisies accented with grayish-green velvet ribbon.

The groom chose Gerald Hancock of Blytheville as best man. Groomsmen were Frank Rowe, brother of the groom, and David Wooten and Scott Galently of Blytheville.

The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with satin lapels and bow ties, mint green ruffled shirts and yellow daisy boutonnieres, with the exception of the groom and father of the bride. They wore tuxedos with black velvet lapels and bow ties, white ruffled shirts and yellow rosebud boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a formal- length gown of aqua polyester knit with silver trim. The groom's mother wore a gown of pink polyester knit. Each wore a corsage of white daisies.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was overlaid with white satin cloth and draped with white net secured with white satin bows at each end and the center.

A three- tiered wedding cake, topped with white, yellow and bronze daisies graced the center of the table. The bottom tier held four small arrangements of daisies in baskets. Ivy and daisies encircled the base. Silver candelabra, holding five white tapers, flanked the cake. A crystal punch bowl and silver coffee- service were at each end, and crystal compotes holding the nuts and mints completed the table arrangements.

Mrs. Marvine Ellison and Mrs. Jackie King of Sikeston were table hostesses. Servers were Mrs. Jana McGill of Liberty; Mrs. Ann Gray of Columbus, Ohio, sister- in-law of the bride; and Mrs. Sondra Armour of Sikeston.

Mrs. Julia Fansler attended the guestbook.

Misses Andrea and Jennifer King handed rice bags to each guest. They wore identical gowns of white and green.

Honored guests were Mrs. C. C. Gray, grandmother of the bride, and MrsLena Kay, great- aunt of the bride, both of Hot Springs, Ark.

Out- of- town guests included: Mrs. Mildred Parker of Hot Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowe and children of Blytheville, and Mrs. Peggy Reynolds and daughters of Batesville, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gray III of Columbus, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Stan McGill of Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. John Worlund and Mrs. Jo Lane of Jonesboro, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pfeuhler of New Madrid.

On Sept. 27, the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal buffet for the wedding party and relatives at the bride's home.

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given Sept. 17 by Mrs. Joyce Wehr and Mrs. Jackie King at Mrs. Wehr's home, 104 Spring Drive.

Miss Mary Waldman hosted a shower on Sept. 23 in the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association Community room.

Rowe is employed by S. J. Cohen Constrution Co. of Blytheville, and the new Mrs. Rowe is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Sikeston.

The couple lives at No. 2 Crowder Drive, Dexter.

The greatest reported distance for throwing a standard five-pound brick is 135 feet 8 inches by Robert Gardner of Gloucestershire, England, in 1970.

Sikeston girl is Baylor homecoming queen nominee

WACO, Tex. — Leslie G. Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bowen of 207 Powers Drive, Sikeston, Mo., is one of 38 nominees for this year's homecoming queen at Baylor University.

The queen and four princesses will be crowned tonight to reign during Baylor's homecoming activities that will continue through Saturday.

Miss Bowen is the nominee of Phi Delta, a Baylor women's social club. A sophomore business communications major, she is a member of Phi Delta, Baylor Ski Club and the university's chapel choir. She is a 1973 graduate of Putnam City High School in Oklahoma and has attended Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Sikeston to host girls district tennis tournament

For the first time Saturday, Sikeston will host a girls district tennis tournament beginning at 9:30 a.m. with Berta Schuerenberg, the Sikeston High School girls tennis coach, as tournament manager.

The singles matches will be played on the high school and Central Park courts, while doubles teams will compete at Sikeston Country Club.

A committee of coaches will set up the seeding for the one- day tournament, and line judges and scorekeepers will be chosen for the semifinals and finals.

Schools participating will include Sikeston, Dexter, Poplar Bluff, Caruthersville, Kennett and Cape Girardeau Central high schools. Hayti, Malden and Thayer schools are also included in the district, but Mrs. Schuerenberg reports that no entries have been received from those schools.

Each school may enter two singles players and two doubles teams. The tournament will be a straight elimination affair, and plaques and trophies will be awarded to individual winners.

Lynn Bizzell and Marilyn Neel will represent Sikeston in the singles matches. Gail Strickland and Linda Green will make up one SHS doubles team, while Jeannie Vines and Melissa Lea are scheduled to form the other.

Coach Schuerenberg explained that Miss Vines may not be able to play due to a shoulder injury. In that case, another player will be substituted.

Gibbs are hosts at family dinner

RISCO — Mr. and Mrs. Van Gibbs and Vanessa were hosts Sunday at a family dinner in their home.

Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gibbs of Flint, Mich., Bob Gibbs of Rochester, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Al Camp of Pine Bluff, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. James Y. Caffey, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Van Caffey and Melanie of Steele, Mrs. Jewel Talkington of Dexter and Chris Landers of Lilbourn.

The last of millions of passenger pigeons died in a zoo Sept. 1, 1914. But the memory of the bird whose flocks once darkened American skies lives on in Pigeon, Mich., Pigeon River, N.C., Pigeon Cove, Mass., Pigeon Forge, Tenn., and Pigeon Point, Minn., the National Geographic Society says.

Births

HENNEMANN -- Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Joseph Hennemann of Benton are parents of their fourth child, second daughter, who was born at 10:28 a.m. Thursday at Southeast Missouri Hospital. The girl weighed seven pounds five and one-half ounces and has been named Angela Dawn.

Mrs. Hennemann is the former Brenda Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lambert of Blodgett. Hennemann is a brakeman for St. Louis- Southwestern Railway and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hennemann of Benton.

ELFRINK — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elfrink of Advance are parents of their second child, first daughter, who was born at 8:54 a.m. Oct. 17 at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. The girl weighed eight pounds 12½ ounces and has been named Libby Jean.

Mrs. Elfrink is the former Kathy McAtee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McAtee of Shook. Elfrink is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Elfrink of Advance.

SHS homecoming queen to be named

One of three Sikeston High School seniors -- Cindy Collom, Carole Jones or Lynn Lacefield -- will be crowned the 1974 Sikeston High School homecoming queen following Friday night's football game between the Sikeston Bulldogs and Cape Girardeau Central Tigers at Public School Stadium.

The candidates were elected by the football players and announced Wednesday at an all- school assembly. The queen will be crowned about 10:30 p.m. at a dance in the high school cafetorium following the game.

Before the game, which begins at 7:30 p.m., the candidates will be driven around the track, and at halftime they will be introduced to the crowd.

Miss Collom is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collom, 910 Moore Ave., and is 5 feet 3 inches tall with brown hair and eyes.

Miss Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat E. Jones, 707 Moore Ave., is 5 feet 5 inches tall and has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Miss Lacefield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Lacefield Jr. of Oklahoma City, Okla., is 5 feet 5 inches tall and has dark blonde hair and blue eyes.

Mrs. Tope is Sikeston B&P Woman of Year

Mrs. Fred "Tatty" Tope was recently honored at the fall conference of District 6 Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Poplar Bluff.

Her recognition as the Sikeston club's Woman of the Year, was based on the following factors.

Mrs. Tope has held every office in the Sikeston B & PW Club and is currently serving as second vice presdient. She has been chairman of all standing committees, chairman of the Woman of the Year banquet and active in promoting Business Women's Week with various activities.

She is active in city welfare services and is a member of the American Legion auxiliary, in which she has held most offices and now serves and welfare chairman; Wesley United Methodist Church, where she serves on the church board; and Beta Signa Phi sorority.

Mrs. Fred Tope

Linen gloves were found in the tomb of Egyptian King Tutankhamen (14th century B.C.). Worn only by men, gloves became fashionable for women when first worn by Catherine de Medicis, queen consort of Henry II of France, in the 16th century.

Dexter LPN chapter to meet tonight

DEXTER — The annual fall meeting of the Dexter Chapter of the Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses will be held at 7 o'clock tonight, in the Conference Room of the Dexter National Bank.

Mrs. Florence Harris of Jefferson City, executive secretary of Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses, and Mrs. Phala Sontag of Columbia, state president, will attend.

Mrs. Harris makes a visit every fall to each of the 43 chapters and the 32 accredited schools of practical nursing in the state. She attempts to reach each of the 2,200 members of the Association and as many of the non- members as possible.

Missouri is a constituent state of the National Association of Licensed Practical Nurses Education and Services, Inc. (NAPNES), with headquarters in New York City. Total membership in NAPNES is approximately 350,000.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Sontag will meet Friday with the Kennett Chapter and Monday night, with the Poplar Bluff Chapter.

Ann Landers

Secretary should confront boss about false expenses

Dear Ann: Something has been preying on my conscience and I need to know what to do about it.

As a secretary I make out my boss's expense account reports. I am aware that he puts down false expenses and charges personal expenditures to the business.

I have a strong sense of morality and feel this is wrong. I realize the practice is rampant, but still it doesn't make me feel any better about doing it.

If I confront him he will probably tell me it's none of my buisness. Is it? (P.S. He is a V.P. and has hundreds of people under him) Sign me-- Guilty Conscience

Dear G.C.: Confront Mr. Chiseler and ask him to give his expense account work to another secretary, or do it himself. (P.S. Have some job prospects lined before the confrontation. You may be handed your walking papers. If your competence matches you integrity, you have nothing to worry about. You'll do just fine. Bravo, Lady.)

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorcee, age 44, planning to marry a man 67. He is in good health, even though he has had two medium- sized heart attacks. Sexually he is somewhat limited (though not completely) but I don't mind. I've had enough sex to last me a lifetime.

The problem is, he wants me to sign a pre- nuptial agreement settlement for 30 per cent of his holdings,plus the house and cars. His children will get the rest.

If I give this man several years of happiness I think I'm entitled to whatever he has. His children are both married, and financially well off. My two daughters married bums and could use an inheritance. What do you say?-- Practical in Philly

Dear Philly: See a lawyer and learn what the law in your state says about a wife's legal share of a husband's estate.

If you are 44 and he is 67 and has had two "medium-sized heart attacks" (whatever that means), I don't know how many years of happiness you can give him. But, I hope you don't come off as crass and commercial to him as you did to me.

Is alcholoism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read th booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Ill. 60120.

The greatest number of people to cram into and on a Volkswagon is 111, set by students in Hamilton, Ont.

Tom Tiede

Only evil if below the Mason-Dixon?

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The civil rights struggle has come a long way in the last two decades—from Birmingham to Boston. But if the specter of northern whites violating the civil rights of northern blacks is shocking, it's not because it's new. Many areas of the Deep North have a longer and more varied history of intolerance than the Deep South. Prejudice and intransigence have existed in New England, for example, since the days of Cotton Mather.

Boston's busing dispute is by no means the best example of some Deep North attitudes toward brotherhood. Currently, it may be the election campaign in New Hampshire. Residents there are apparently ready to re-elect as governor, a man many feel is the most bigoted and intolerant public official in America. Writes a worried Concord voter: "Meldrim Thomson is Lester Maddox, George Wallace and Richard Nixon rolled into one puffy ball. But having lived in New Hampshire five years, I think we're getting what we deserve."

What New Hampshire is getting in Meldrim Thomson is mostly distasteful controversy. Georgia-born, a Wallace disciple, and one-time political husband of the right-wing American Party, Thomson, in his first term as state chief executive, has seldom been noted for anything except official mischief. A few weeks after taking office, for example, he ordered an investigation into the tax files of his political enemies and when the New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled it illegal, the governor said merely that he was entitled to interpret the Constitution as he saw it "and not as it's understood by others."

Since then, amazingly, he has:

Threatened to go to war with neighboring states over borders and other disputes; arrogantly vetoed 23 bills during his first observation of a legislative session; banished a military recruiter from the state for dating the divorced daughter of a friend; refused to allow authorities to remove five battered children from a foster home because of his view that foster parents are all "patriotic"; banned and thus bankrupted a state literary magazine for printing a poem he felt pornographic; repeatedly referred to homosexuals as perverts from which the public needs protection, and ran his office, according to one former aide, "like he is God and we should all say our prayers."

True to his style, which is muscular, Thomson has never apologized for a wrong, nor even acknowledged an error. He says he acts, as George Wallace, for "the good of the little guys." He thus convinces some gullible Americans, easily the biggest guys on earth in terms of privilege and fortune, that his hand has been touched by propriety. Ageless propriety, to be sure. "My beliefs," says Thomson with conviction, "are rooted in the values of the 17th century."

So, it would seem, are the beliefs of many of his constituents. While it is true that Thomson's campaign lead is in part the result of having a hapless, unknown Democratic opponent, the first reason for his popularity is philosophic. He says what the majority wants to hear—that America is faultless, that anything different is suspicious and that status quo is safety. Though New Hampshire residents are famed for common sense, many fail to admit that when Thomson speaks of the American way, he means it according to his terms.

And thus it is that this 61-year-old mossback appears destined for another term in the New Hampshire statehouse.

Nixon faces possible surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, facing possible surgery, has re-entered the hospital here because home treatment for his phlebitis condition proved ineffective, his doctor says.

Nixon limped slightly but was unassisted as he walked through a rear service entrance to be admitted Wednesday night to Memorial Hospital Medical Center for the second time in three weeks. A spokesman for the hospital in this coastal city bordering Los Angeles said the former president was expected to be released by the end of the week.

Nixon apparently made the 50-mile trip from his San Clemente home to the hospital by car.

There had been no advance announcement that he was returning to the hospital. Jack Weiblen, hospital vice president, said Nixon was brought in after dark to reduce publicity.

"He covets his privacy," Weiblen said of Nixon, who resigned as president last Aug. 9.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's longtime personal physician, said Nixon was taken to the hospital after anticoagulent drugs proved ineffective in treating inflamed veins in Nixon's left leg.

"For the past few days oral anticoagulation medication has been inadequate," Lungren said in a statement to newsmen late Wednesday night.

He said a diagnostic radiology test called a venogram had been performed on the 61-year-old former president after his arrival and showed a "near total occlusion or blockage of blood flow" in the area of Nixon's left thigh.

Lungren noted that several blood clots were found in the swollen leg, but he added that "these clots could be old or fresh."

Nixon received anticoagulents Coumadin orally and heparin intravenously during his first hospital stay, 12 days ending Oct. 4. But only Coumadin had been prescribed for him while he was convalescing at his oceanfront villa at San Clemente.

"If we're not capable of proving adequate prophylactic anticoagulation by oral Coumadin, then the possibility of surgical intervention must be considered," said Lungren. He has treated Nixon since 1952.

Lungren gave no indication what the surgery would involve or when it would be performed if results from Nixon's current hospitalization prove unsatisfactory. Other medical spokesmen were not immediately available to comment on the nature of such surgery.

During Nixon's recent hospitalization, a blood clot caused by the phlebitis moved from his left thigh, through his heart and lodged in his right lung. The decision to discharge Nixon from the hospital Oct. 4 was taken after Lungren determined the clot no longer posed a serious danger.

Lungren performed a lung scan on Nixon Wednesday night and concluded that the right lung was stable and "there was no evidence of any new involvement."

Chrysler head says industry in recession

DETROIT (AP) — Declaring that the auto industry and the nation are in a recession, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. has called for President Ford to work toward easing credit availability and encouraging consumers to spend rather than save their money.

"Recession is here in the automobile industry. Recession is here in the building industry. I would say recession is here in the country," Lynn A. Townsend said at a news conference Wednesday.

He said the President's economic policies are aimed in the wrong direction because recession and slack demand have superseded inflation as the auto industry's key problem.

"Our two problems in this country are inflation and recession. I think inflation has peaked, and very rapidly recession is taking the major spotlight," Townsend said.

Testimony says Ray identifier was drunk

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - James Earl Ray was placed at the scene of the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by a man who was too drunk to stand up 15 minutes before he said he saw Ray, according to testimony in a hearing on a motion for withdrawal of Ray's guilty plea.

James McGraw, a taxi driver, told a federal court hearing he was to pick up Charles Quitman Stephens, the state's key witness against Ray, about 5:45 p.m. on April 4, 1968, but found Stephens drunk and unable to walk or stand in an upstairs bedroom of a rooming house.

Stephens identified Ray as a man who ran from the upstairs bathroom of the rooming house shortly after King was shot as he stood on the balcony of the nearby Lorraine Motel about 6 p.m. Authorities say the shot was fired from the bathroom.

Rays attorneys placed McGraw on the stand in an attempt to discredit Stephens' testimony and support their contention that evidence was available to Ray's former lawyers to argue his innocence.

Ray pleaded guilty and accepted a 99-year prison sentence for the slaying of King, but he is now asking that the plea be withdrawn so he can stand trial in the case.

Researchers find no link between coffee and heart

BOSTON (AP) — Healthy people who gave up coffee for fear it caused heart disease can safely resume having an extra cup with their breakfast, say researchers who found no link between the brew and cardiovascular problems.

In a major 12-year study published today of almost 4,500 persons, "it was concluded that coffee drinking, as engaged in by the general population, is not a factor in the development of atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease," the report says.

However, the study asserts that no conclusion can be drawn about the possible effects of coffee on persons who already have heart disease.

Controversy has boiled over the relation of coffee drinking and heart disease since the publication of a statistical study two years ago by the Boston Collabrative Drug Surveillance Program.

That study found a direct link between coffee and heart problems in a sampling of hospital heart patients. But several studies since then found no such relationship in sampling persons who had no heart problems.

The latest report was published in the New England Journal of Medicine by Dr. Thomas R. Dawber, Dr. William B. Kannel and Tavia Gordon of Boston University Medical Center.

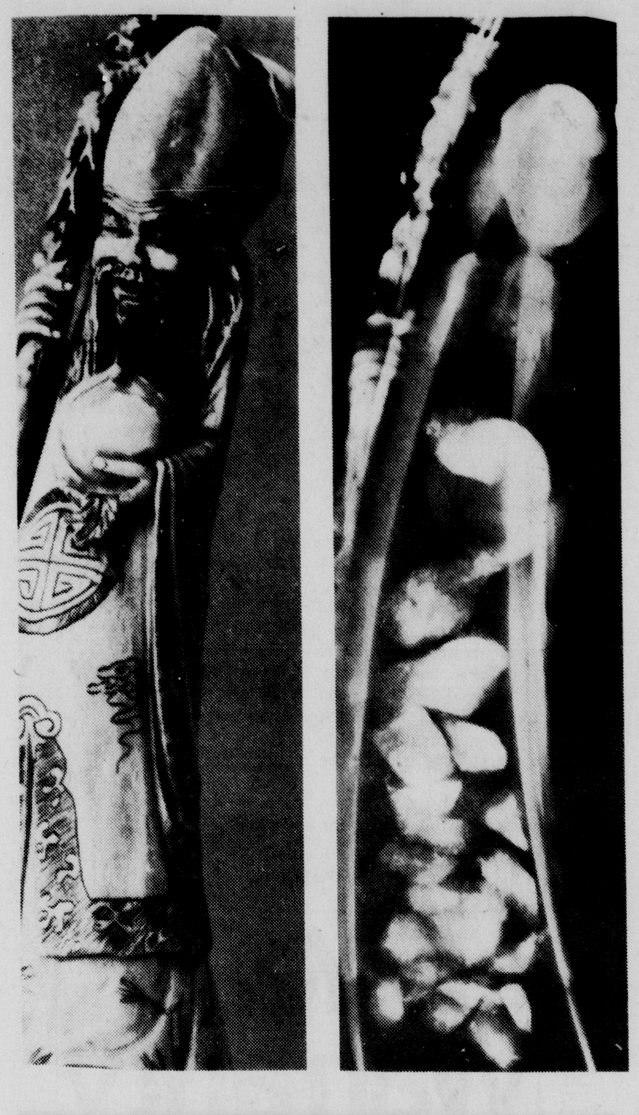
118 respond to questionnaire



EVEN A WISE collector can be fooled as the photo on the left proves after radiographer Charles Bridgeman x-rayed what appeared to be an ancient and very valuable statue purchased in the Orient and claimed to be solid ivory (far left). Bridgeman x-rayed the figure to reveal the "solid ivory" was actually a thin shell weighted with small rocks to convince art experts of its authenticity. Bridgeman said that even the most experienced collectors can be misled but thanks to radiography, such deceptions can be minimized.

WASHINGTON — Missouri's Democratic Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton and Stuart Symington have released a summary of responses to a questionnaire they sent to the 457 Missouri communities which have been designated as flood- prone areas by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and required to participate in the federal flood insurance program.

About 25 per cent (118) of the communities responded to the questionnaire which was designed to gauge reaction to the program. Of those responding, 55 per cent indicated they had already joined the program, 15 per cent said they planned to join before the July 1, 1975, deadline, and 30 per cent said either they would not join despite severe penalties for non-participation or had not yet made a decision.

The senators noted that a substantial portion of the responses, even from those communities which have already joined, criticized parts of the program.

The most frequent complaints (28 per cent) concerned inadequate information, inaccurate maps and lack of communication with the Federal Flood Insurance Agency.

Another 21 per cent of those responding to the Eagleton - Symington questionnaire felt they were improperly designated as flood-prone areas and should not be required to participate in the program.

Other respondents registered resentment at the mandatory nature of the program and federal intervention in local zoning and building matters.

Under the Flood Insurance Act, which was first passed by Congress in 1968 and amended in 1973, a flood- prone community is required to participate in the federal flood insurance program by July 1, 1975, or lose all forms of federal construction aid in flood- prone areas, including loans from commercial banks and savings and loan associations which are under federal deposit insurance programs as virtually all are today.

The federal government pays up to 90 per cent of the insurance premiums but it requires the community, in turn, to institute strict zoning and building restrictions in the flood hazard areas.

Sens. Eagleton and Symington said that on the basis of the questionnaire responses as well as individual letters, they believe the flood insurance program needed major review.

"The most frequent request is for Congress to make the program voluntary and, at the same time, to permit individuals to participate in the program even if their communities choose not to," the senators said.

The senators cited the example of a Cape Girardeau resident who had written that he personally is anxious to obtain flood insurance on his property but that his community may not agree to abide by the required zoning restrictions. Without flood insurance, the man will have great difficulty selling his property after July 1, 1975, because no buyer could obtain a mortgage.

"It is grossly unjust to penalize an individual who is anxious to cooperate just because he can't convince the rest of his community to go along," the two senators said.

"The department's own cost study clearly shows that the insurance program is almost as costly to the taxpayer as traditional disaster relief programs. The one area in which it is superior is inproviding insurance for individuals whose loss otherwise would be unprotected. That being the case, there would appear to be no justification for discouraging individual participating," they added.

Eagleton and Symington said they would refer the results of their survey to the appropriate federal agencies and Senate and House committees. Both expressed hope that Congress would undertake a thorough review of the program early in the next session.

Exports may top $2 billion

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports to the Middle East and North Africa may soar to $2 billion this fiscal year, accounting for nearly 10 per cent of total U.S. farm sales overseas, says the Agriculture Department.

The region, stretching from Morocco to Iran, bought $1.4 billion worth of U.S. farm products in the year ending last June 30, up from $521 million in 1972. Officials said oil revenues have been a major factor.

The analysis was included in a monthly report, Foreign Agricultural Trade of the United States, published by the department's Economic Research Service. It was written by John B. Parker Jr. and Michael E. Kurtzig of that agency.

Although all the countries in the regions do not have oil, the flow of capital from those that do—including Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi—have helped others build up their foreign exchanges.

"U.S. farm exports to the area could reach $2 billion in fiscal 1975, mostly because of larger sales of wheat to Iran, Turkey and Egypt, and rising sales of rice to Iran, Iraq and the Arabian peninsula," the report said.

Also, the report said, sales of a wide variety of processed U.S. food to the Arabian peninsula countries are still thriving, including tomato products, canned fruits and juices, canned peas and beans, honey and popcorn.

Total U.S. farm exports to all countries are expected to be around $21 billion for the year ending next June 30, about the same as the record value set in 1973-74.

While quantities of some major items are expected to decline this year—including smaller total exports of wheat and corn—higher prices are pushing up the over-all values.

The July-August export value of wheat was $4.24 per bushel, compared with $2.90 during the same two months last year, according to USDA records. Rice was 23 cents per pound, compared with 16 cents a year earlier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1974 alfalfa seed crop is expected to total 104.7 million pounds, up 2 per cent from last year, says the Agriculture Department.

The California seed crop is estimated at 29.5 million pounds, up 16 per cent from last year. But Idaho and Washington, the next largest producers, expect to have smaller crops, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Significant increases, however, were estimated for Oklahoma where the 1974 seed crop was put at 6.6 million pounds compared with 4.9 million last year, and in Utah, estimated at 4.42 million against 2.3 million in 1973.

Athletic records nearly corrected

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The director of the state Division of Professional Registration says record-keeping problems of the recently abolished state Athletic Commission have nearly all been corrected.

George Uffmann, whose division took over the commission's responsibilities in July as a result of state reorganization, said Wednesday he believed the loss of records cited by Auditor John Ashcroft occurred during an office move several years ago.

Ashcroft, in releasing a report covering the five-year period through June, said his office was unable to conduct a normal audit because supporting documentation was not available.

The eight-page report said disbursement journals and documents for cash receipts for fiscal years 1970 and 1971 had been destroyed and no attempt was made to associate cash receipts with expenditures during the remaining three years.

Uffman said the only point he differed with Ashcroft on was whether sales tax should be collected for television rights of weekly St. Louis wrestling matches.

But he said he would probably follow the auditor's advice and seek an attorney general's opinion on that issue.

The report also recommended that proper charges be made for exhibition permits, claiming fees were too high for most exhibitions in cities under 5,000 population and that occasionally sponsors of Golden Gloves competitions were not charged at all.

Richard Lucy, superintendent, and Matt Basham, operator, of the water and sewerage treatment plants of Sikeston Light and Water, attended a three- day training session of the Missouri Water and Sewerage Conference at Columbia.

Emphasis was placed on Water Stablility: Its Measurement and Meaning; Upgrading Plant Performance; Design and Operational Concept; Water Standards; Today and Tomorrow; Treatment Plant Sludge Disposal Problems; Treatment Plant Effluent Curse or Neglected Resource; Waste Water testing in the Real World; Industrial and Municipal Permits; and Zero Discharge the Ultimate Goal.

McCracken says nation headed for recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is headed toward a recession and the Ford administration might as well admit it, says an administration economics adviser.

"Let's call a spade a spade," said Paul W. McCracken in a telephone interview Wednesday. "I think we are probably in the early stages of what could turn out to be a V type recession."

That means a recession which is sharp but brief and looks like a "V" on a graph, in contrast to prolonged declines in economic activity, McCracken explained. He indicated he thought the worst would be over by mid-1975.

McCracken said unemployment could approach 7 per cent and the decline in economic output about 4 per cent next year. Another administration economic adviser, L. William Seidman, said his best guess on unemployment would be about 6.5 per cent.

McCracken, a former chairman of former President Richard M. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, now serves as a part-time consultant to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon. He also recently was named byPresident Ford to help compile his new economic program after the economic summit meetings.

While McCracken said it was a moot point to argue whether the economy is in a recession, as President Ford has claimed it is not, "my judgment is that we're probably moving into one."

McCracken, a professor of economics at the University of Michigan, does not rank as an official administration spokesman, and the administration continues to shy away from describing the current economic condition as a recession.

Seidman said in a separate meeting with newsmen Wednesday that it is hard to put a label on the economy at the present time. For some industries, such as furniture and steel, he said there is no recession. For housing, he said there is a deep recession.

"Inflation certainly is the No. 1 enemy, but stagflation is right behind 8t," said Seidman. "It's better to say we have two problems."

Stagflation is a term currently being used to describe a condition of economic stagnation and inflation. "The current lack of growth in the economy is a problem," said Seidman.

McCracken said his forecast of recession does not mean he is criticizing Ford's economic advisers, who he said are "doing an excellent job." He said he agrees with the administration's economic policies, including the 5 per cent income surtax proposal, but added he does favor a further easing of the tight money policies of the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Meanwhile, in Detroit, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. has called for President Ford to work toward easing credit availability and encouraging consumers to spend rather than save their money.

Declaring that the auto industry and the nation are in a recession, Lynn A. Townsend told newsmen Wednesday, "Recession is here in the automobile industry. Recession is here in the building industry. I would say recession is here in the country."

Lawyers say Dean tried to save self

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense lawyers at the Watergate cover-up trial are trying to portray star government witness John W. Dean III as ready to sacrifice anyone to save his own skin when the cover-up began unraveling.

"John Mitchell never asked you to bite the bullet for him," William G. Hundley, Mitchell's lawyer, said to Dean during cross examination on Wednesday.

Hundley tried to get Dean to admit that he had tried to get former Atty. Gen. Mitchell to step forward and take responsibility for the Watergate breakin.

"You didn't have any information that Mr. Mitchell was responsible for the bugging," Hundley told the former White House counsel. "Yet you joined in a plan to have him step forward because that would save you."

Hundley was the second defense lawyer to cross examine Dean, the lead-off government witness in the trial of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides accused of conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for H.R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief, led off the cross-examination and had Dean relate how he took $4,850 for his honeymoon from a $350,000 cash fund kept by Haldeman in the White House.

"Didn't it lay on your conscience at all that you spent money that didn't belong to you?" Wilson asked.

"I was prepared to account for it at any time I was asked to," replied Dean.

But the most heated exchange during Wilson's cross examinatton was not with Dean but with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

At one point the 73-year-old attorney accused Sirica, an old friend, of being "splendably unfair."

"Now listen, Mr. Wilson, you know me, you've known me for years," the judge replied, pointing his finger at the short, balding lawyer. "I'm as much interested in getting the truth out as you are."

At issue was whether tapes of conversations about which Dean's memory was unclear would be played for the jury.

Prosecutor James F. Neal accused Wilson of trying to imply that "I deliberately refused to play a tape because I didn't like its contents."

The White House conversations referred to took place on Feb. 27, 28 and March 13, 1973.

The prosecutors agreed to play the tapes. But after a bench conference later in the day, it was decided that playing them would be put off for some time, if not indefinitely.

Part of the procedure for introducing tapes as evidence at the trial is that a participant in the conversation or someone accepted as authoritative can identify the voices and relate the substance of the discussion. Dean has been used for that so far.

Hundley asked Dean a number of questions about the role of Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel, in trying to get Mitchell to take the blame for the break-in.

He drew from Dean testimony that it was Colson who had the closest relationship to E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the break-in defendants, and that it also was Colson who had prodded campaign officials to utilize Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, whose political intelligence plan led to the break-in.

Originally, Colson was one of the cover-up defendants. Charges against him were dropped after he pleaded guilty to a charge in another Watergate-related case.

The other defendants in the cover-up trial are John D. Ehrlichman, former Nixon aide; Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general; and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time attorney for Nixon's re-election committee.

8 accident patients treated

Eight accident patients were treated and released Wednesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Jerry Beasley, 38, Bertrand, cut fourth and fifth fingers and fractured fifth finger of right hand on saw; Charlotte Lutes, 9, Morehouse, fell off monkey bars at school; Randal Hall, 11, New Madrid, bruised and scratched left eyelid when hit in eye with object; and Earine Richards, 58, Sikeston, scratched both knees in fall.

Lodge plans anniversary

BELL CITY — Lakeville Lodge No. 489 AF & AM will commemorate its 100th anniversary Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, including a program at 2:30 featuring Elvis A. Mooney of Bloomfield, past grand master of Missouri, as the guest speaker.

Other items on the program will be a history of the lodge introduction of past masters. Worshipful Master Joe Hager will be in charge.

Open house will follow the program in the dining room, and all members of Lakeville Lodge, all master Masons and friends are invited to attend.

Ford plan supports mandatory fuel-saving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's still-secret "Project Independence" energy study strongly supports mandatory fuel-saving measures, coupled with accelerated U.S. oil production.

It suggests mandatory conservation measures might include a gasoline-mileage standard for cars, and lighting and insulation standards for buildings.

Increased oil production probably would have to come from drilling in new areas of the Atlantic, Pacific and Alaska coasts, plus commercial development of the Navy's petroleum reserve in Alaska, it says.

The study makes no specific recommendations but clearly indicates it would be hazardous for the United States to rely on energy production-increases alone to carry it through the next 10 years.

It says that with conservation and increased production, the United States can be independent of foreign oil by 1985. Without them, oil imports will grow, increasing both the dollar drain and the danger of a new oil embargo.

The report does not explain what it means by independence, but U.S. energy officials previously have defined the concept as holding oil imports low enough to avoid the possibility of blackmail by a foreign oil cutoff. This specific level has not been established.

The study, some 1,100 pages stamped "Limited Official Use," was still being circulated in draft form for comment among federal agencies today, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

A revised final version is to be made public around Nov. 7. It appeared unlikely that the major conclusions would change.

How much the nation must do depends heavily on the world price of oil, the study says.

Budget requests must be reduced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The operating budget requests of state departments for the year beginning next June will have to be cut by another $74 million, Gov. Christopher S. Bond told his 14 department directors Monday.

Meeting with the directors to discuss state level efforts to fight inflation as requested by President Ford, Bond said his recommendation to the legislature for fiscal 1976 will be to "hold the line" at $1.1 billion.

While noting that "state government by and large has not been a prime cause of inflation," the governor said the state should look at what it can do to pull in the reins on inflation, and he said a balanced budget in fiscal 1976 will be an important way of doing that.

Governor designates Head Start Week

Gov. Christopher Bond has proclaimed the week of Oct. 28 - Nov. 1 as Missouri Head Start Week. Noting that the Missouri Head Start Program now serves approximately 8,500 pre- school children in the State, Gov. Bond issued the proclamation inviting all Missouri citizens to participate in Head Start Week by visiting a Head Start Center in their community. C. B. Huber, back row, third from left, director of the Delta Area Head Start Program centered in Portageville, was among the members of the Missouri Head Start Directors Association present to witness the signing of this proclamation at the Governor's office in Jefferson City. The Delta Area Head Start Program is administered by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation (DAEOC) and includes the six counties of the Missouri Bootheel. Twenty- two Head Start Centers are located throughout the Bootheel area and 1,300 pre- school children are currently enrolled in the program. The Delta Area Head Start is the largest rural program in Missouri and will mark the occurrence of Head Start Week with special events, programs, open houses and visitations at the Head Start Centers.

Antigun control organization formed in state

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An antigun control organization has been formed for the state in reaction to charges that U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton has misrepresented his stand on gun control.

Len Owens, a director of the National Rifle Association, said the purpose of the sportsmens coalition of Missouri "is to tell the truth about gun control legislation."

"Sen. Eagleton, who voted for the handgun control act of 1972 said that the National Rifle Association supported the act," Owens the president of the coalition, said. "Such a statement is simply not true.

Owens said the coalition supports Eagleton's Republican opponent in the November election, Thomas Curtis, who has voiced opposition to gun control.

Dear Charlie:

The Charleston Business & Professional Women's Club wishes to express their thanks along with mine for the excellent coverage of our 1974 Woman of the Year Banquet.

The only thing that would have made us happier would have been if you could have spent the evening with us. I gave your regrets to Mr. Taylor. And, by the way, he really made a "hit".

Thanks again!

Outlook calls for warm, dry

PORTAGEVILLE — A transition from a cool and wet pattern to warm and dry is the major feature of the 30-day outlook for the period ending in Mid-November, according to Leonard F. Hand, advisory agricultural meteorologist at the Agricultural Weather Service office here.

The Bootheel is well within the boundaries of areas expected to record above normal temperature average and light rainfall.

High pressure centers entering the Pacific Coast are expected to cross the lower plains and Mississippi Valley on their track eastward. Main path of Canadian high pressure centers should remain well north of the United States during this period.

The track of major low pressure systems is shown well to the west and north of the Bootheel region, and it appears that the Gulf of Mexico moisture source will remain cut off for the most part. Showers that do arrive in Southeast Missouri are most likely to precede and accompany cold fronts moving in from the west.

Kennett and Charleston recorded minimum temperatures of 32 degrees the morning of Oct. 3, for what is one of the earliest freezes in many years, if not a new record. Neither of those stations have a climatological history that goes back as much as 30 years. The learliest light freeze (28 to 32 degrees in the shelter) on record at Caruthersville (occurred Oct. 13, 1917.

In any event, an undetermined amount of freeze injury was sustained by soybeans caught before maturity. Additional freeze damage was indicated after the mercury dropped back to 33 degrees at Sikeston and East Prairie the morning of Oct. 8. Soybeans had already suffered setback due to late planting after a wet spring, a subsequent dry spell that delayed germination and emergence, and cool September weather that delayed development. It is doubtful how much of depressed yields to assign to the early freeze. Its implication may be heightened by the potential for additional podfilling, had leaf injury not been experienced, in view of the above normal temperature trend now anticipated.

Warm temperatures will give newly seeded wheat and other small grains a chance to make a start before winter sets in. The only measureable rain to reach some Bootheel sections the first half of October was in the guage the morning of the 15th. Amounts ranged from near a third inch to just over an inch, sufficient for germination in most fields.

The extended period for maturing unopened cotton may be nearly as welcome as the trend for below normal rainfall that should offer open weather enough to get the crop out. Distribution of shower periods will determine chances for encountering a few harvest days without morning dew. Nights will be cool enough, frequently clear and calm, for deposits as long as moisture is available. Daily summaries prepared at the National Weather Service Office for Agriculture, Portageville will discuss weather trends as they affect harvest.

Normals now current are based upon a 30- year period from 1941 through 1970. Normal precipitation for the period Mid-October through Mid-November for the Bootheel as a whole is 3.37 inches. Normals for individual cities are: Advance 3.16 inches, Caruthersville 3.41 inches, Dexter 3.49 inches, Morehouse 3.31 inches, Parma 3.35 inches, Sikeston, 3.45 inches, Cape Girardeau 3.25 inches, Clearwater Dam 3.09 inches, Doniphan 3.39 inches, New Madrid 3.56 inches, Poplar Bluff 3.33 inches and Wappapello Dam 3.34.

Chicken, milk, egg prices drop

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail prices for chickens, milk and eggs dropped this week in Missouri, the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation reported Tuesday.

Whole fryers dropped six cents and cut up fryers were down two to four cents.

Whole milk rose one to three cents.

In the St. Louis area, grade A extra large eggs could be bought for 50 cents a dozen, down a dime from last week.

The egg prices were unchanged in other areas.

Bread prices jumped a nickel statewide.

A 10-pound sack of red potatoes climbed four cents in some areas and slipped nine cents in others.

Beef and pork prices also rose in some parts of the state and decreased in others.

A 10-pound sack of sugar increased 28 to 50 cents.

The lowest reported price was $3.85 a bag in southwest and south central Missouri and in the Kansas City-St. Joseph area.

Southwest Missouri also had the highest sugar price at $4.59 a bag.

The statewide average was $4.03 a bag.

The farm bureau surveyed 50 stores around the state on Monday.

The statewide average for sirloin steak was $1.69, with the lowest price at $1.28 in southwest Missouri and Kansas City - St. Joseph and the highest at $1.99, also in Kansas City-St. Joseph.

Ground beef showed an average of 89 cents a pound, with the highest being $1.09 in central Missouri and St. Louis and the lowest 68 cents a pound in southwest Missouri as well as central Missouri and Kansas City-St. Joseph.

Center cut pork chops averaged $1.50 a pound, and whole fryers, 50 cents a pound.

Other state averages were $1.50 a pound whole milk, 76 cents a dozen for grade A large eggs, 58 cents for a 1 1/2-pound loaf of white bread and $1.25 for a 10-pound sack of red potatoes.

Geologist says satellite needed

ROLLA — The end of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) imagery transmission this month underscores the need for a permanent operational satellite, in the opinion of Dr. Wallace B. Howe, state geologist and director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of Research and Technical Information.

In recent testimony before the House Subcommittee on Space Science and Applications in Washington, D. C. Howe urged approval of an operational satellite and testified that Missouri has benefited greatly from ERTS data.

"We derived an enormous volume of important data about Missouri and its resources from ERTS-1," Howe said of NASA's experimental satellite. "Among applications made from the data were a flood assessment along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, a statewide lake and reservoir inventory, geohydrologic studies, mapping to show landuse in several counties, an inventory of strip-mined land, identification of geologic structural features and an inventory of forests in the northern Missouri funded by the U. S. Forest Service."

Howe said a series of the ERTS-1 images also were used to compose two remarkable maps of the state. Each map is a mosaic of images furnished by NASA and composed at a scale of 1:1 million by the office of the state egologist with the assistance of the U.S. Geodetic Survey Topographic Division. The maps are now being printed and soon will be available to the public.

ERTS traveled a sun-synchronous polar orbit around the earth every 18 days after its launching July 23, 1972. It carried sophisticated electronic equipment which imaged the earth, nearly 570 miles below, and relayed the data by electronic signals to ground receiving stations. These were recorded on photographic film and furnished to scientists all over the world.

Althought the original life expectancy of ERTS-1 at launching was only one year, it operated efficiently for nearly two years. Howe emphasized to the subcommittee the importance of an operational ERTS-type system that would continue to provide data at regular intervals as the original experimental system did.

Repetitive imagery of the state was found to be particularly valuable by the office of the state geologist in detecting significant environmental changes, inventorying natural resources and monitoring water quality.

In addition to repetitive coverage, an important feature of ERTS imagery is the synoptic view it provides, Howe said. In other words, the imagery portrays a sizeable portion of the earth at one time. Scientists, bound by the capabilities of aircraft covering limited areas, have been confronted by a "can't-see-the- forest-for- the-trees" problem. By backing far enough away into space and viewing a large portion of the earth, Howe said, this problem was partially solved.

ERTS enabled staff geologists to map new faults and to change the alignment of faults mapped on the ground, but never before observed from a great distance.

For example, Howe explained that it would not be possible to successfully photograph the entire Decaturville structure in Camden County because of its size. Other structures, such as the Crooked Creek disturbance near Steelville, were successfully photographed from the air only when the atmospheric and climatic conditions were favorable for emphasizing the subtile differences between the structure and surrounding terrain.

A number of structures were apparent on ERTS imagery that had not been detected by staff geologists on aerial photography.

Howe recommended to the subcommittee that the next ERTS system carry a thermal imaging capability which the ERTS-1 system lacked. He explained that his staff, in cooperation with the USGS Water Resources Division, used thermal imagery obtained by a highly instrumented remote sensing aircraft for studies of streams and watersheds in southern Missouri a few years ago.

The amount of heat emitted by land and water areas were automatically recorded on film strips and magnetic tapes for subsequent analysis. Staff geologists were able to identify losing streams (part of the surface water flow was lost to the groundwater system) and gaining streams (surface water was augmented by groundwater discharge) by interpreting these temperature differences.

The addition of a thermal band on the next ERTS system would detect things like this and permit further research of this kind in Missouri. It would allow coverage of an entire basin at one time, also, in contrast to the much higher cost- per-mile coverage of even a single stream by an airplane.

Special environmental problems prompted the office of the state geologist to enter the remote sensing field originally. Missouri became involved in the ERTS program early in the planning stages when NASA invited universities, agencies, companies and others to submit proposals for using data to be acquired by ERTS-1.

A research proposal by the office of the state geologist for investigation of the growth corridor between Kansas City and St. Louis was one of only 335 accepted from all over the world. It was the only ERTS project in Missouri, and the state was one of only 16 states to have have such a project initially.

When images began to arrive in mid-1972, staff researchers immediately recognized that satellite data had applications far beyond anything they had anticipated.

Several staff geologists also made it available to the University of Missouri - Rolla staff and students, as well as to mining geologists and others.

Cat facility to be built

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Zoological Commission has announced plans for construction of a new facility for the great cats — lions, tigers, leopards, etc.

Known as "Big Cat Country," the facility is expected to be one of the nation's most innovative, according to Judge Thomas F. McGuire, commission president.

The design was developed by the architectural firm of Peckham- Guyton, Inc. and the zoo staff. It will provide spacious, naturalistic, outdoor homes for members of the cat family.

Large, open yards for lions and tigers, plus airy grottos for the climbing cats (leopards, cougars, jaguars, etc.), will offer public viewing of the animals from many angles. Grass, trees and shrubs will be intersperesed with rock formations, pools and running brooks. Where appropriate, waterfalls will cascade into open yards.

The big cats will utilize their outdoor yards almost every day of the year. Heated pads in the open areas will insure a dry resting place even on a severe winter day.

The animals will be displayed in family groups. With the possibility of more space and more privacy for mother cats, cubs will not be removed to the nursery in most cases.

Big Cat Country will be constructed where the old Lion House stood. Visitors will glimpse the big cats through the trees as they approach along the grand mall from the zoo's central plaza. Riders on the Zooline Railroad will come face to face with the cats across a moat as they emerge from the tunnel at Lion Station. Completion of the project is scheduled for summer of 1974.

Total site area for Big Cat Country is about 65,000 square feet, or one and one-half acres. Three large, moated yards will be provided for lions or tigers. Each yard will consist of more than 13,000 square feet, or about one- third acre.

The climbing cats will be housed in four yards covered with a mesh tension structure. Two of the yards will be 1,700 square feet, one yard will be 2,100 square feet and the fourth 1,000 square feet.

The design for the facility is that of a wheel, with outdoor exhibit areas surrounding a central indoor denning structure. this denning barn will contain night quarters for the cats, sections for expectant mothers and medical treatment areas, as well as an animal food kitchen, storage and service areas.

The roof of the den building will be a public viewing area. The design will permit equipment access for service and maintenance to all of the large cat areas.

Cost of Big Cat Country is estimated at $1.5 million, kept to a relatively low level because there will be no elaborate edifice. Financing of the project has been pledged by the St. Louis Zoo Association.

It is believed by zoo director Robert T. Briggs that the new facility will display the great cats' movements and behavior closely approximating activity in the wild, a concept not possible in the sterile conditions of concrete floors and barred cages.

The exhibit will be enhanced by graphics illustrating such things as the balance between preditors and prey, behavioral aspects, population pressures and controls, status in the wild, range and origin.

The zoo's old Lion House, built in 1916, is being torn down. Its inhabitants were sent to other zoos or to nonpublic areas on the zoo grounds throughout the summer. The building and its old- style cages were beyond repair or reasonable renovation, according to the zoo's consulting engineers.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

World News in Brief

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met with Soviet leaders today to present them with a series of options for a new treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons. Details of the American proposals were not disclosed, but newsmen were told the United States is prepared to join the Soviet Union in negotiations for a broad agreement instead of concentrating on restricting the development of missiles with nuclear warheads.

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab foreign ministers have approved a militant Syrian resolution as the basic working document for the Arab summit meeting opening Saturday. But Egypt indicated that it would still go along with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach toward an Arab-Israeli settlement. During his recent visit to the Middle East, Kissinger won Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's approval for his proposal that the Arabs and Israel try for a gradual advance toward a peace settlement.

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's finance minister says the United States and Japan should join in a concerted effort to guarantee that Italy does not "fall to pieces" under the impact of quadrupled oil prices and its other economic woes. West Germany recently loaned Italy $2 billion to stave off bankruptcy, but Apel said he doubted this kind of bilateral aid would be repeated.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Ruth becomes special Watergate prosecutor Saturday, succeeding Leon Jaworski, who relinquishes the post Friday after a year on the job. The Justice Department announced Wednesday that Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had appointed Ruth as the new prosecutor.

SHS parents to meet teachers, review work

Parents of Sikeston High School students are invited to meet the teachers and review their children's work from 6:30 to 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Principal Roger Sherman said parents also will have an opportunity to see the television studio where video tapes are made of programs involving students, teachers and guest speakers.

Speakers who have been at the studio for taping include Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton and Missouri Attorney General John Danforth.

The parent- teacher night is sponsored jointly by the school and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Matthews man injured

MATTHEWS — A Matthews man was injured in a one- car accident at 10:45 a.m. Wednesday on an unmarked gravel road one and one-half miles west of town, the highway patrol announced today.

The accident occurred when Larry Gene Grimes, 26, was blinded by dust from a passing vehicle and lost control of his pickup truck which ran off the road, struck a dirt embankment and overturned on its side.

He was treated for a broken left shoulder and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

12 Sikeston educators to attend meeting

Twelve educators from the Sikeston school system will be among 20,000 people expected to attend the Missouri State Teachers Association convention, Nov. 6-8 in Kansas City.

The meeting will begin with 1,500 delegates from 415 local teacher associations assembly in Municipal Auditorium to transact business.

Arthur Mallory, state commissioner of education, will open the Nov. 7 morning session, and Tom Brokaw, National Broadcasting Corp. White House correspondent, will speak o n the topic, "A Report from the Potomac".

Abram L. Sacher, chancellor of Brandeis University, will speak that afternoon on "Crisis and Challenge". C. Jackson Grayson Jr., consultant, economist and lecturer, will speak at the Nov. 8 morning session.

Programs will be sponsored by 32 MSTA departments , as well as allied and associate groups.

About 250 exhibitions will be located in the Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Sikeston delegates will include Sam Harbin, Richard Giles, Ruth Sappenfield, Gloria Kellick, Glenn Milligan, Bob Depro, Shirley Hammock, Janet Johnson, Brenda Matthews, Ruth Ann Roberts, Darlene Sanders and Henry Smith.

The city has applied for $95,700 in funds from the federal government and $126,000 from the state to complete the project.

The entire system will include 24,000 feet of eight - inch clay pipe, 300 service lines, three lift stations and a four- celled lagoon.

"The lines will be hooked directly to the houses," Mayor A. W. Wagley said, "and will involve no tax increase."

There will, however, be a fixed charge of $3.75 per month for the service.

If the bonds are approved, construction is expected to begin sometime next year.

A two-thirds majority is required for passage of the first proposition, and a four-sevenths majority is required for passage of the second proposal.

Voters will ballot at the city hall in ward - one and at Sutton's Service Station in ward two.

3 turned over to Pemiscot

CHARLESTON — Odie Bogan, 25, and Jessie Bogan, 24, of Mounds, Ill., and Jimmy Rayford, 24, of Kentucky were turned over to Pemiscot County authorities Wednesday after being identified in a lineup by witnesses from Hayti as the three men who held up El Rancho Motel at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday in Hayti.

The three were arrested about 1:20 a.m. Wednesday on Interstate 57 near Charleston by highway patrolman Bob Eddleman and taken to the Mississippi County jail.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons said charges of speeding and possession of marijuana may be filed against Jessie Bogan. However, he said the charges will not be filed in Mississippi County since the men were turned over to Pemiscot County authorities in connection with the robbery.

No official report has been received from the sheriff's office, Pemiscot County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Mike Hazel said today, but he expects armed robbery charges to be filed against the three.

said some major oil companies in the state have closed their rural plants, citing low profitability.

At the same time, cooperatives have improved their rural stations and bulk plants, Swails said.

"It's true that oil company profits are on the rise and so are co-op profits, but the cooperatives will return profits made to their patrons," he said.

Predictions are being heard that there will be another energy crisis before next spring, with petroleum prices high and supplies short, he said.

"No farmer having a history of buying from a cooperative has been denied service," he said.

Because of the energy shortage, Swails said Farmland has canceled all overseas meetings and trips for top executives. If 200 major U.S. corporations would do the same, there would be enough fuel saved in a year's time to plant the entire 1975 crop, he said.

There is presently enough credit to supply farmers' needs, but by 1980 the country may face a shortage of money reaching $350 billion, according to Gene Talley, a spokesman for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

Things are not going well in the money supply, he said, pointing out that four major banks have failed this year and several prestigious businesses have floundered.

Money is a big problem for electric utilities, also, according to Nelson Willingham, manager of Consolidated Electric Co-op. He stated that electric power is faced with problems of high production costs and he predicted the cost of electricity will double within 10 years.

The Associated Electric plant in New Madrid, and a second plant under construction, are both part of a cooperative, Willingham said. The anti- pollution requirements at the new Madrid plant will increase construction costs by $2 million, he said, and may lead to higher electric rates.

Winchester trial set

BLOOMFIELD — Trial or James Winchester of McGee on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle was set for Oct. 31 following preliminary hearing this morning in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Winchester was charged with the theft Monday afternoon of an automobile from Taylor- Christian Auto Sales in Dexter. Winchester reportedly took the car for a demonstration drive and did not return.

In other cases, Dennis Gott, 17, of Dexter, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail after pleading guilty to a reduced charge of stealing less than $50. He was originally charged with felonious stealing involving the theft of two batteries from tractors owned by George Hampton of Dudley.

Gott will serve his jail- time on weekends, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday and ending at 5 p.m. on Sundays for five weekends, providing he returns to school.

Fined for speeding were Lindal Charles Buttry of Bernie, $10; Gregory Scott Jackson of Poplar Bluff, $18; Joseph Edwin Pulliam of Bernie, $11; and Robert Lee Young Jr., $19.

"President"

We feel extremely fortunate in having Mr. Benton B. (Deac.) Conrad join our staff at our Banking Facility in Matthews, Missouri. Mr. Conrad is serving as "Special Representative" and in that capacity will help our officers and personnel re-acquaint themselves or become acquainted in the City of Matthews, as well as the fine surrounding farm and residential areas.

Mr. Conrad served in the Matthews School System from 1927 to 1971---and as principal from 1937 to 1971. He was reared in Bollinger County, Missouri; attended schools at William Mayfield in Marble Hill, Missouri; Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, where he earned his B.S. degree; Murray State University from which he was awarded his M.A. degree. He also did graduate work at Missouri University, Columbia, Missouri and S.I.U. in Carbondale, Illinois.

Tri County Bank is a service institution. To be effective and to deserve patronage from the area in which we serve, we must start with qualified personnel. We belive Mr. Conrad is deeply interested in his community, and with his help our chances to grow and be of service to this Community will come much sooner.

Especially For Attention of Matthews Residents:

Mr. Conrad has prepared a city map displaying the entire plat for sewer lines, the bonds for which will be voted on November 5, 1974.

Come in and see if it will be of some benefit to you in making a decision relating to a very important city improvement venture.

Bulldogs upset favorites

There are just three weeks remaining in the high school football schedule after Friday night's action so that means there are just four more chances for our weekly prognosticators to have a perfect night.

Everytime we think we have the right scores somebody either gets good or worse, we haven't found out for sure yet.

Last week Kelly Greer split with four right and four wrong. Danny Summerfield picked five right and three wrong. Eddie Smart picked five right and missed on four. He picked the results of Thursday night's game between Poplar Bluff and Cape Central but he should have forgotten about it like the others. Yours truly, Mr. Basketball hit four of eight which isn't very good. The only thing a .500 average is good in is baseball.

Here we go again still looking for that perfect week which started six weeks ago and instead of getting better we'r getting farther away.

Cape Central at Sikeston --- The Bulldogs finally met a team their size last week although that shouldn't be an excuse for their five losses as the Dogs lost the games mostly due to their inability to hold onto the football rather than the other teams weight advantage. Against the Bearcats, the Bulldogs didn't commit the offensive errors and won the game rather easily although the score indicated a closer game. Sikeston is capable of beating the Tigers if they can hold onto the football. Our panel says that the Tigers are a 4-1 favorite. I haven't seen Cape Central this year but have seen several Bulldog games and Sikeston will win 14-13.

Charleston at East Prairie -- The Bluejays have too much speed for the Eagles and the panel must know it for the Bluejays are 5-0 to win --- 35-14.

Hurculaneum at Jackson -- The Indians are an improving team and are picked 3-2 to win -- 14-12.

Perryville at Kennett -- The Indians are a better ball club than anyone figured this season. Their only loss in the conference came to Poplar Bluff so Kennett is still in the race. The Indians are 5-0 favorites to win the game with Perryville -- 21-7.

Poplar Bluff at Dexter --- Mike Moss will run the Bearcats crazy. Dexter is a good football team but not as good as the Mules -- 28-14.

Portageville at Caruthersville -- The Tigers are favored 5-0 to win this game. Caruthersville has the defense to do it -- 12-7.

Malden at Chaffee -- Both teams are just about equal in size and talent but judging from the score of the team in previous game the Greenwave have the nod due to defense -- 14-12.

Hayti at I-SC-- This should be a top game. As far as prestige is concerned probably the top game of the week. Hayti is flying high and the Rams are already the Bootheel champs. Hayti is a 4-1 favorite. I've seen both play and Hayti is the bigger team and has more offensive weapons. ISC is sound fundamentally --- Hayti 21, I-SC 19.

South Pemiscot at Rector, Ark. -- Because of location the Bulldogs have scheduled too many Arkansas teams. One is too many but Rector should have an easy time winning -- 40-7.

Southeast Missouri

STARS FROM START

Big game at I-SC

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State freshman kicking specialist Tom Birney of Detroit made an auspicious debut on the Spartan varsity. In his first collegiate game he connected on five of six extra-point attempts in Michigan State's 41-7 victory over Northwestern in the opening game for both teams.

Birney also capably handled kickoff and punting chores.

The top game of this weeek's high school football schedule is at Illmo- Scott City where the Hayti Indians invade the Rams. I-SC was rated fourth and HHS seventh this week in class 2-A by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Coach Jerry Cecil's figures that the Indians are one of the best teams around and not many can argue the point too much.

Hayti features Danny White at halfback and Eddie Martin at halfback and both are very good runners and allaround football players. Both boys play both ways, which isn't seen too much in the bigger schools these days. Due to the lack of talent in the smaller schools the boys get to show off their skills on both defense and offense. Which is probably better for the individual anyway.

Both the Rams and the Indians have lost only one game this season. I-SC is a well coached team and coach Bill Wilthong has his boys playing good both defensively and offensively. Steve Hanschen is the leading ball carrier for the Rams. The Rams will have their hands full trying to stop Jimmy Morgan, Martin, White and Patrick Thomas.

Bass hunting

If you are real outdoorsman then you should try to hunt bass in the winter time.

Black bass in impoundments are school fish. When the water turns cold, they draw into tight little groups and find some sanctuary

Although anglers of the past thought the bass were dormant in the winter, modern bass fishermen have found the fish will feed.

Stick-ups off bluffs, rocky points and the edges of submerged islands are good places to start the hunt. There are times when a school will move into a shallow cove or cruise along shallow bars.

Like the quail hunter without a dog, the bass hunter has to use a trial-and- error method until he discovers a pattern to the type of cover the fish like on a particular day.

Armament will vary from lake to lake, angler to angler and situation to situation.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas's capital city, Little Rock, derived its name from a moss-covered rock jutting out from the south bank of the Arkansas River.

The rock was both an early Indian landmark for easy fording of the river and also a guidepost to travelers on the trail to the Ouachita Mountains.

Clayton nears record

MURRAY, Ky. — Sometime during the first half of Murray's football game with East Tennessee Saturday night, Don Clayton should become the most prolific ground-gainer in Murray's history.

The All-America tailback needs only 36 yards to break the career rushing record for the school, set by Rick Fisher in 1971. Fisher's record is 2,292 yards. Clayton has 2,267.

Clayton has averaged 120 yards a game in Murray State's first six games this season and 4.4 yards for 162 carries. He had 82 yards in the season - opener against Cameron State, 84 against Western Carolina, 137 against Morehead, 92 against Tennessee Tech, 186 against UT-Martin, and 139 last Saturday against Middle Tennessee.

Last season, Clayton set a season rushing record at Murray with 1403 yards in 10 games. His average was the second best in the nation for Division II players. He saw little action as a sophomore when he was recovering from a knee injury and had only 144 yards in 39 carries.

Clayton, who has averaged 27 carries a game this season, is also nearing Fisher's career record in that department. He has 443 and the record is 476. He has averaged 5.1 yards a carry and 103.1 yards a game for his career at Murray.

Clayton also led the Racers in scoring last season with 54 points and is in the lead again this year with 32 points. Last Saturday, he scored both touchdowns in Murray's 14-12 victory over Middle Tennessee. He has also caught 7 passes this season for 71 yards and 1 touchdown. It was his touchdown reception which put Murray into the lead for the first time in its 35-27 win over Cameron State. Against Morehead, he ran a two-point conversion with only 6 seconds left in the game to give Murray a 25-24 victory.

Murray has won five of its six games this season, losing only to Tennessee Techn. The Racers are 2-1 and tied for third place in the Ohio Valley Conference. They will play East Tennessee Saturday night at MSU's Roy Stewart Stadium, where they haven't lost a game in the two years it has been in use. They will then play at Eastern Kentucky, who leads the OVC with a 3-0 record, and at Austin Peay before returning to Stewart Stadium for games with Eastern Illinois Nov. 16 and Western Kentucky Nov. 23.

Sports Briefs

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have agreed to a one-year player development contract with Danville of the Class A Midwest League, a spokesman for the Danville baseball team said Wednesday.

The Midwest team, to be known as the Danville Dodgers, has been affiliated with the Milwaukee Brewers the past four seasons.

CHICAGO (AP) — Loren Babe, a former major league infielder, has been named manager of the Denver Bears, the new Class AAA affiliate of the Chicago White Sox.

Babe, 46, was a scout for the New York Yankees for the past three years and from 1961-66 managed in the International, Southern, Carolina, Pioneer and New York-Pennsylvania leagues.

He played 120 games in the major leagues in 1952 and 1953 with the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics as a third baseman.

Don Clayton (No. 21), Murray State University tailback from Malden, Mo., takes a pass for a first down on the four- yard line in Murray's 14-12 victory over Middle Tennessee last Saturday. He scored Murray's first touchdown from the 1- yard line two plays later. Clayton is nearing career records in rushing and rushing attempts at Murray.

Gilmore, Dr. J call on spirits

ST. LOUIS — Artis Gilmore ... Dr. J... the running, gunning San Diego Conquistadors. The Spirits of St. Louis face three of pro basketball's finest attractions at the Arena in the next five days -- and also three of its toughest tests.

The 7-2 Gilmore leads the Kentucky Colonels into St. Louis for their first meeting against the Spirits on Friday night at 8 p.m. Next comes the great Dr. J., Julius Erving, perhaps the most exciting player ever to play basketball, who makes his call with the New York Nets in a 7 p.m. game Sunday.

Then on Tuesday, the Qs, featuring 7-0 Caldwell Jones and spectacular 6-1 guard Dwight Lamar come in shooting at 8 p.m.

All will be making their first St. Louis appearance as Spirits fans get an early opportunity to see some of the best pro basketball the American Basketball Association has to offer. As an added attraction, Friday night will be Banner Night with the fans invited to bring a home-made banner for judging. The creator of the best and wittiest banner will win two tickets to any 10 home games. Tuesday night will be Clayton Night in which anyone purchasing a ticket through the Clayton Chamber of Commerce gets a discount. They do not have to live in Clayton.

Gilmore, the All American from Jacksonville, who has led the league in rebounding for all of his three seasons and averages more than 20 points a game, comes to town ready for an exciting matchup against St. Louis' newest sensation out of college, All American Marvin Barnes.

Along with Gilmore at center, new coach Hubie Brown has sharp-shooting strongman Dan Issel and Wil Jones as the forwards and Ted McClain and Louie Dampier as the guards. All are former All Stars. Gilmore, McClain and Jones are three of the top defensive players in the league, while Issel has a career scoring average of 28 points for four seasons. Dampier is the ABA's leading career scorer and three point field goal shooter.

The Colonels were 2-0 before meeting Virginia at home Wednesday and San Antonio at home Thursday.

Erving, the 6-7 incredible, soaring, scoring forward, has been the league scoring champion the past two seasons, leading the Nets to the ABA title last year as he ranked among the leaders in almost every statistical category. Best known for this stunning dunk shots, Erving will be faced by an old nemesis, Joe Caldwell of the Spirits, one of basketball's premier defensive experts.

The Nets also boast 6-9 Larry Kenon, one of the ABA's top rookies last season who will be returning to the Arena where he played for Memphis State against UCLA and Bill Walton in the NCAA finals several years ago.

San Diego, with Lamar, Stew Johnson and Travis "Machine Gun" Grant, had one of the runningest and shootingest teams in the game, presenting a crowd-pleasing style. In Jones, they also have one of the top young centers in the sport as he led the league in shotblocking last season and ranked third in rebounding.

The Spirits also will be playing Virginia at Hampton on Saturday night in a game to be televised back to St. Louis over KPLR, Channel 11, with Bob Costas calling the action. It is the first of 11 scheduled telecasts.

St. Louis took a 2-1 record to Indiana Wednesday night. In those first three games, Fly Williams and Steve Jones, both coming off the bench, were the big guns. Fly averaged 20.3 points a game and was the third leading, rebounder with 7.3 per contest. He also had 10 assists to rank only behind 11 by Milt Williams as he caught the crowd's fancy with his spectacular moves toward the basket and hustling play.

Jones averaged 20 points a game and had seven rebounds per contest from his guard spot. Barnes was next with 16.7 points, a figure which certainly would have been higher had he not been forced to leave Tuesday night's victory over Virginia in the first minute of the second quarter with a sprained ankle. Still, he led the team in rebounds with 13 a game.

Jr. Eagles in final at Scott City

EAST PRAIRIE — The Junior High Eagles will play their final game of the season tonight at Scott City. To date their record is three wins and one loss.

The team, which includes eighth and ninth graders, lost to Malden by a score of 22 to 6 on Sept. 26. They have defeated Portageville 6-0; Hayti, 20 to 6; and Charleston, 53 to 0.

The game with Charleston, played Oct. 17, began with the Eagles fumbling the kick- off on the Blue Jays 20 yard line. After a gain to the Eagles one yard line, the Blue Jays fumbled and the ball was recovered by East Prairie gridder. The East Prairie team scored their first touchdown after moving the ball 99 yards down field. Jeff Emory scored the touch down on a 50 yard run.

Terry Wheatley, quarterback, scored 21 points for the day, followed by Jeff Emory, who scored two touchdowns. Other scorers were Donald Robinson, eight points; Kevin Pritchett, six points; and Todd Marshall, six points.

First meeting

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University and Missouri Western State College will meet on the gridiron for the first time ever at 1:30 Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph.

The non-conference contest leaves the Indians secure in the knowledge that they can lose no ground in the race for the MIAA championship.

As long as that's all they're secure about, Tribe Coach Jim Lohr isn't worried. But if the team lets down, unhappy things could happen, Lohr said, even though the Griffons have been victorious but once in seven tires this season.

"They sure could beat us, if we go up there with anything but business on our mind," said the first- year Indian head man.

Two weeks ago the Tribe got a bit complacent after a big 44-0 win over Arkansas Tech and lost for the first time in a decade to the University of Missouri -- Rolla, 21-19.

The situation is much the same this week. The Indians last Saturday smashed a fine Southwest Missouri State University squad, 39-20. The Bears were the pre-season pick to wrest the MIAA crown from the Tribe.

Lohr said the Indians' offensive play in that game was the best he has seen in any football team for many years. The win evened Southeast Missouri State's record at 3-3.

Missouri Western is also piloted this year by a new head coach, Rob Hicklin. And like the Indians, the Griffons are also using the Houston Veer as their basic offense.

They have 25 returning lettermen, but Lohr describes the Griffon "as kind of a young club." He adds, "Their defense has been good on occasion."

Missouri Western's best offensive back, according to Lohr, is George Blakely, a 5-10, 185-pound sophomore from St. Joseph.

The Griffons' only win this season came over Iowa Weslevan. Last Saturday they lost to Benedictine College of Atchinson, Kan. They have also been beaten by two MIAA teams, the University of Missouri -- Rolla and Northeast Missouri State University of Kirksville.

Southeast Missouri State's offense is directed by junior quarterback Rick Wieser of Topeka, Kan., who had his finest game of the season last week, completing 12 of 19 passes for 160 yards.

The top Indian running back continues to change from week - to - week, as one player, then another, has a good game. Saturday it was Anthony Wallace's turn, as the 5-11, 180-pound junior for West Palm Beach, Fla., rushed for 127 yards and one touchdown on 14 carries.

He has now gained 302 yards this season on 55 attempts. Close behind are Bobby Everage, a 5-8, 175- pound junior from Alton, Ill., with 265 yards on 47 carries and Roger Schmidt, a 5-9, 185- pound sophomore from Festus. Schmidt has rushed 43 times for 206 yards.

Junior Al Council, a 6-1, 200-pounder form Dunnellon, Fla., who has been hampered by injuries the past couple of weeks, ran only one play last week. He has gained 197 yards this season in 41 attempts.

Somewhat ironically, the Tribe's leading scorer is Mike Wood, a 6-0, 200-pound sophomore from Kirkwood. All of Wood's 34 points have come via the kicking game. He has booted 10 field goals, a school record, and four extra points.

The Indian coaching staff gives much of the credit for Wood's success to sophomore Tom Suter of St. Louis, who centers the ball on kicking attempts, and reserve quarterback Walter Denton of Oxford, Miss., who holds it.

Southeast Missouri State will be back in the northwest section of Missouri on Nov. 2 when it resumes conference play against Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville.

Hunting prospects excellent in state

Hunters in Missouri will have an excellent season in 1974 as almost all species are available.

The deer harvest for the state should top 30,000 and there were 20,000 Canada geese reported.

Rabbits are reported in better numbers than in several previous years. Squirrels are plentiful, even though nut production has been poor for a couple of years.

Missouri moves to an antlerless deer quota system for the first time on one of its deer management units. The unit, 6-A, is a new one. It is the riverbreak area of the former Unit 6 along the Missouri River in central Missouri. Compared with the rest of Unit 6, it has a high deer population and Department of Conservation deer biologists felt there could be a doe harvest there, though not in the rest of the unit.

A quota of 1,200 permits has been set, to be used by those drawn after special application. The antlerless deer permits were popular as hundreds more applications came in than the 1,200 permits available.

Too many hunters last year has resulted in a restriction at the August A. Busch Area to a quota of 500 a day, with special permits required the first three days.

There will be a primitive- weapon deer hunt added this year --- Sam A. Baker State Park. The Department of Conservation has been managing archery and antique weapon hunts in several areas for several years. All are on quota systems, by drawing.

What's the law?

The case of the big spree

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Low on funds, Georgie was low in spirits. That is until his curvy blonde girl friend happened to mention that her brother had a wad of dough stashed away in one of his drawers. Suggesting that maybe she ought to go and get it, Georgie's receptive girl friend proved to be as lightfingered as she was lightheaded.

Withing a half hour, she was back with the money. And, while they promptly took off for all the cool spots, they quickly ended up in a hot spot. His girl friend was arrested for stealing the money and Georgie was also arrested as an accomplice.

"Not me, brother," insisted Georgie in court. "I'm no accomplice. I didn't lift a finger to lift that money. My girl did it all and I was nowhere near the scene when she did it."

"Maybe not," conceded the district attorney. But Georgie surely made the scene later. He helped his girl friend spred the money around. What's more, he's the one who suggested that she steal it in the first place. That's why he's in this place and should be convicted."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE,would you convict Georgie as an accomplice?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person is an accomplice when he aids in the commission of a crime by acts or words of encouragment and provides assistance in planning the crime. To be an accomplice, noted the judge, it is not required that a person be present at the commission of the criminal act.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

No Physical Problems

Mental Stress and the Heart

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—After an examination and chest X ray, my doctor says I have "psychophysiological cardiovascular reaction with thoracic pain." Now just what is this? What nature of heart problem could this be?

Dear Reader—It wouldn't be possible for me to verify your doctor's diagnosis, and since the diagnosis is a general term, I can't be too specific. However, the term implies that he doesn't think you have any structural changes in your heart, such as hardening of the arteries or coronary artery disease or changes in the heart valve or other problems due to changes in the heart itself. Rather, he thinks whatever problems you have are related to psychological stresses. Commonly this means emotional stress and tension which, in your case, apparently causes chest pains since that's what thoracic pain means.

Not every chest pain is heart pain, and even certain irregularities of the heart can be caused by psychological stress. The medicines that you mentioned your physician has prescribed are those which are commonly used to help individuals with these types of problems, as opposed to structural changes in the heart. You should also realize that the diagnosis means that your doctor doesn't think that you have the kind of heart disease that would ordinarily cause a heart attack, heart failure, or other such problems.

Your question is an important one, and I'm personally convinced one of the aspects of treating a person with chest pain or disturbed function of the heart and circulatory system related to psychological stress is to reassure him that nothing is wrong with his heart. This helps him focus on the true problem, and helps to eliminate undue concern about the possibilities or other disastrous events which are most unlikely to occur in this setting.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can you please define the word costochondritis and explain what it is?

Dear Reader—Costo refers to the ribs. The spaces between the ribs are the intercostal spaces. The arteries along each rib are called the intercostal arteries. Chondro refers to cartilage, whether it's located in the knee or in the chest. The connections between the bony ribs and sternum are made of cartilage. The area where they join is called costochondral junctions. Whenever "itis" is used in medicine, it means inflammation.

So, simply expressed, costochondritis means inflammation where the bony ribs join the cartilage at the front of the chest along the rib cage. It can cause localized tenderness and pain. The cause for the inflammation is usually not understood and probably occurs for a variety of reasons. One of the most important points about it is to recognize that when these areas of the rib cage are involved over the front of the chest that it does not mean heart disease. Sometimes the difficulty goes away or its own and other times the area is injected with novacaine or other medicines to help relieve pain and the inflammatory reaction, if the condition is severe enough to warrant that.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state received its first official picture of the Missouri bird — the eastern bluebird -Tuesday, ending 47 years without a picture of the bird on display at the Capitol.

Bond said the print will be placed in the state museum on the first floor of the Capitol.

Martin, who painted the picture early last spring, said he discovered in April that the state was without a picture of the bluebird.

Foundation to reduce programs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One of the largest philanthropies in the nation, the Danforth Foundation, has announced that it will reduce programs planned for the fiscal year being June 1, 1975 by 12 to 15 per cent.

Gene L. Schwilck, foundation president, said Tuesday that the cuts were made necessary by the fluctuating stock market. But he said the reductions were modest in view of the current economic situation.

Schwilck said no cuts will be effected in this year's program involving some $9 million in grants, but that that amount would be reduced by about $1 million next year.

The Danforth Foundation was established in 1927 with $100,000 in shares of Ralston Purina by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth. In 1971 a large bloc was sold and the investment portfolio was diversified. Even that move left the foundation with nearly three million Ralston shares worth almost $120 million.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 24, the 297th day of 1974. There are 68 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the United Nations Charter went into force as the Soviet Union became the 29th nation to ratify it.

On this date —

In 1603, James I was proclaimed King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland.

In 1648, the Peace of Westphalia ended the Thirty Years War. European nations recognized the independence of the Netherlands.

In 1795, Poland was partitioned by Prussia, Austria and Russia.

In 1861, the first telegrams were sent across the United States.

In 1929, prices collapsed on the New York Stock exchange.

In 1952, presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower said he would go to Korea to end the Korean War if elected.

Ten years ago: The Olympics in Tokyo wound up with the U.S. winning the greatest number of gold medals, 36.

Five years ago: Troops in Lebanon clashed with demonstrators supporting anti-Israel guerrillas, and six persons were killed.

One year ago: A cease-fire between Israel and Egypt in the Yom Kippur war was in effect, but some fighting continued.

Today's birthday: Former pro football star Y.A. Tittle is 48 years old.

Thought for today: Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly well — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, American poet, 1807-1882.

Letters to Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Editor:

The U.S. Senate has once again proved that it is incapable of saying "no".

President Ford requested that a Federal payraise be delayed from October until January at the least. The payraise would cost some $700 million dollars.

Now the Senate has overridden that request, and any chance of dealing a blow to inflation (small though it is) is gone!

Our Senator Eagleton was one of those who can't say no. Though he runs around Missouri saying we'll have to cut federal spending, he votes in Washington to do the opposite. Where will it end?

Major economists have said that over spending by the U.S. is a major factor in our inflation. This year though, Big Labor and the liberal McGovern democrats seek a veto proof Congress capable of overriding any vetoes against over spending. We in Missouri have a chance to defeat such a Democrat in the person of Senator Eagleton.

His opponent Tom Curtis has a good idea for cutting Federal spending:

LOWER the salaries of Congress until the federal budget is balanced, then raise their salaries again. After all if the average housewife has to keep within her budget, why not Congress!

I might add on this subject a recent report by U.S. News & World Reports that the Senate and House are considering raising their salaries after the election.

Heaven help us!
Sincerely,
Timothy P. O'Herin

Mr. Charles L. Blanton, Jr.
The Sikeston Standard,

Dear Editor,

At various times during this past year news items have appeared concerning a "preliminary accord" reached between our State Department, and Panama, on a treaty to replace the old Canal Treaty.

This accord grants Panama increasing payments during the next few years, with a total surrender of United States sovereignty in not more than 25 years.

When Panama achieved independence fromColumbia it SOLD the land to the United States "in perpetuity." — This was an outright PURCHASE, just as was the purchase of Alaska from Russia, or the Louisiana Territory from the French.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, St. Louis, leads the opposition to this "giveaway" in the House, and our own Senator Symington has co- sponsored Senate Resolution No. 301, expressing the support of the Senate for continued U. S. sovereighty over the Canal.

It would be a very serious mistake to give the Panama Canal away, — to an unstable Government, such as Panama has — or any other for that matter. Panama has had about 59 Governments in 71 years, and between Cuba, Russia, and Panama, the Gulf might just become a Russian lake,- similar to the Mediteranean!!! Remember — when we forced France and England to give up the Suez Canal, it opened up the way for Russia to step in — with results so well known to us all.

If you agree with our thinking — why don't you let Mrs. Sullivan and Senator Symington know they have our support in their efforts to "SAVE THE CANAL."??

Respectfully,
J. Ernest Harper

Dear Sir:

This letter is a question, in fact a request, why was nothing printed in your daily paper about the attack on one of your junior high school student? ("never reported in the paper?") Since your saw fit to inform the parents of this school district that there was no trouble in the schools, only a week before the "attack" I fail to see why you never printed news of the offense. I happen to know that the incident was reported to your paper.

A student named Steve Mattison was attacked in the boys rest room on Sept. 9, 1974. As for the details you can get them from Mr. Clayton of "Sikeston Jr. High"

Mrs. Jack Mattison

Dear Mr. King,

I hope this is good enough I'm not very good at writing if it need any corrections would you'll do it. Thank you

Mrs. Jack Mattison

Dear Sir:

I wish you would have more about the election which Bruce Bissiac talks about in the year of 1974. I wish that you would have the candidates on more. I am looking forward to the congressional elections it is going to be exciting on election night. A congressional election is more exciting to me than a presidential elections. I like gubernatorial elections the best. I remember the gubernatorial election of Minnesota in 1962 when it took until May of 1973 to find out who won by recounts. I wonder how many remembers that. I wonder how many remembers Ned Breattitt in 1963 when he was on television continuously. Some times he was on all day. Why don't they have the candidates on now days. I am looking forward to the Kentucky Governors race in 1975. The race is going to be close. Here are the Democratic Hopefuls I think is going, Lt. Governor Carroll, Sec'y of State Stovall, former Democratic chairman of Kentucky and millionaire John Y. Brown, and Republican Hopefuls are Thurston Morton, Louie Newman and Tom Emberton. I am not a Kentuckian but I am interested in it. I hope that I can keep up with election like I used to. It used to be on most of the time. Those were my great days.

Yours sincerely
Alan Whitaker

Dear Mr. Blanton:

On behalf of the Butler County Democrats, may I take this opportunity to thank you for the newspaper coverage you gave us on our Ninth Annual Truman Day Rally. Since your paper has so great a circulation in Sikeston and the outlying areas, it was possible for us to reach many more democrats than we possibly could have through personal contact.

The articles preceeding the Rally most certainly helped the advance ticket sales and the summary of the event in Saturday night's paper was a good follow through on a job well done.

Dear Charlie:

This will acknowledge your letter of October 10, 1974 requesting my assistance on the I-55 and Highway HH interchange proposal.

This is to advise that I have been in touch with the Department of Transportation, the Missouri Highway Commission, and the interested citizens of Sikeston. Presently, the HIghway Commission is beginning a cost usage study in order to determine the practicability of this project.

Please be advised of my complete support for this project. I will do all in my power to secure the approval for this interchange. If I can be of further assistance to you in any way, please feel free to contact me again.

As a voter and tax payer, I resent a recent "franked" mailing I received from Candidate Thomas Eagleton.

If I had been receiving his so- called newsletters regularly for the past 4 or 5 years, I probably would not have become concerned. But here, suddenly, in the midst of a heavy campaign I get all of this "news" from Washington spelling out Eagletons great concern over rampant inflation, waste in government and on and on.

As I recall, Mr. Eagleton has rather consistently voted for more and more costly big government spending programs. Now, he gluts the overburdened mails with a piece of junk mail printed at OUR expense, to tell us that he is against all of this government spending — I don't believe it!

I became even more perturbed, over this flagrant abuse of his free mailing privilege, when I discovered how many of my friends and neighbors had also received this so called newsletter, and NEVER until now. Even worse, some got as many as 6 in the mail the same day, others, both husbands and wives. were informed that they had this delivered to addresses from which they had moved 15 or 20 years ago.

Mr. Eagleton went to the U.S. Senate, supposedly, to look out for our interests. He immediately approves a raise for U. S. Senators to $42,000 per year. During just one year of his term in office he collected another $37,000 in fees for speeches around the country. Now, he sticks us, the tax payers for a bundle of his campaign propaganda under the guise of "a report to the people of Missouri."

Eagleton says, it's time for some changes -- I agree -- out with him!

Dear Editor:

Here are some things to remember when we go to vote for or against Senator Tom Eagleton:

1. Eagleton voted to support federal controls over all privately owned land in America (S. 268).

2. Inflation. Eagleton did not bother to vote for the Byrd Amendment that would halt government's planned inflating (that is, increasing) of the amount of money in circulation.

3. Eagleton voted to support foreign aid to communist governments (Helms Amend. 199).

4. Eagleton voted to restrict the right of peaceful citizens to keep and bear arms for self protection (S. 2507).

5. Eagleton voted to support more federal controls over local schools and local children (H.R. 7016).

6. Eagleton voted to support the so- called Genocide Treaty that would permit United Nations —— jurisdiction over our U.S. Constitution.

"BETTER OR FOR WORSE"

Dear Editor:

For better or for worse, for richer or for poorer but not until death do us part. Gerald Ford is president, not by the peoples choice, but, by the choice of resigned felon Richard Nixon. Mr. Ford's payment for this back door entrance to the White House was a full pardon for Henchman Nixon, Mr. Ford's buddy, pal and dear friend.

During Mr. Ford's long career in Washington his robotic month has only spouted those words that were beneficial to his party. We do not pardon innocent people but this well established party rubber stamp has cast a large blanket of protection over his lawbreaking colleague whose name is Richard Milhouse Nixon. This action by President Ford is the greatest obstruction of Justice any one has committed in the entire watergate affiar. By so doing Mr. Ford has cheated every man, woman and child in America who believes in justice. An increase in crime in America will be understandable.

Mr. Ford's years of service in Government has never produced even the slightest hint of greatness. His I.Q. does not fit America's chair of leadership. Intelligence is not one of his proven qualities. Must we wallow in the mediocre Ford era, as we wallowed in the lawless Nixon ERA? Shouldn't America demand a new election and get rid of this lawless chain of royalty? The man who resigned because of unlawful activities is the same man who decided who our president is to-day.

Isn't it ironic the same constitution Nixon so flagrantly abused, is the same constitution that President Ford used to grant Nixon the mercy he did not deserve, and did not grant to his opposers. Shall I — Shall You — Shall We accept this type of Government, purpose and direction inf life? If you're a friend of Ford's you have nothing to fear in America do you?

The following once inspiring words now seem empty and hollow and echo mockingly as if in a giant empty chamber.

To wit: One Nation Under God, Indivisible With Liberty And Justice For All.

Legislators offer to work diligently

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — While decrying "dismal" timing, legislative leaders have promised Gov. Christopher S. Bond they will work diligently to pass needed legislation when he calls them into special session.

The prospect of a special legislative session this year became all but final Wednesday when Bond, after meeting with leading House and Senate members, said he would probably recall them to the Capitol shortly after the November election.

According to an aide, the governor is expected to make the official announcement after the Nov. 5 balloting, probably setting the date for the session for Nov. 18 or Nov. 19.

The major concern of the lawmakers will be revision of the state's 8 per cent ceiling on interest, the lowest in the nation, and possibly an emergency appropriation for some state welfare programs.

House Speaker Richard Rabbitt of St. Louis and Speaker Pro Tem Richard DeCoster of Canton both opposed the November legislative recall, claiming the usury question was too complicated to be considered in a short period by a lameduck legislature. But both pledged to work hard if the session was called.

Senate President Pro Tem William Cason of Clinton agreed the timing of the session would be bad, but offered his support to the governor.

Bond, who has announced his support for recommendations of his Consumer Affairs Chief Alfred Sikes on revision of the state interest ceiling, said the possibility of a welfare appropriations submission to the legislature during the session would depend on the results of a pending attorney general's opinion.

The governor has asked whether it would be legal to transfer funds from one budget line item to another so that the Welfare Division could transfer Medicaid payment funds to finance December's $3.8 million welfare payment bill for the aged, disabled and blind.

If those funds cannot be transferred, Bond said he would seek an appropriation of $25.9 million to finance such payments through June.

The legislative leaders agreed with the governor that the interest rate ceiling must be lifted because it is drying up the home-buying industry throughout the state.

Sikes has recommended that the lid be completely lifted on home-mortgage loans, corporate loans and business loans under $5,000 while raising the limit on other loans to 10 per cent.

On that matter, the state Supreme Court has before it a case claiming that a 1935 law exempts Federal Home Administration loans from the usury law. Should the court agree, the FHA home loan market would open up again in Missouri.

Also facing the Senate will be the confirmation of some 100 gubernatorial appointments made in the wake of state reorganization last July.

Although many of the appointments will be treated routinely, some could become controversial, including the reconfirmation of Agriculture Department Director James Boillot, who has been severely criticized by some members of the Senate Appointments Committee for his role in the leasing of the state fairgrounds for the ill-fated Ozark Music Festival last July in Sedalia.

The special legislative session in November will mark the fourth time in the last 12 months the House and Senate have returned to Jefferson City, beginning last December with a special session on state reorganization.

Man arrested in theft of quantity of hats

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department has arrested Clayton Gaines, a former employe of the International Hat Co. in Dexter in connection with the theft of a large quantity of hats from the company's plant located at 515 W. Market.

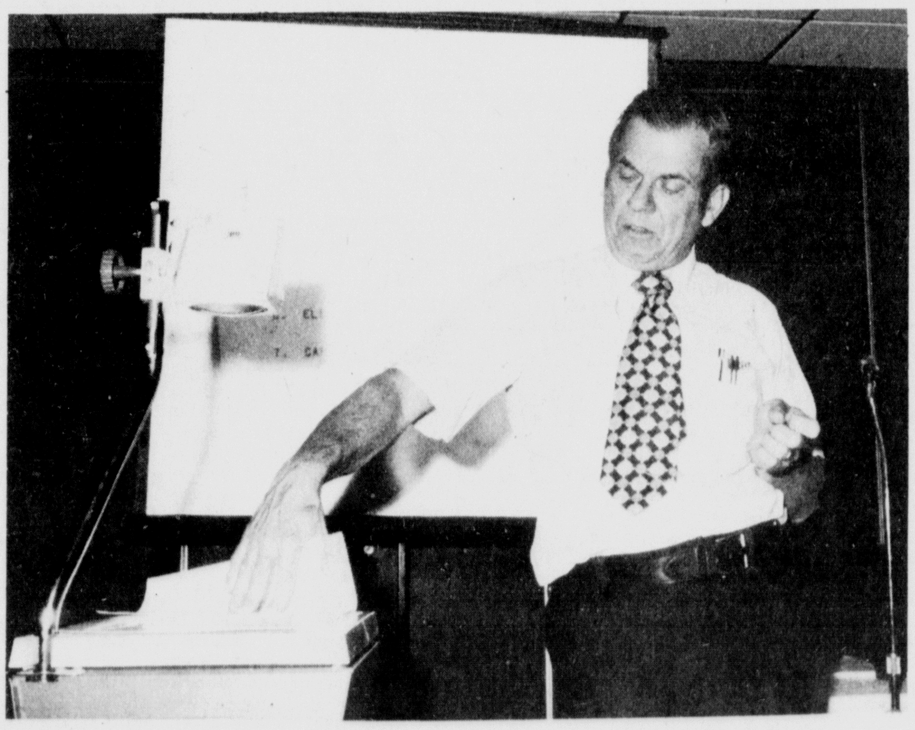
Gaines, charged with felonious stealing, was arraigned in Magistrate Court. His bond was fixed at $1,000 and his trial was set at Nov. 7.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said several dozen hats were found in Gaines' possession and that the investigation is continuing.

When asked if other employes could have been involved in the thefts, Mouser replied: "It could be that something might have developed in the investigation in the two days I was out of town, but I just don't know."

Mouser said he had been in St. Louis for the last two days.

"I just don't know how deep this investigation is going to go," Mouser said.



Co-ops serve more than members

Owen Hallberg of Washington D. C., president of the American Institute of Cooperatives and chairman of the October National Cooperative Month program, discussed ways cooperatives serve their members, communities and nation. Cooperatives not only serve farmers, but also grocery stores, news media, banks and other groups, he said.

Stratman outlines role of Co-ops

Harvey Stratman, manager of the Missouri Farmers Association fertilizer plant in Columbia, spoke to a group of cooperative leaders Wednesday at the Ramada Inn. Other cooperative leaders attending, from left, include Kenneth Swails of Jefferson City, Farmland Industries; Nelson Willingham of Mexico; Consolidated Electric Co-op; Tom Brown, University of Missouri - Columbia; and Gene Talley, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

MATTHEWS — City voters will cast ballots Nov. 5 on two bond issue proposals totaling $250,000 for funds to construct a city sewage system in a special election scheduled to coincide with the general election.

Proposition No. 1 calls for the issuance of $100,000 in general obligation bonds which would be repaid by taxes levied against real estate and personal property.

The second proposal, for $150,000 in revenue bonds, would be repaid with revenue from operation of the sewage

Burn victim dies

ST. LOUIS — William L. Franklin Jr., 18, of Cairo, Ill., died at 5:30 a.m. today at the burn unit of St. John's Hospital.

He was critically burned Tuesday night in a gasoline tank explosion and fire at the Illinois Waterways Oil Co. terminal on Route K near the Birds Point Community.

The body will be taken to Crain Funeral Home in Cairo Arrangements are incomplete.

Fertilizer demand up 10%

Cooperatives are meeting the challenge of supplying fertilizers to the American farmer, according to Harvey Stratman, manager of the Missouri Farmers Association fertilizer plant in Columbia.

Stratman made the statement at a National Cooperative Month meeting of 50 representatives of Southern Missouri farm cooperatives Wednesday at Ramada Inn.

Unlike private plants, cooperatives do not make fertilizer for the lucrative overseas market, he said. Their fertilizer is produced strictly for American use.

Stratman said the spot shortages of fertilizer will continue in areas where companies shut down small, less profitable plants.

Consumption of fertilizer this year was up 10 per cent from last year, he said, and demand is expected to grow. Supply will also grow, he said, but is expected to be four or five per cnet short of demand.

Two- thirds of the shortage will be in nitrogen, he said.

"Today's export prices are about double what we get here in the United States. Fertilizers are being exported in large amounts, but the 1974 figures actually show a decline from the previous year," Stratman said.

The Arab oil boycott caused higher fuel prices, according to Kenneth Swails of Farmland Industries who

Sikeston to offer Value Day

The Sikeston Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday and agreed to sponsor a promotional campaign called Sikeston Value Day on the second Wednesday of each month.

The campaign was approved during a dinner meeting attended by over 100 merchants in the high school cafetorium.

On each Sikeston Value Day, merchants will feature sales and specials on their products in an effort to draw customers into Sikeston from other communities.

The campaign will feature heavy newspaper and radio advertising with some television advertisements.

The promotional effort will last for one year initially and, if successful, will be extended.

The second Wednesday of each month was chosen because it is near pay day of a majority of customers and Wednesday's are traditionally slow sales days.

Stress tester is potential lifesaver

By TIM LUDWIG

Missouri Delta Community Hospital has added another potential lifesaver to its facilities.

Stress testing equipment was received by the hospital about one month ago and has since been used to test the heart functions of all of the staff of doctors there.

The principle behind the stress test is to increase the heart rate by moderate exercise until a level is reached where, according to a person's age, the heart is working hard enough to show any irregularities that would not otherwise be found in the more common electro- cardiogram. The test can also be used to find the level of a person's physical conditioning to determine if more exercise may be needed.

Stress testing is conducted at the Sikeston hospital by having the subject walk on a treadmill that adjusts to speeds of from one to 10- miles- per-hour. When a heart rate, determined for the subject's age from charts compiled by the American Heart Association has been reached, careful checks are made to find any irregularities in heart function that could indicate damage or blockage to the coronary arteries.

Should the test show potential damage, the subject would be referred to a surgical test where dyes would be introduced into the coronary arterial system and x- rays made to pinpoint the damage site. Following a positive location, medication or surgery could be the next step.

The 45- minute test is available to the public at the hospital, but a patient must be referred by his personal physician before being accepted. A doctor is present at all times during the test to

Legality of extradition agreement questioned

By RON JAYNES

JEFFERSON CITY — A question has been raised about the legality of Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond's acceptance of extradition stipulations announced by Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller's office Wednesday in relation to Dr. Norman Asa Garrison Jr. of Corinth, Miss., a spokesman for the Missouri governor's office said today.

Waller announced Wednesday that he would allow Dunklin County authorities to return the former Kennett doctor to their county to face first-degree murder charges in connection with the Sept. 8 death of his ex- wife, Lee Ann Garrison, if Bond would agree to an "irrevocable bond setting."

Many lawyers in both states have claimed that neither governor has the power to agree to such an arrangement, saying the setting of bonds is done by the courts and is a judicial matter.

The governor's office is a completely different branch of the government, they say, although he does have the power to grant full pardons.

A spokesman in the Missouri governors office said today that Missouri Attorney General John C. Danforth would be asked for his legal opinion of the 'stipulation' when the proper papers are received from Mississippi.

Since the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that there are no longer capital crimes, which once stipulated that person or persons charged with such offenses would be denied bail or bond, it would seem that Garrison would be elibible for bond, if he returned— the amount of which would be set by the Dunklin County courts.

Attorneys in both states have indicated their doubts that an agreement of the sort set forth by the Mississippi governor would be binding.

Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker continued the silence he has maintained throughout the case today when he told The Daily Standard he had no comment on the governor's decision.

Baker did, however, indicate that bond has been set at $25,000.

"I have had no official word on the agreement," Baker said.

Missouri authorities want to prosecute Garrison for the Sept. 8 murder of his former wife, whose body was found beaten and shot in her Kennett, Mo., home.

Garrison contends that, as his lawyer argued in a closed extradition hearing, he can produce witnesses who will swear that he was in Mississippi when the slaying happened.

Garrison's lawyer, John Hopkins of Corinth, said he did not expect to appeal the extradition ruling, which Waller stressed did not determine Garrison's guilt or innocence.

"There is a serious conflict of evidence in this case, and considering this and the welfare of scores of patients of Dr. Garrison I feel that he should remain free on bond," Waller said.

"No official action will be taken on the extradition until action is first taken by the governor of Missouri," said Waller, who said an executive agreement could insure Garrison's freedom on bond.

THE NEED FOR SOUND MONEY

The defiant reaction of the oil producers to the new U.S. hard line talk on petroleum prices, the continuing plunge in the stock market, the meetings of Western foreign and finance ministers at Camp David, and the babble of conflicting, often angry, opinions and prescriptions at the economic summit conference in Washington — all emphasize and reemphasize the point that our country and much of the rest of the world is now in a crisis far grimmer and more potentially dangerous than anything the current generation has faced in its lifetime.

It is not overstating the matter to say that the whole free enterprise system is at stake.

Senator Mike Mansfield spoke truly when he said, "Inflation has turned the world of the past two decades upside down ... words will no longer satisfy the nation. Inflation is social dynamite ... recession is social dynamite ... the divisions among people, among societies, among nations, are on the rise. They will not wait for the 'self- adjusting' mechanisms of the economy to self- adjust."

If inflation continues, and even accelerates, which is quite possible, the tinder of social revolution will soon be present. History teaches us that the impoverishment of the middle class leads them to turn in almost any direction for relief. The "man on horseback," be he of the left or right, finds that his time has come.

The President has vowed to fight inflation on all fronts. Well and good. But public disillusionment with economists and politicians alike runs very deep. What evidence can they give us that they understand how we got into this awful mess in the first place or that they will exercise the necessary wisdom and discipline to get us out of it?

The answer, we believe, lies in the restoration of sound money. One way or the other we must reestablish public confidence in the value of money — not fiat money printed at will by politicians responding to political pressures, but money linked to a real standard of value, such as gold.

The "New Economics" philosophers, to be sure, scoff at gold as a "barbarous relic" of the past. But they also promised us no more recessions. They should depart the scene in disgrace, for they have failed us. Restoration of a gold standard will not alone save us, but without it, and the fiscal discipline that it imposes, there is not much chance that anything else will do the trick.

Spring comes again

Now the fairest season of them all, Spring, is about to take its place in the turn of the seasons. This year it is due to arrive officially on March 20 at precisely 7:22 a.m., EST. As the sun moves further into the northern latitudes, it will bring with its warmth the flights of migratory birds, the greenness of new grass and the sound of new life quickening all around us. The sweetness of early flowers will be with us again. The freshness of the earth and warming air will be a reminder that with allittle luck, a reasonable amount of goodwill toward his fellows and a lot of hard work, man should be able to preserve this beautiful planet on which he lives.

From the earliest scratchings in which his thoughts were set down on stone or clay, man has expressed his feelings of encouragement and faith in a new beginning that is associated with the coming of Spring. In this year of 1972, we, as a people, need much faith, and we need confidence in our own ability to bring the light of new reason and persuasion to bear on old problems as we seek to end a war, to talk with our enemies, to guide our nation through the search for greater individual security and

Governor Christopher Bond, who has never been associated with Missouri politics until a very few years ago, may be finding out that statements made at random sometimes come back to haunt one in the great game of politics.

Back in the year of 1970, Christopher Bond was State Auditor. He apparently had some great thoughts on the office he held. And next to having his picture taken, Missouri's millionaire Governor likes best to see his name in print. So here is what he had to say in 1970. Read these direct quotes from him:

In the Kansas City Star on Apr. 23, 1970, State Auditor Bond had this to say. "The citizens of Missouri have just as much right to ask that their State Auditor be someone who is not linked by tradition and party loyalty to the State Administration."

Then in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat of Oct. 17-18, State Auditor Bond had this to say: "To supervise and direct the operation of the Auditor's office requires men with education and training in accounting. Until we bring in these qualified professionals at the top levels, Missouri will continue to be saddled with horse and buggy audits."

In the same St. Louis Globe- Democrat on Oct. 3-4, State Auditor Bond had these words of wisdom: "This is one of the most sensitive posts in state government. The framers of the Constitution set it up as the only high elective office to come before the voters in the off years.

"It was good reasoning. They did not want this office to be pushed down on the ballot in the regular election years so it would receive an automatic vote. They did not want the Auditor riding in on the coattails of the administration in power. They wanted it independent."

So what happens? The Attorney General of Missouri, John C. Danforth, is the campaign manager for George Lehr's opponent for State Auditor. And Mrs. Christopher Bond reportedly is spending these final days of the campaign in behalf of George Lehr's opponent.

And to cap it all off, back on Nov. 5, 1970, State Auditor Bond was quoted in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat as saying: "I have no other plans. I plan to serve out my four-year term as State Auditor."

Mr. Bond served one-half of his term, then made the race for Governor. Go back over his views and statements on the office of Auditor.

HATCHET-MEN FOR HIRE

Laudatory campaign biographies are a standard feature of the American political scene. Most of them are produced as part of a candidate's campaign literature and are understood by reviewers and the public to be inspired political propaganda.

The unfriendly campaign biography is less common, and may become rarer now that the circumstances surrounding a biography of Arthur Goldberg have been revealed. Victor Lasky was commissioned by Laurance Rockefeller to do the book on Goldberg to undercut Goldberg's chances of defeating Nelson Rockefeller in the 1970 New York gubernatorial race. Laurance Rockefeller secretly put up $60,000 to produce and distribute the work, which was a typical Lasky- style hatchet-job on the former U.S. Supreme Court justice.

The book created little stir and had no impact on the election, which Rockefeller won handily. But the $60,000 was spent with the intention of having the biography widely circulated. readers were given no inkling that it was inspired and paid for by the Rockefellers and were misled into believing it was the work of an independent journalist.

It's disturbing to find the Rockefeller family involved in this sort of deception. The Rockefellers have a well-earned reputation for good works and rectitude. The deal with Lasky is out of character from what is publicly known about the family and seems more in keeping with the "dirty tricks" of the Nixon administration.

Nelson Rockefeller initially stated that he had no knowledge of how the book was financed or of his brother's part in the episode. Later he admitted that the book project had been called to his attention during the campaign and he said he took responsibility for it. Nelson Rockefeller's association with the enterprise is one of the things Congress will have to investigate as it examines his fitness to be vice-president.

Also worth examining by a committee of Congress concerned with campaign financing are the circumstances surrounding the production of political books. The hatchet-job on Goldberg during the 1970 election is similar to the hatchet-job Lasky did on John F. Kennedy prior to the 1964 election ("J.F.K. — The Man and the Myth"). If this and other books on political figures were bought and paid for by persons or groups with political axes to grind, the public was never told.

The involvement of the Rockefellers in such seamy business makes us wonder how common it is. Perhaps a truth-in- labeling law is needed on the financing of political books.

U. S. SENATE FLUNKS ANTI-INFLATION TEST

By a 64- to - 35 vote, the United Senate on Sept. 19 rejected President Ford's first attempt to back up his anti-inflation talk with action. Despite their publicly stated agreement with the argument that the high rate of government spending is a major cause of the inflation which now undermines the nation's economy, nearly two-thirds of the members of the Senate refused to go along with Ford's decision to cut federal spending by $700 million through a simple three- month delay in pay raises for federal employes.

Despite campaign- year talk in favor of reduced federal spending and the need to balance the federal budget, a majority of senators decided that they would cast their lot, not with the silent majority of Americans fed up with government- induced inflation, but with the federal employe unions' special interest lobbies, which have more political clout in Washington.

If it is not possible to defer, let alone cancel, a federal employe pay raise of less than a billion dollars, how can we possibly expect Congress to marshal the courage to take tough steps needed to reduce multi- billion- dollar spending for programs dominated by other politically potent special interest groups?

Will "welfare rights" organizations tolerate cutbacks in welfare spending? Will the National Education Association allow reductions in the $25.4- billion education authorization? Will veterans' groups sit still for any lessening of veterans' benefits? Where will Congress have the courage to cut?

The most common argument uttered by senators seeking to justify their votes was that it would be "unfair" to single out federal employes as the ones obligated to hold the line against inflation. But if Congress does not start someplace, no beginning will ever be made. Every cut, after all, will "hurt" someone. And there is no better place to start than with the federal bureaucracy, whose employes enjoy an extraordinarily high degree of job security and fringe benefits.

For example, starting professional salaries for some newly graduated college alumni are $12,167 for GS-9's. Even those bureaucrats at the GS-12 level are now able to receive salaries in excess of $20,000 a year (after virtually automatic-promotions to step 6 in the federal pay scale). Thirty-thousand- dollar incomes are widely available for employes GS-14 and up, while the top career income of $36,000 a year is now enjoyed by thousands of federal officials.

All of these bureaucrats can be enrolled to receive liberal, government subsidized health and life insurance benefits and are part of an extremely generous retirement system. Overall fringe benefits have risen 147 per cent since 1968, while pay jumped 45 per cent from fiscal 1968 to fiscal 1973.

The fact is that the muscle of the government employe unions may produce at the polls for the senators who did their bidding, but special interest politics will not reduce the double- digit inflation for which all Americans must pay.

NEEDY CANDIDATES

According to the word we get, candidates for public office this fall are running into some hard financial facts of life.

Political fund- raisers, especially for state offices and Congress, say that because of Watergate, new campaign reform laws and a sluggish economy, money to run campaigns is getting tougher to raise.

What's more, the money that can be raised doesn't go as far as it used to -- due to inflation.

Mexico Oil Strike

Offshore oil reserves reportedly larger than Alaska's are believed to lie along Mexico's gulf coast. That good news, if translated into production, could increase healthy competition among oil-exporting nations.

It should be remembered that Mexico once had a booming oil industry, until a revolutionary government expropriated the property of U.S. oil "exploiters." Mexico found that its "nationalized" government- operated oil industry fell far behind in exploration, production and refining, both in quality and quantity.

As the Alaska discoveries proved, the finding of oil and gas does not automatically mean quick production of fuel oil, electric power, or gasoline. Evidence of huge offshore reserves along our own east coast has been apparent for years, awaiting only exploration and production.

In a few years the oil industry probably will be assailed by charges conceived by some candidate or congressional committee that oil companies "hid" knowledge of the U.S. east coast oil in order to raise prices. The fact is that, through action by federal, state and local government agencies, exploratory drilling along the east coast is prohibited.

If Mexico had not inhibited enterprising U.S. oil men years ago through expropriation, no doubt that nation would by now be reaping a profit harvest comparable to that of the Arab nations-- all from discoveries by U.S. oil men. As it is, neither Mexico nor an energy-hungry world will fully benefit for a decade or more. The very poor of Mexico could well use that income now. HLH

WASHINGTON -- "October," my friend Sedgewicke told me as we sat on a street curb, "is absolutely the best month for poor people."

"How's that?" I asked him.

"It's just before election time, and all the politicians need us. Everyone promises that if he is elected he's going to do something for the poor. Of course, they don't, but it gives you a real warm feeling to hear everyone takling about you. Do you know that I've shaken hands with three congressional candidates, had my picture taken witn an incumbent mayor, been interviewed on televeision with a guy running for governor, and they told me if I sit here today I might wind up in a TV commercial for a senator up for re- election?"

"Doesn't it get you angry that they use you just for election purposes?"

"I should say not," Sedgewicke replied. "I don't have anything to do and, I'll be honest with you, I like the excitement of a political campaign. A lot of poor people resent politicians coming into the neighborhood just before election time with their campaign managers and busloads of press. But I don't feel that way. I figure we're a very important part of the democratic process. If it weren't for us, politicians would have a tough time getting on TV. Have you ever seen a candidate talking to a rich person on television?"

"I must say, Sedgewicke, you have a good attitude. If I were poor, I would be very bitter about the politicians in this country."

"What is there to be bitter about?" Sedgewicke said. "If it weren't for poor people, the rest of the country wouldn't know how well off they were. No matter how bad things get, the politicians can always point to us and say that a majority of the people in this country really have never had it so good. Would you like a piece of my stale roll?"

"No thank you, Sedgewicke."

"The only thing that disturbs me," he said, "is that there are a lot more people now, and we're not as much a novelty as we were in previous elections. They also have us broken down in categories. Before if you were poor- you were just poor. Now you're competing with people who are 'economically disadvantaged,' 'culturally deprived,' 'senior citizens' and 'oppressed minorities.' Just yesterday a guy running for police chief came in the neighborhood, and I was about to shake hands with him for a TV station when his press representative pushed me aside and said they wanted the candidate to be filmed shaking hands with a black. Now I have nothing against blacks, but I don't think they should get priority when it comes to having their pictures taken with a guy running for chief of police. That's what you call poverty discrimination."

As we were talking, we heard a loudspeaker on a car. "Here comes the senator," Sedgewicke said as he got and brushed himself off. "Well, I've got to go to work."

"How do you know he'll stop here?" I asked.

"It's in front of a supermarket. All the candidates are doing supermarkets this year."

Sure enough, the car stopped right in front of us, and the candidate got out.

"Aren't you going to shake hands with him?" I whispered.

"Not until the TV guys are set up," Sedgewicke replied. "Most poor people don't have enough sense to wait until the press get out of their bus. Okay, they're ready now. Senator, what are you going to do about us poor people?" Sedgewicke shouted.

The senator put his arm around Sedgewicke and looked into the cameras, "I'm glad you asked me that. As you know, I have always been concerned about the cruel proverty in this great country of ours and..."

I started to walk away and Sedgewicke, grinning, yelled after me, "Don't forget to watch the 6 o'clock news."

White House Tightens Security

WASHINGTON-- Less than three months after President Ford promised he would ran an open White House, he vetoed a Freedom of Information bill, which would have given the public more access to government documents.

The veto was accompanied by a move inside the White House to tighten security clearances. A memo, intended for the eyes only of staff chief Donald Rumsfeld, called for establishing procedures "to ensure that only cleared personnel deal with national security materials."

The memo proposed "a system," which would "continually verify" the tight security. It was necessary, stressed the memo, "to be certain that no one who has access to national security matters is not properly cleared."

Both the veto and the security crackdown are intended to protect diplomatic and military secrets, a White House spokesman explained.

Of course, we don't wish to jeopardize the nation's security. But in the past, our leaders have used security regulations to censor the news and protect themselves. They have swept their blunders and embarrassments, their inefficiency and corruption under the secrecy stamp.

There are surprisingly few documents that must be kept secret in the interest of national security. The number doesn't even begin to approach the 20 million documents and papers that the government hides from the people.

President Ford, who started his presidency with such openness, has been listening lately to Henry Kissinger. The Secretary of State gets highly excitable over news leaks, which he fears could hamper his personal diplomacy.

His howls about leaks helped to stimulate the wiretaps and other excesses of the Nixon Administration. Now he is again in an uproar over leaks. He is particularly upset over our stories, quoting from secret documents on the Cyprus crisis and African policy.

On October 7, he slashed cable distribution to the various bureaus. The European Affairs Bureau, for example, was cut from 30 to six copies of incoming cables. This was accompanied by a strict warning not to circumvent the limitation by Xeroxing secret cables.

Top aides have also been making the rounds to discuss the leaks and to impress on the underlings how much Kissinger detests them.

"It's the old Nixon paranoia," one State Department official told us. "The Secretary believes we're all out to get him. He runs foreign affairs like a mid- 19th century German diplomat."

Footnote: It should be added, of course, that Kissinger's diplomatic style continues to produce amazing results.

PENTAGON BLUES: The most dreaded word in the bureaucratic language, "Rif," is now being whispered in the backrooms of the Pentagon. Rif means reduction- in- force.

Pentagon planners believe it will take a drastic Rif to keep the defense budget within acceptable limits. The stark fact is that the inflationary squeeze has sent weapons costs skyrocketing. Inflation has already robbed this year's defense budget of a staggering $6 billion in purchasing power.

In modern warfare, the Pentagon chiefs believe, machines are more important than men. A B- 1 bomber, for example, will cost $76 million instead of the $46 million that was originally forecast. To maintain our arsenal, therefore, they must make drastic savings elsewhere.

A gigantic Rif, they fear, is inevitable. They are quietly preparing contingency plans that could reduce captains, majors and lieutenant colonels to noncommissioned officers.

"It will be (expletive deleted) bloody," one general told us.

WATCH ON WASTE: The armed forced are short of doctors to take care of legitimate military patients. Yet in our military hospitals, surgeons perform hundreds of face- lifts each year to beautify military wives, and the taxpayers pick up the doctor bills.

Air Force surgeons alone performed 141 face- lifts last year. The number of beauty operations was even higher in the other armed services. A Pentagon spokesman explained that the face- lifts are permitted only when "space and time allow." Each plastic surgeon is required "to maintain a degree of competency in this area," a spokesman said.

BRASS RING: A brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry- go- Round, goes to Missouri's Attorney General John Danforth.

In behalf of the state, he recently filed suit against Ralston- Purina for alleged price- fixing. Danforth's grandfather founded Ralston-Purina, his father was chairman of the board and two brothers now serve on the board. Danforth's own assets consist primarily of Ralston- Purina stock, which he placed in a blind trust when he entered public service.

Although it could hurt his own financial interest, Danforth said he would follow the recommendations of the chief prosecutor on the case.

Inside Labor

Hospitals New Target: Rival Unions' Organizers Launch Massive Drives To Sign Up 3 Million Health Workers

NEW YORK -- Men -- and women -- in white, scores of thousands of them black, are on the march in sweeping drives to unionize hospitals, nursing homes and health services across the land.

They are newly union-conscious interns. They are residents. Even veteran doctors. But mostly they are about a million nurses and uncounted legions of skilled and semi- skilled workers who clean toilets, mop floors or assista as technicians in operating rooms.

Within a year or two, few major communities will be immune to organizers of the "Martin Luther King, Jr." National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees (1199); the Laborers' International Union; the Service Employees International Union; the State, County and Municipal Employees; the Teamsters, wven the Operating Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Though few have threaded the hospital crises on one string of reports, serious strike threats have affected 337 institutions, according to federal mediation director Bill Usery. But it's merely the beginning. The field is vast. There are some 1.7 million workers in 4,000 private (voluntary) and proprietary hospitals. There are another 1.3 million in some 18,000 nursing homes and more in special health facilities.

Since there are few services in any town more vital than hospitals and clinics, the union which juggernauts to massive control of the majority of the nation's health care workers will be one of the labor movement's most powerful forces.

It is a seething, restless field. Its impact on we, the people, can be awesome. Depends on your pocketbook. Already hospital rooms in New York go for more than $220 a day. And some cost far more. It's just the beginning. Porters and other "unskilled" hospital workers now get about $181 a week. This increases to an average of $210 a week next year. Some hospitals face bankruptcy. Some huge health complexes such as Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and Mount Sinai run multi-million- dollar deficits and some now dig into endowments.

The pendulum has swung too hard, too swiftly, too costly from the days, not too long ago, when hospital workers were getting $50 and $60 a week, working long hours and were subject to the starched whims of nurses, supervisors and the elitixm of doctors, especially surgeons.

Now the competing unions outbid each other in their drives to win thyloyalty of workers. Health could price itself out of the market unless there is reason. Or it could bankrupt labor- management welfare funds. Or inflate prices in huge industridwhich spend billions of dollars on health coverage for workers during each contract period.

Most dramatic of the pile-driving organizing unions is the "mother" organization of 1199s-- the National Union of Hospitals. It is headquartered there on West 43rd Street. Since it was launched late in 1973 at a convention addressed by Mrs. (Coretta) Martin Luther King, Jr., and the Farm Workers' Cesar Chavez, it is pushing out of its Northeastern and New York enclaves.

Though its president is the vetran Leon Davis -- whose militant uproarious hospital strikes opened the field here (with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's help) back in the '60s, the new dynamo is executive vice president and national director Elliott Godoff. He's like a progessional gambler. He never takes chances. Not until he has 65 per cent of a hospital force signed up does he call for an NLRB election (now legal since Aug. 25 in the private hospital field under a National Labor Relations Act amendment signed by Dick Nixon on July 26).

His union has some 80,000 to 100,000 members. It has called for elections involving 15,000 more health workers. And has some 10,000 signed membership cards waiting offstage.

This union is blazing through West Virginia and across Pennsylvania. It has opened fronts in 197 states reaching to the West Coast. It hasN.t sent its flying squads into hospital administrators' offices as it did in New York just a few months ago. Nor has it run the kind of strike which gained it national attention in Charleston, S.C. But it is moving and is bigger now than its national affiliate, the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (AFL-CIO).

Not far behind, though more traditional in its organizing tactics, is the (Building) Service Employees union led by George Hardy. He's less dramatic. He's pushing on a wide front and not too long ago hit hard in San Francisco. And AFL-CIO vice president Peter Fosco, president of the Laborers' INternational, has told his people they're in the hospital field to stay.

At this moment there are critical pre- strike one- man inquiry boards attempting to head off the shutting down f 19 hospitals. But don't get the impression that only the "workers" are tough. Those ladies in white who've movd their national American Nurses Assn. to Kansas City (Mo.) are just as tough, perhaps tougher. They clobbered hospitals in San Francisco. It is they who proved that hospitals no longer are sacrosanct. They walked out of virtually all hospital departments in recent strikes.

New costs, under new contracts, iwll be gargantuan. I asked the director of one of the nation's biggest hospitals: "how will you survive?" He reported, "We'll survive. We will do what they do in the construction industry -- pass it along, friend, just pass the costs along. Health can't go out of business."

So don't anybody get sick. You can't afford it.

Railroad hearing set

SCOTT CITY — A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday on a proposal to close two railroad crossings in the city and to install warning lights and gates at three others.

Moves to install adequate gates and warning devices at crossings in the city were undertaken some months ago by citizens who said numerous fatalities at the crossings could have been prevented had warning lights and gates been in service.

At a meeting Monday night, the City Council heard a suggestion from the Cotton Belt Railroad that approximately $14,000 in additional costs to upgrade safety at the three crossings should be equally borne by the city and the railroad.

C. C. Mitchell, a railroad official, said in a written statement that the cost of installing warning devices at Louie and Daugherty streets is greater than at Oak Street because approach circuits extend beyond the south switch of double tracks at the crossings, requiring additional circuitry.

There is a 90-10 cost agreement, with the state of Missouri paying 90 per cent of $29,920, for the Oak street crossing. The railroad's share would be $3,240. At Daugherty street, a cost of $33,870 would be borne by the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad, and the city would finance the $37,860 necessary for work at the Louie street crossing.

Mitchell said that if the city and state agree to shoulder their cost for installation, agree to close the two remaining crossings and agree to repeal any ordinance regulating speed of trains going through the city, the work can be done.

There is an ordinance that regulates speed of trains passing through Scott City at 10 miles per hour.

Mayor Cliff Campbell said he would recommend that trains be allowed to travel through town at a speed no faster than 30 miles per hour, which is the same speed limit set for highway traffic coming through the city.

The council approved Campbell's suggestion, and voted to close the Delmar and Crites street crossings. Tom Arnold, city attorney, was instructed to apply to the Missouri Public Service Commission for elimination of the crossings.

The council will also meet with Joe L. Cassidy, a representsative of the Missouri Safer Roads Committee, to seek information on funding for the project.

Auto destroyed by fire

Fire destroyed an automobile on Highway 60 at the Interstate 55 interchange about 11:25 p.m. Wednesday, according to the fire department.

The car was owned by Charles Fisher of Pool, Ky., and was pulling a rental trailer filled with the family's possessions. Firemen said the trailer was saved.

Fisher told firemen the fire started in the back seat of the car. He said he smelled smoke and stopped the car. As he pulled the back seat out of the car, the flames erupted and spread through the car.

A passing truck driver used his citizens band radio to call a CB operator in Sikeston, who called the fire department.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer said the fire probably started when sparks from cigarette tossed out the window blew into the car and smoldered in the back seat.

Sikeston man to be honored

Tom Roberts of Sikeston and Haywood Snipes of Poplar Bluff will be honored at the 47th annual meeting of the Easter Seal Society of Missouri in Cape Girardeau Friday and Saturday.

The meeting, which is expected to attract delegates from throughout the state, will begin at 3 p.m. Friday with an open house at the Southeast Missouri Regional Easter Seal Center and school, 316 South Plaza Way in Cape Girardeau.

Curtis Ballenger of Chicago, Ill., consultant with the national society and former executive director of the Tennessee Easter Seal Society, will speak at a dinner at 7 Friday night at the Holiday Inn, meeting headquarters.

Roberts is chairman for 14 Southeast Missouri counties for the Paducah, Ky., Lions Club Telethon for crippled children. Snipes, who serves on the board of directors for the Easter Seal Center in Cape Girardeau, has also done extensive work with the telethon.

The LaFemme Club of Kennett will also be honored for its work in sponsoring the Dunklin County Easter Seal Society.

There will be a panel discussion Saturday morning on the topic "What do we do for the handicapped." Serving on the panel will be regional directors from various parts of Missouri. They are Mrs. Rebecca Andrews, Southeast Missouri regional director and director of the center here; John Farnham, Jefferson City; Rex Henderson, Springfield; Conrad Fassold, Kansas City and Dan Henroid, St. Louis.

Keynote speaker at a noon luncheon Saturday will be Harold Kuehle, past president of the Southeast Missouri area. His speech will deal with hiring the handicapped on a state and local level.

Well baby clinic set at Risco

RISCO — The New Madrid County Health Center, in cooperation with Delta Area economic Opportunity Corporation, will hold a well baby clinc from 9 a.m. to noon Nov. 7 in the Farmers State Bank meeting room. A doctor will be present to give immunization shots.

Felts receives ASCAP awards in Nashville

MALDEN — Narvel Felts of Malden won four American Society for Composers, Authors and Publishers awards last week at the National Country Music Association awards dinner in Nashville, Tenn.

Felts had four of his recordings listed on the national charts for at least 10 weeks. They were: "All in the Name of Love", "When Your Good Love Was Mine", "Till the End of Time" and "I Want to Stay".

He won an award in 1973 for his song, "Drift Away".

Felts also was among the top 10 best- selling recording artists in the nation. Charlie Rich was first and Felts ranked 10th. Also, he was one of three to have five recordings listed on the national charts. The other two were Rich and Don Williams.

His recording of "Rain Drops" now ranks 34th nationally and he has two albums on the national charts.

Felts continues to rise in popularity and is ranked fifth on Record World's most promising recording artist list, and he and Sharon Vaughn won an award for the most promising duo of the year.

Jaycees plan shopping streak

The Sikeston Jaycees are planning a "Shopping Streak" contest for grocery shoppers in and around the Sikeston area, it was announced today by Clayton Vandivort and David Shy, co-chairmen of the project.

The "Shopping Streak" will be held from Oct. 18, to Nov. 10. Tickets can be purchased at all the participating grocery stores.

Each ticket has a stub which is numbered. People should keep their ticket stub until the drawing is held after the Nov. 10 deadline.

The number of that ticket will be published in the Daily Standard and announced on both Sikeston radio stations on Nov. 11, 12, and 13. The person holding the winning ticket, and presenting it to the Jaycees before midnight Nov. 15 will be entitled to the grand prize.

The ticket holder may then pick the participating store of his or her choice for the "Shopping Streak". The winner will be allowed three minutes to carry all grocery or food products to the front checkout stand, exluding tobacco and liquor items. All these grocers will be paid for by the Sikeston Jaycees.

There will also be a number of consolation prizes awarded by drawing other tickets. The exact number of these prizes is determined by the number of contributing stores in Sikeston. The Jaycees will publsh every two or three days the total number of tickets sold and other information relating to the "Shopping Streak". Proceeds from the "Shopping Streak" will be used to purchase toys for needy children for the Sikeston Jaycee Tree of Lights Campaign, which is a Jaycee annual project. These toys will be delivered to the needy children on Dec. 24, Christmas Eve day.

In candlelight ceremony

Miss Gray, Rowe united

First Christian Church was the setting on Sept. 28 at a 7 p.m. candlelightwedding ceremony uniting Margaret Jane Gray and Trent Martin Rowe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gray, 527 Montgomery St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy F. Rowe of Blytheville, Ark.

A double- ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Walker before an altar adorned with an arch candelabrum holding 15 glowing tapers and flanked by tree candelabras entwined with greenery. Arrangements of bronze and yellow mums completed the decorations.

Organist Dan Malone provided pre- nuptial music selected by the bride and groom.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a formal gown of white polyester crepe. The empire waist accented with a self- band and bow featured a V-neckline and long full sleeves, banded by lace and self- ruffles. The A-line skirt, which swept into a chapel-length train, was encircled by a band of lace and ruffles.

The veil, designed and made by the bride's mother, was fingertip length of white illusion edged with lace. It fell from a headpiece of stephanotis and pearls. The lace of the veil and gown were hand re- embroidered with seed pearls. The bride also wore a diamond ring which belonged to her great grandmother.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow rosebuds, white gardenias and baby's breath.

Miss Mary Waldman of Sikeston was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Juli Tanner and Miss Jamie Beaird of Sikeston and Mrs. Cheryl Parks of Jonesboro, Ark.

The bride's attendants wore identically styled formal- length gowns of crepe- back satin with long fitted sleeves and V-necklines with collars edged in white lace.

Miss Waldman's gown was a grayish- green, and the bridesmaids wore the same color with tiny white dots. They wore white picture hats trimmed with wide bands and bows to match their gowns. Each carried a buttercup arrangement of white, yellow and bronze daisies accented with grayish-green velvet ribbon.

The groom chose Gerald Hancock of Blytheville as best man. Groomsmen were Frank Rowe, brother of the groom, and David Wooten and Scott Galently of Blytheville.

The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with satin lapels and bow ties, mint green ruffled shirts and yellow daisy boutonnieres, with the exception of the groom and father of the bride. They wore tuxedos with black- velvet lapels and bow ties, white ruffled shirts and yellow rosebud boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a formal- length gown of aqua polyester knit with silver trim. The groom's mother wore a gown of pink polyester knit. Each wore a corsage of white daisies.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was overlaid with white satin cloth and draped with white net secured with white satin bows at each end and the center.

A three- tiered wedding cake, topped with white, yellow and bronze daisies graced the center of the table. The bottom tier held four small arrangements of daisies in baskets. Ivy and daisies encircled the base. Silver candelabra, holding five white tapers, flanked the cake. A crystal punch bowl and silver coffee- service were at each end, and crystal compotes holding the nuts and mints completed the table arrangements.

Mrs. Marvine Ellison and Mrs. Jackie King of Sikeston were table hostesses. Servers were Mrs. Jana McGill of Liberty; Mrs. Ann Gray of Columbus, Ohio, sister- in-law of the bride; and Mrs. Sondra Armour of Sikeston.

Mrs. Julia Fansler attended the guestbook.

Misses Andrea and Jennifer King handed rice bags to each guest. They wore identical gowns of white and green.

Honored guests were Mrs. C. C. Gray, grandmother of the bride, and MrsLena Kay, great- aunt of the bride, both of Hot Springs, Ark.

Out- of- town guests included: Mrs. Mildred Parker of Hot Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowe and children of Blytheville, and Mrs. Peggy Reynolds and daughters of Batesville, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gray III of Columbus, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Stan McGill of Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. John Worlund and Mrs. Jo Lane of Jonesboro, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pfeuhler of New Madrid.

On Sept. 27, the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal buffet for the wedding party and relatives at the bride's home.

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given Sept. 17 by Mrs. Joyce Wehr and Mrs. Jackie King at Mrs. Wehr's home, 104 Spring Drive.

Miss Mary Waldman hosted a shower on Sept. 23 in the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association Community room.

Rowe is employed by S. J. Cohen Constrution Co. of Blytheville, and the new Mrs. Rowe is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Sikeston.

The couple lives at No. 2 Crowder Drive, Dexter.

The greatest reported distance for throwing a standard five-pound brick is 135 feet 8 inches by Robert Gardner of Gloucestershire, England, in 1970.

Sikeston girl is Baylor homecoming queen nominee

Leslie G. Bowen

WACO, Tex. — Leslie G. Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bowen of 207 Powers Drive, Sikeston, Mo., is one of 38 nominees for this year's homecoming queen at Baylor University.

The queen and four princesses will be crowned tonight to reign during Baylor's homecoming activities that will continue through Saturday.

Miss Bowen is the nominee of Phi Delta, a Baylor women's social club. A sophomore business communications major, she is a member of Phi Delta, Baylor Ski Club and the university's chapel choir. She is a 1973 graduate of Putnam City High School in Oklahoma and has attended Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Sikeston to host girls district tennis tournament

For the first time Saturday, Sikeston will host a girls district tennis tournament beginning at 9:30 a.m. with Berta Schuerenberg, the Sikeston High School girls tennis coach, as tournament manager.

The singles matches will be played on the high school and Central Park courts, while doubles teams will compete at Sikeston Country Club.

A committee of coaches will set up the seeding for the one- day tournament, and line judges and scorekeepers will be chosen for the semifinals and finals.

Schools participating will include Sikeston, Dexter, Poplar Bluff, Caruthersville, Kennett and Cape Girardeau Central high schools. Hayti, Malden and Thayer schools are also included in the district, but Mrs. Schuerenberg reports that no entries have been received from those schools.

Each school may enter two singles players and two doubles teams. The tournament will be a straight elimination affair, and plaques and trophies will be awarded to individual winners.

Lynn Bizzell and Marilyn Neel will represent Sikeston in the singles matches. Gail Strickland and Linda Green will make up one SHS doubles team, while Jeannie Vines and Melissa Lea are scheduled to form the other.

Coach Schuerenberg explained that Miss Vines may not be able to play due to a shoulder injury. In that case, another player will be substituted.

Births

HENNEMANN -- Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Joseph Hennemann of Benton are parents of their fourth child, second daughter, who was born at 10:28 a.m. Thursday at Southeast Missouri Hospital. The girl weighed seven pounds five and one-half ounces and has been named Angela Dawn.

Mrs. Hennemann is the former Brenda Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lambert of Blodgett. Hennemann is a brakeman for St. Louis- Southwestern Railway and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hennemann of Benton.

ELFRINK — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elfrink of Advance are parents of their second child, first daughter, who was born at 8:54 a.m. Oct. 17 at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. The girl weighed eight pounds 12½ ounces and has been named Libby Jean.

Mrs. Elfrink is the former Kathy McAtee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McAtee of Shook. Elfrink is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Elfrink of Advance.

SHS homecoming queen to be named

One of three Sikeston High School seniors -- Cindy Collom, Carole Jones or Lynn Lacefield -- will be crowned the 1974 Sikeston High School homecoming queen following Friday night's football game between the Sikeston Bulldogs and Cape Girardeau Central Tigers at Public School Stadium.

The candidates were elected by the football players and announced Wednesday at an all- school assembly. The queen will be crowned about 10:30 p.m. at a dance in the high school cafetorium following the game.

Before the game, which begins at 7:30 p.m., the candidates will be driven around the track, and at halftime they will be introduced to the crowd.

Miss Collom is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collom, 910 Moore Ave., and is 5 feet 3 inches tall with brown hair and eyes.

Miss Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat E. Jones, 707 Moore Ave., is 5 feet 5 inches tall and has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Miss Lacefield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Lacefield Jr. of Oklahoma City, Okla., is 5 feet 5 inches tall and has dark blonde hair and blue eyes.

Mrs. Tope is Sikeston B&P Woman of Year

Mrs. Fred "Tatty" Tope was recently honored at the fall conference of District 6 Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Poplar Bluff.

Her recognition as the Sikeston club's Woman of the Year, was based on the following factors.

Mrs. Tope has held every office in the Sikeston B & PW Club and is currently serving as second vice presdient. She has been chairman of all standing committees, chairman of the Woman of the Year banquet and active in promoting Business Women's Week with various activities.

She is active in city welfare services and is a member of the American Legion auxiliary, in which she has held most offices and now serves and welfare chairman; Wesley United Methodist Church, where she serves on the church board; and Beta Signa Phi sorority.

Mrs. Fred Tope

Linen gloves were found in the tomb of Egyptian King Tutankhamen (14th century B.C.). Worn only by men, gloves became fashionable for women when first worn by Catherine de Medicis, queen consort of Henry II of France, in the 16th century.

Dexter LPN chapter to meet tonight

DEXTER — The annual fall meeting of the Dexter Chapter of the Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses will be held at 7 o'clock tonight, in the Conference Room of the Dexter National Bank.

Mrs. Florence Harris of Jefferson City, executive secretary of Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses, and Mrs. Phala Sontag of Columbia, state president, will attend.

Mrs. Harris makes a visit every fall to each of the 43 chapters and the 32 accredited schools of practical nursing in the state. She attempts to reach each of the 2,200 members of the Association and as many of the non- members as possible.

Missouri is a constituent state of the National Association of Licensed Practical Nurses Education and Services, Inc. (NAPNES), with headquarters in New York City. Total membership in NAPNES is approximately 350,000.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Sontag will meet Friday with the Kennett Chapter and Monday night, with the Poplar Bluff Chapter.

Ann Landers

Secretary should confront boss about false expenses

Dear Ann: Something has been preying on my conscience and I need to know what to do about it.

As a secretary I make out my boss's expense account reports. I am aware that he puts down false expenses and charges personal expenditures to the business.

I have a strong sense of morality and feel this is wrong. I realize the practice is rampant, but still it doesn't make me feel any better about doing it.

If I confront him he will probably tell me it's none of my buisness. Is it? (P.S. He is a V.P. and has hundreds of people under him) Sign me-- Guilty Conscience

Dear G.C.: Confront Mr. Chiseler and ask him to give his expense account work to another secretary, or do it himself. (P.S. Have some job prospects lined before the confrontation. You may be handed your walking papers. If your competence matches you integrity, you have nothing to worry about. You'll do just fine. Bravo, Lady.)

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorcee, age 44, planning to marry a man 67. He is in good health, even though he has had two medium- sized heart attacks. Sexually he is somewhat limited (though not completely) but I don't mind. I've had enough sex to last me a lifetime.

The problem is, he wants me to sign a pre- nuptial agreement settlement for 30 per cent of his holdings,plus the house and cars. His children will get the rest.

If I give this man several years of happiness I think I'm entitled to whatever he has. His children are both married, and financially well off. My two daughters married bums and could use an inheritance. What do you say?-- Practical in Philly

Dear Philly: See a lawyer and learn what the law in your state says about a wife's legal share of a husband's estate.

If you are 44 and he is 67 and has had two "medium-sized heart attacks" (whatever that means), I don't know how many years of happiness you can give him. But, I hope you don't come off as crass and commercial to him as you did to me.

Is alcholoism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read th booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Ill. 60120.

The greatest number of people to cram into and on a Volkswagon is 111, set by students in Hamilton, Ont.

Tom Tiede

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The civil rights struggle has come a long way in the last two decades—from Birmingham to Boston. But if the specter of northern whites violating the civil rights of northern blacks is shocking, it's not because it's new. Many areas of the Deep North have a longer and more varied history of intolerance than the Deep South. Prejudice and intransigence have existed in New England, for example, since the days of Cotton Mather.

Boston's busing dispute is by no means the best example of some Deep North attitudes toward brotherhood. Currently, it may be the election campaign in New Hampshire. Residents there are apparently ready to re-elect as governor, a man many feel is the most bigoted and intolerant public official in America. Writes a worried Concord voter: "Meldrim Thomson is Lester Maddox, George Wallace and Richard Nixon rolled into one puffy ball. But having lived in New Hampshire five years, I think we're getting what we deserve."

What New Hampshire is getting in Meldrim Thomson is mostly distasteful controversy. Georgia-born, a Wallace disciple, and one-time political husband of the right-wing American Party, Thomson, in his first term as state chief executive, has seldom been noted for anything except official mischief. A few weeks after taking office, for example, he ordered an investigation into the tax files of his political enemies and when the New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled it illegal, the governor said merely that he was entitled to interpret the Constitution as he saw it "and not as it's understood by others."

Since then, amazingly, he has:

Threatened to go to war with neighboring states over borders and other disputes; arrogantly vetoed 23 bills during his first observation of a legislative session; banished a military recruiter from the state for dating the divorced daughter of a friend; refused to allow authorities to remove five battered children from a foster home because of his view that foster parents are all "patriotic"; banned and thus bankrupted a state literary magazine for printing a poem he felt pornographic; repeatedly referred to homosexuals as perverts from which the public needs protection, and ran his office, according to one former aide, "like he is God and we should all say our prayers."

True to his style, which is muscular, Thomson has never apologized for a wrong, nor even acknowledged an error. He says he acts, as George Wallace, for "the good of the little guys." He thus convinces some gullible Americans, easily the biggest guys on earth in terms of privilege and fortune, that his hand has been touched by propriety. Ageless propriety, to be sure. "My beliefs," says Thomson with conviction, "are rooted in the values of the 17th century."

So, it would seem, are the beliefs of many of his constituents. While it is true that Thomson's campaign lead is in part the result of having a hapless, unknown Democratic opponent, the first reason for his popularity is philosophic. He says what the majority wants to hear—that America is faultless, that anything different is suspicious and that status quo is safety. Though New Hampshire residents are famed for common sense, many fail to admit that when Thomson speaks of the American way, he means it according to his terms.

And thus it is that this 61-year-old mossback appears destined for another term in the New Hampshire statehouse.

Nixon faces possible surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, facing possible surgery, has re-entered the hospital here because home treatment for his phlebitis condition proved ineffective, his doctor says.

Nixon limped slightly but was unassisted as he walked through a rear service entrance to be admitted Wednesday night to Memorial Hospital Medical Center for the second time in three weeks. A spokesman for the hospital in this coastal city bordering Los Angeles said the former president was expected to be released by the end of the week.

Nixon apparently made the 50-mile trip from his San Clemente home to the hospital by car.

There had been no advance announcement that he was returning to the hospital. Jack Weiblen, hospital vice president, said Nixon was brought in after dark to reduce publicity.

"He covets his privacy," Weiblen said of Nixon, who resigned as president last Aug. 9.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's longtime personal physician, said Nixon was taken to the hospital after anticoagulent drugs proved ineffective in treating inflamed veins in Nixon's left leg.

"For the past few days oral anticoagulation medication has been inadequate," Lungren said in a statement to newsmen late Wednesday night.

He said a diagnostic radiology test called a venogram had been performed on the 61-year-old former president after his arrival and showed a "near total occlusion or blockage of blood flow" in the area of Nixon's left thigh.

Lungren noted that several blood clots were found in the swollen leg, but he added that "these clots could be old or fresh."

Nixon received anticoagulents Coumadin orally and heparin intravenously during his first hospital stay, 12 days ending Oct. 4. But only Coumadin had been prescribed for him while he was convalescing at his oceanfront villa at San Clemente.

"If we're not capable of proving adequate prophylactic anticoagulation by oral Coumadin, then the possibility of surgical intervention must be considered," said Lungren. He has treated Nixon since 1952.

Lungren gave no indication what the surgery would involve or when it would be performed if results from Nixon's current hospitalization prove unsatisfactory. Other medical spokesmen were not immediately available to comment on the nature of such surgery.

During Nixon's recent hospitalization, a blood clot caused by the phlebitis moved from his left thigh, through his heart and lodged in his right lung. The decision to discharge Nixon from the hospital Oct. 4 was taken after Lungren determined the clot no longer posed a serious danger.

Lungren performed a lung scan on Nixon Wednesday night and concluded that the right lung was stable and "there was no evidence of any new involvement."

Chrysler head says industry in recession

DETROIT (AP) — Declaring that the auto industry and the nation are in a recession, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. has called for President Ford to work toward easing credit availability and encouraging consumers to spend rather than save their money.

"Recession is here in the automobile industry. Recession is here in the building industry. I would say recession is here in the country," Lynn A. Townsend said at a news conference Wednesday.

He said the President's economic policies are aimed in the wrong direction because recession and slack demand have superseded inflation as the auto industry's key problem.

"Our two problems in this country are inflation and recession. I think inflation has peaked, and very rapidly recession is taking the major spotlight," Townsend said.

Testimony says Ray identifier was drunk

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - James Earl Ray was placed at the scene of the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by a man who was too drunk to stand up 15 minutes before he said he saw Ray, according to testimony in a hearing on a motion for withdrawal of Ray's guilty plea.

James McGraw, a taxi driver, told a federal court hearing he was to pick up Charles Quitman Stephens, the state's key witness against Ray, about 5:45 p.m. on April 4, 1968, but found Stephens drunk and unable to walk or stand in an upstairs bedroom of a rooming house.

Stephens identified Ray as a man who ran from the upstairs bathroom of the rooming house shortly after King was shot as he stood on the balcony of the nearby Lorraine Motel about 6 p.m. Authorities say the shot was fired from the bathroom.

Rays attorneys placed McGraw on the stand in an attempt to discredit Stephens' testimony and support their contention that evidence was available to Ray's former lawyers to argue his innocence.

Ray pleaded guilty and accepted a 99-year prison sentence for the slaying of King, but he is now asking that the plea be withdrawn so he can stand trial in the case.

Researchers find no link between coffee and heart

BOSTON (AP) — Healthy people who gave up coffee for fear it caused heart disease can safely resume having an extra cup with their breakfast, say researchers who found no link between the brew and cardiovascular problems.

In a major 12-year study published today of almost 4,500 persons, "it was concluded that coffee drinking, as engaged in by the general population, is not a factor in the development of atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease," the report says.

However, the study asserts that no conclusion can be drawn about the possible effects of coffee on persons who already have heart disease.

Controversy has boiled over the relation of coffee drinking and heart disease since the publication of a statistical study two years ago by the Boston Collabrative Drug Surveillance Program.

That study found a direct link between coffee and heart problems in a sampling of hospital heart patients. But several studies since then found no such relationship in sampling persons who had no heart problems.

The latest report was published in the New England Journal of Medicine by Dr. Thomas R. Dawber, Dr. William B. Kannel and Tavia Gordon of Boston University Medical Center.

118 respond to questionnaire

EVEN A WISE collector can be fooled as the photo on the left proves after radiographer Charles Bridgeman x-rayed what appeared to be an ancient and very valuable statue purchased in the Orient and claimed to be solid ivory (far left). Bridgeman x-rayed the figure to reveal the "solid ivory" was actually a thin shell weighted with small rocks to convince art experts of its authenticity. Bridgeman said that even the most experienced collectors can be misled but thanks to radiography, such deceptions can be minimized.

WASHINGTON — Missouri's Democratic Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton and Stuart Symington have released a summary of responses to a questionnaire they sent to the 457 Missouri communities which have been designated as flood- prone areas by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and required to participate in the federal flood insurance program.

About 25 per cent (118) of the communities responded to the questionnaire which was designed to gauge reaction to the program. Of those responding, 55 per cent indicated they had already joined the program, 15 per cent said they planned to join before the July 1, 1975, deadline, and 30 per cent said either they would not join despite severe penalties for non-participation or had not yet made a decision.

The senators noted that a substantial portion of the responses, even from those communities which have already joined, criticized parts of the program.

The most frequent complaints (28 per cent) concerned inadequate information, inaccurate maps and lack of communication with the Federal Flood Insurance Agency.

Another 21 per cent of those responding to the Eagleton - Symington questionnaire felt they were improperly designated as flood-prone areas and should not be required to participate in the program.

Other respondents registered resentment at the mandatory nature of the program and federal intervention in local zoning and building matters.

Under the Flood Insurance Act, which was first passed by Congress in 1968 and amended in 1973, a flood- prone community is required to participate in the federal flood insurance program by July 1, 1975, or lose all forms of federal construction aid in flood- prone areas, including loans from commercial banks and savings and loan associations which are under federal deposit insurance programs as virtually all are today.

The federal government pays up to 90 per cent of the insurance premiums but it requires the community, in turn, to institute strict zoning and building restrictions in the flood hazard areas.

Sens. Eagleton and Symington said that on the basis of the questionnaire responses as well as individual letters, they believe the flood insurance program needed major review.

"The most frequent request is for Congress to make the program voluntary and, at the same time, to permit individuals to participate in the program even if their communities choose not to," the senators said.

The senators cited the example of a Cape Girardeau resident who had written that he personally is anxious to obtain flood insurance on his property but that his community may not agree to abide by the required zoning restrictions. Without flood insurance, the man will have great difficulty selling his property after July 1, 1975, because no buyer could obtain a mortgage.

"It is grossly unjust to penalize an individual who is anxious to cooperate just because he can't convince the rest of his community to go along," the two senators said.

"The department's own cost study clearly shows that the insurance program is almost as costly to the taxpayer as traditional disaster relief programs. The one area in which it is superior is inproviding insurance for individuals whose loss otherwise would be unprotected. That being the case, there would appear to be no justification for discouraging individual participating," they added.

Eagleton and Symington said they would refer the results of their survey to the appropriate federal agencies and Senate and House committees. Both expressed hope that Congress would undertake a thorough review of the program early in the next session.

Exports may top $2 billion

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports to the Middle East and North Africa may soar to $2 billion this fiscal year, accounting for nearly 10 per cent of total U.S. farm sales overseas, says the Agriculture Department.

The region, stretching from Morocco to Iran, bought $1.4 billion worth of U.S. farm products in the year ending last June 30, up from $521 million in 1972. Officials said oil revenues have been a major factor.

The analysis was included in a monthly report, Foreign Agricultural Trade of the United States, published by the department's Economic Research Service. It was written by John B. Parker Jr. and Michael E. Kurtzig of that agency.

Although all the countries in the regions do not have oil, the flow of capital from those that do—including Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi—have helped others build up their foreign exchanges.

"U.S. farm exports to the area could reach $2 billion in fiscal 1975, mostly because of larger sales of wheat to Iran, Turkey and Egypt, and rising sales of rice to Iran, Iraq and the Arabian peninsula," the report said.

Also, the report said, sales of a wide variety of processed U.S. food to the Arabian peninsula countries are still thriving, including tomato products, canned fruits and juices, canned peas and beans, honey and popcorn.

Total U.S. farm exports to all countries are expected to be around $21 billion for the year ending next June 30, about the same as the record value set in 1973-74.

While quantities of some major items are expected to decline this year—including smaller total exports of wheat and corn—higher prices are pushing up the over-all values.

The July-August export value of wheat was $4.24 per bushel, compared with $2.90 during the same two months last year, according to USDA records. Rice was 23 cents per pound, compared with 16 cents a year earlier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1974 alfalfa seed crop is expected to total 104.7 million pounds, up 2 per cent from last year, says the Agriculture Department.

The California seed crop is estimated at 29.5 million pounds, up 16 per cent from last year. But Idaho and Washington, the next largest producers, expect to have smaller crops, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Significant increases, however, were estimated for Oklahoma where the 1974 seed crop was put at 6.6 million pounds compared with 4.9 million last year, and in Utah, estimated at 4.42 million against 2.3 million in 1973.

Athletic records nearly corrected

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The director of the state Division of Professional Registration says record-keeping problems of the recently abolished state Athletic Commission have nearly all been corrected.

George Uffmann, whose division took over the commission's responsibilities in July as a result of state reorganization, said Wednesday he believed the loss of records cited by Auditor John Ashcroft occurred during an office move several years ago.

Ashcroft, in releasing a report covering the five-year period through June, said his office was unable to conduct a normal audit because supporting documentation was not available.

The eight-page report said disbursement journals and documents for cash receipts for fiscal years 1970 and 1971 had been destroyed and no attempt was made to associate cash receipts with expenditures during the remaining three years.

Uffman said the only point he differed with Ashcroft on was whether sales tax should be collected for television rights of weekly St. Louis wrestling matches.

But he said he would probably follow the auditor's advice and seek an attorney general's opinion on that issue.

The report also recommended that proper charges be made for exhibition permits, claiming fees were too high for most exhibitions in cities under 5,000 population and that occasionally sponsors of Golden Gloves competitions were not charged at all.

Richard Lucy, superintendent, and Matt Basham, operator, of the water and sewerage treatment plants of Sikeston Light and Water, attended a three- day training session of the Missouri Water and Sewerage Conference at Columbia.

Emphasis was placed on Water Stablility: Its Measurement and Meaning; Upgrading Plant Performance; Design and Operational Concept; Water Standards; Today and Tomorrow; Treatment Plant Sludge Disposal Problems; Treatment Plant Effluent Curse or Neglected Resource; Waste Water testing in the Real World; Industrial and Municipal Permits; and Zero Discharge the Ultimate Goal.

McCracken says nation headed for recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is headed toward a recession and the Ford administration might as well admit it, says an administration economics adviser.

"Let's call a spade a spade," said Paul W. McCracken in a telephone interview Wednesday. "I think we are probably in the early stages of what could turn out to be a V type recession."

That means a recession which is sharp but brief and looks like a "V" on a graph, in contrast to prolonged declines in economic activity, McCracken explained. He indicated he thought the worst would be over by mid-1975.

McCracken said unemployment could approach 7 per cent and the decline in economic output about 4 per cent next year. Another administration economic adviser, L. William Seidman, said his best guess on unemployment would be about 6.5 per cent.

McCracken, a former chairman of former President Richard M. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, now serves as a part-time consultant to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon. He also recently was named byPresident Ford to help compile his new economic program after the economic summit meetings.

While McCracken said it was a moot point to argue whether the economy is in a recession, as President Ford has claimed it is not, "my judgment is that we're probably moving into one."

McCracken, a professor of economics at the University of Michigan, does not rank as an official administration spokesman, and the administration continues to shy away from describing the current economic condition as a recession.

Seidman said in a separate meeting with newsmen Wednesday that it is hard to put a label on the economy at the present time. For some industries, such as furniture and steel, he said there is no recession. For housing, he said there is a deep recession.

"Inflation certainly is the No. 1 enemy, but stagflation is right behind 8t," said Seidman. "It's better to say we have two problems."

Stagflation is a term currently being used to describe a condition of economic stagnation and inflation. "The current lack of growth in the economy is a problem," said Seidman.

McCracken said his forecast of recession does not mean he is criticizing Ford's economic advisers, who he said are "doing an excellent job." He said he agrees with the administration's economic policies, including the 5 per cent income surtax proposal, but added he does favor a further easing of the tight money policies of the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Meanwhile, in Detroit, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. has called for President Ford to work toward easing credit availability and encouraging consumers to spend rather than save their money.

Declaring that the auto industry and the nation are in a recession, Lynn A. Townsend told newsmen Wednesday, "Recession is here in the automobile industry. Recession is here in the building industry. I would say recession is here in the country."

Lawyers say Dean tried to save self

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense lawyers at the Watergate cover-up trial are trying to portray star government witness John W. Dean III as ready to sacrifice anyone to save his own skin when the cover-up began unraveling.

"John Mitchell never asked you to bite the bullet for him," William G. Hundley, Mitchell's lawyer, said to Dean during cross examination on Wednesday.

Hundley tried to get Dean to admit that he had tried to get former Atty. Gen. Mitchell to step forward and take responsibility for the Watergate breakin.

"You didn't have any information that Mr. Mitchell was responsible for the bugging," Hundley told the former White House counsel. "Yet you joined in a plan to have him step forward because that would save you."

Hundley was the second defense lawyer to cross examine Dean, the lead-off government witness in the trial of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides accused of conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for H.R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief, led off the cross-examination and had Dean relate how he took $4,850 for his honeymoon from a $350,000 cash fund kept by Haldeman in the White House.

"Didn't it lay on your conscience at all that you spent money that didn't belong to you?" Wilson asked.

"I was prepared to account for it at any time I was asked to," replied Dean.

But the most heated exchange during Wilson's cross examinatton was not with Dean but with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

At one point the 73-year-old attorney accused Sirica, an old friend, of being "unfair."

"Now listen, Mr. Wilson, you know me, you've known me for years," the judge replied, pointing his finger at the short, balding lawyer. "I'm as much interested in getting the truth out as you are."

At issue was whether tapes of conversations about which Dean's memory was unclear would be played for the jury.

Prosecutor James F. Neal accused Wilson of trying to imply that "I deliberately refused to play a tape because I didn't like its contents."

The White House conversations referred to took place on Feb. 27, 28 and March 13, 1973.

The prosecutors agreed to play the tapes. But after a bench conference later in the day, it was decided that playing them would be put off for some time, if not indefinitely.

Part of the procedure for introducing tapes as evidence at the trial is that a participant in the conversation or someone accepted as authoritative can identify the voices and relate the substance of the discussion. Dean has been used for that so far.

Hundley asked Dean a number of questions about the role of Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel, in trying to get Mitchell to take the blame for the break-in.

He drew from Dean testimony that it was Colson who had the closest relationship to E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the break-in defendants, and that it also was Colson who had prodded campaign officials to utilize Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, whose political intelligence plan led to the break-in.

Originally, Colson was one of the cover-up defendants. Charges against him were dropped after he pleaded guilty to a charge in another Watergate-related case.

The other defendants in the cover-up trial are John D. Ehrlichman, former Nixon aide; Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general; and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time attorney for Nixon's re-election committee.

8 accident patients treated

Eight accident patients were treated and released Wednesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Jerry Beasley, 38, Bertrand, cut fourth and fifth fingers and fractured fifth finger of right hand on saw; Charlotte Lutes, 9, Morehouse, fell off monkey bars at school; Randal Hall, 11, New Madrid, bruised and scratched left eyelid when hit in eye with object; and Earine Richards, 58, Sikeston, scratched both knees in fall.

Lodge plans anniversary

BELL CITY — Lakeville Lodge No. 489 AF & AM will commemorate its 100th anniversary Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, including a program at 2:30 featuring Elvis A. Mooney of Bloomfield, past grand master of Missouri, as the guest speaker.

Other items on the program will be a history of the lodge introduction of past masters. Worshipful Master Joe Hager will be in charge.

Open house will follow the program in the dining room, and all members of Lakeville Lodge, all master Masons and friends are invited to attend.

Ford plan supports mandatory fuel-saving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's still-secret "Project Independence" energy study strongly supports mandatory fuel-saving measures, coupled with accelerated U.S. oil production.

It suggests mandatory conservation measures might include a gasoline-mileage standard for cars, and lighting and insulation standards for buildings.

Increased oil production probably would have to come from drilling in new areas of the Atlantic, Pacific and Alaska coasts, plus commercial development of the Navy's petroleum reserve in Alaska, it says.

The study makes no specific recommendations but clearly indicates it would be hazardous for the United States to rely on energy production-increases alone to carry it through the next 10 years.

It says that with conservation and increased production, the United States can be independent of foreign oil by 1985. Without them, oil imports will grow, increasing both the dollar drain and the danger of a new oil embargo.

The report does not explain what it means by independence, but U.S. energy officials previously have defined the concept as holding oil imports low enough to avoid the possibility of blackmail by a foreign oil cutoff. This specific level has not been established.

The study, some 1,100 pages stamped "Limited Official Use," was still being circulated in draft form for comment among federal agencies today, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

A revised final version is to be made public around Nov. 7. It appeared unlikely that the major conclusions would change.

How much the nation must do depends heavily on the world price of oil, the study says.

Budget requests must be reduced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The operating budget requests of state departments for the year beginning next June will have to be cut by another $74 million, Gov. Christopher S. Bond told his 14 department directors Monday.

Meeting with the directors to discuss state level efforts to fight inflation as requested by President Ford, Bond said his recommendation to the legislature for fiscal 1976 will be to "hold the line" at $1.1 billion.

While noting that "state government by and large has not been a prime cause of inflation," the governor said the state should look at what it can do to pull in the reins on inflation, and he said a balanced budget in fiscal 1976 will be an important way of doing that.

Governor designates Head Start Week

Gov. Christopher Bond has proclaimed the week of Oct. 28 - Nov. 1 as Missouri Head Start Week. Noting that the Missouri Head Start Program now serves approximately 8,500 pre- school children in the State, Gov. Bond issued the proclamation inviting all Missouri citizens to participate in Head Start Week by visiting a Head Start Center in their community. C. B. Huber, back row, third from left, director of the Delta Area Head Start Program centered in Portageville, was among the members of the Missouri Head Start Directors Association present to witness the signing of this proclamation at the Governor's office in Jefferson City. The Delta Area Head Start Program is administered by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation (DAEOC) and includes the six counties of the Missouri Bootheel. Twenty- two Head Start Centers are located throughout the Bootheel area and 1,300 pre- school children are currently enrolled in the program. The Delta Area Head Start is the largest rural program in Missouri and will mark the occurrence of Head Start Week with special events, programs, open houses and visitations at the Head Start Centers.

Antigun control organization formed in state

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An antigun control organization has been formed for the state in reaction to charges that U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton has misrepresented his stand on gun control.

Len Owens, a director of the National Rifle Association, said the purpose of the sportsmens coalition of Missouri "is to tell the truth about gun control legislation."

"Sen. Eagleton, who voted for the handgun control act of 1972 said that the National Rifle Association supported the act," Owens the president of the coalition, said. "Such a statement is simply not true.

Owens said the coalition supports Eagleton's Republican opponent in the November election, Thomas Curtis, who has voiced opposition to gun control.

Deteriorating mental ability is not inevitable in old age. There is little evidence to support the companion notions that old dogs can't learn new tricks, or even remember the old ones. Intelligence- test scores show that older people do quite well, even at learning new tasks, especially if they are unhurried.

Outlook calls for warm, dry

PORTAGEVILLE — A transition from a cool and wet pattern to warm and dry is the major feature of the 30-day outlook for the period ending in Mid-November, according to Leonard F. Hand, advisory agricultural meteorologist at the Agricultural Weather Service office here.

The Bootheel is well within the boundaries of areas expected to record above normal temperature average and light rainfall.

High pressure centers entering the Pacific Coast are expected to cross the lower plains and Mississippi Valley on their track eastward. Main path of Canadian high pressure centers should remain well north of the United States during this period.

The track of major low pressure systems is shown well to the west and north of the Bootheel region, and it appears that the Gulf of Mexico moisture source will remain cut off for the most part. Showers that do arrive in Southeast Missouri are most likely to precede and accompany cold fronts moving in from the west.

Kennett and Charleston recorded minimum temperatures of 32 degrees the morning of Oct. 3, for what is one of the earliest freezes in many years, if not a new record. Neither of those stations have a climatological history that goes back as much as 30 years. The learliest light freeze (28 to 32 degrees in the shelter) on record at Caruthersville (occurred Oct. 13, 1917.

In any event, an undetermined amount of freeze injury was sustained by soybeans caught before maturity. Additional freeze damage was indicated after the mercury dropped back to 33 degrees at Sikeston and East Prairie the morning of Oct. 8. Soybeans had already suffered setback due to late planting after a wet spring, a subsequent dry spell that delayed germination and emergence, and cool September weather that delayed development. It is doubtful how much of depressed yields to assign to the early freeze. Its implication may be heightened by the potential for additional podfilling, had leaf injury not been experienced, in view of the above normal temperature trend now anticipated.

Warm temperatures will give newly seeded wheat and other small grains a chance to make a start before winter sets in. The only measureable rain to reach some Bootheel sections the first half of October was in the guage the morning of the 15th. Amounts ranged from near a third inch to just over an inch, sufficient for germination in most fields.

The extended period for maturing unopened cotton may be nearly as welcome as the trend for below normal rainfall that should offer open weather enough to get the crop out. Distribution of shower periods will determine chances for encountering a few harvest days without morning dew. Nights will be cool enough, frequently clear and calm, for deposits as long as moisture is available. Daily summaries prepared at the National Weather Service Office for Agriculture, Portageville will discuss weather trends as they affect harvest.

Normals now current are based upon a 30- year period from 1941 through 1970. Normal precipitation for the period Mid-October through Mid-November for the Bootheel as a whole is 3.37 inches. Normals for individual cities are: Advance 3.16 inches, Caruthersville 3.41 inches, Dexter 3.49 inches, Morehouse 3.31 inches, Parma 3.35 inches, Sikeston, 3.45 inches, Cape Girardeau 3.25 inches, Clearwater Dam 3.09 inches, Doniphan 3.39 inches, New Madrid 3.56 inches, Poplar Bluff 3.33 inches and Wappapello Dam 3.34.

Chicken, milk, egg prices drop

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail prices for chickens, milk and eggs dropped this week in Missouri, the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation reported Tuesday.

Whole fryers dropped six cents and cut up fryers were down two to four cents.

Whole milk rose one to three cents.

In the St. Louis area, grade A extra large eggs could be bought for 50 cents a dozen, down a dime from last week.

The egg prices were unchanged in other areas.

Bread prices jumped a nickel statewide.

A 10-pound sack of red potatoes climbed four cents in some areas and slipped nine cents in others.

Beef and pork prices also rose in some parts of the state and decreased in others.

A 10-pound sack of sugar increased 28 to 50 cents.

The lowest reported price was $3.85 a bag in southwest and south central Missouri and in the Kansas City-St. Joseph area.

Southwest Missouri also had the highest sugar price at $4.59 a bag.

The statewide average was $4.03 a bag.

The farm bureau surveyed 50 stores around the state on Monday.

The statewide average for sirloin steak was $1.69, with the lowest price at $1.28 in southwest Missouri and Kansas City - St. Joseph and the highest at $1.99, also in Kansas City-St. Joseph.

Ground beef showed an average of 89 cents a pound, with the highest being $1.09 in central Missouri and St. Louis and the lowest 68 cents a pound in southwest Missouri as well as central Missouri and Kansas City-St. Joseph.

Center cut pork chops averaged $1.50 a pound, and whole fryers, 50 cents a pound.

Other state averages were $1.50 a pound whole milk, 76 cents a dozen for grade A large eggs, 58 cents for a 1 1/2-pound loaf of white bread and $1.25 for a 10-pound sack of red potatoes.

Geologist says satellite needed

ROLLA — The end of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) imagery transmission this month underscores the need for a permanent operational satellite, in the opinion of Dr. Wallace B. Howe, state geologist and director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of Research and Technical Information.

In recent testimony before the House Subcommittee on Space Science and Applications in Washington, D. C. Howe urged approval of an operational satellite and testified that Missouri has benefited greatly from ERTS data.

"We derived an enormous volume of important data about Missouri and its resources from ERTS-1," Howe said of NASA's experimental satellite. "Among applications made from the data were a flood assessment along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, a statewide lake and reservoir inventory, geohydrologic studies, mapping to show landuse in several counties, an inventory of strip-mined land, identification of geologic structural features and an inventory of forests in the northern Missouri funded by the U. S. Forest Service."

Howe said a series of the ERTS-1 images also were used to compose two remarkable maps of the state. Each map is a mosaic of images furnished by NASA and composed at a scale of 1:1 million by the office of the state egologist with the assistance of the U.S. Geodetic Survey Topographic Division. The maps are now being printed and soon will be available to the public.

ERTS traveled a sun-synchronous polar orbit around the earth every 18 days after its launching July 23, 1972. It carried sophisticated electronic equipment which imaged the earth, nearly 570 miles below, and relayed the data by electronic signals to ground receiving stations. These were recorded on photographic film and furnished to scientists all over the world.

Althought the original life expectancy of ERTS-1 at launching was only one year, it operated efficiently for nearly two years. Howe emphasized to the subcommittee the importance of an operational ERTS-type system that would continue to provide data at regular intervals as the original experimental system did.

Repetitive imagery of the state was found to be particularly valuable by the office of the state geologist in detecting significant environmental changes, inventorying natural resources and monitoring water quality.

In addition to repetitive coverage, an important feature of ERTS imagery is the synoptic view it provides, Howe said. In other words, the imagery portrays a sizeable portion of the earth at one time. Scientists, bound by the capabilities of aircraft covering limited areas, have been confronted by a "can't-see-the- forest-for- the-trees" problem. By backing far enough away into space and viewing a large portion of the earth, Howe said, this problem was partially solved.

ERTS enabled staff geologists to map new faults and to change the alignment of faults mapped on the ground, but never before observed from a great distance.

For example, Howe explained that it would not be possible to successfully photograph the entire Decaturville structure in Camden County because of its size. Other structures, such as the Crooked Creek disturbance near Steelville, were successfully photographed from the air only when the atmospheric and climatic conditions were favorable for emphasizing the subtile differences between the structure and surrounding terrain.

A number of structures were apparent on ERTS imagery that had not been detected by staff geologists on aerial photography.

Howe recommended to the subcommittee that the next ERTS system carry a thermal imaging capability which the ERTS-1 system lacked. He explained that his staff, in cooperation with the USGS Water Resources Division, used thermal imagery obtained by a highly instrumented remote sensing aircraft for studies of streams and watersheds in southern Missouri a few years ago.

The amount of heat emitted by land and water areas were automatically recorded on film strips and magnetic tapes for subsequent analysis. Staff geologists were able to identify losing streams (part of the surface water flow was lost to the groundwater system) and gaining streams (surface water was augmented by groundwater discharge) by interpreting these temperature differences.

The addition of a thermal band on the next ERTS system would detect things like this and permit further research of this kind in Missouri. It would allow coverage of an entire basin at one time, also, in contrast to the much higher cost- per-mile coverage of even a single stream by an airplane.

Special environmental problems prompted the office of the state geologist to enter the remote sensing field originally. Missouri became involved in the ERTS program early in the planning stages when NASA invited universities, agencies, companies and others to submit proposals for using data to be acquired by ERTS-1.

A research proposal by the office of the state geologist for investigation of the growth corridor between Kansas City and St. Louis was one of only 335 accepted from all over the world. It was the only ERTS project in Missouri, and the state was one of only 16 states to have have such a project initially.

When images began to arrive in mid-1972, staff researchers immediately recognized that satellite data had applications far beyond anything they had anticipated.

Several staff geologists also made it available to the University of Missouri - Rolla staff and students, as well as to mining geologists and others.

Cat facility to be built

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Zoological Commission has announced plans for construction of a new facility for the great cats — lions, tigers, leopards, etc.

Known as "Big Cat Country," the facility is expected to be one of the nation's most innovative, according to Judge Thomas F. McGuire, commission president.

The design was developed by the architectural firm of Peckham- Guyton, Inc. and the zoo staff. It will provide spacious, naturalistic, outdoor homes for members of the cat family.

Large, open yards for lions and tigers, plus airy grottos for the climbing cats (leopards, cougars, jaguars, etc.), will offer public viewing of the animals from many angles. Grass, trees and shrubs will be interspersed with rock formations, pools and running brooks. Where appropriate, waterfalls will cascade into open yards.

The big cats will utilize their outdoor yards almost every day of the year. Heated pads in the open areas will insure a dry resting place even on a severe winter day.

The animals will be displayed in family groups. With the possibility of more space and more privacy for mother cats, cubs will not be removed to the nursery in most cases.

Big Cat Country will be constructed where the old Lion House stood. Visitors will glimpse the big cats through the trees as they approach along the grand mall from the zoo's central plaza. Riders on the Zooline Railroad will come face to face with the cats across a moat as they emerge from the tunnel at Lion Station. Completion of the project is scheduled for summer of 1974.

Total site area for Big Cat Country is about 65,000 square feet, or one and one-half acres. Three large, moated yards will be provided for lions or tigers. Each yard will consist of more than 13,000 square feet, or about one- third acre.

The climbing cats will be housed in four yards covered with a mesh tension structure. Two of the yards will be 1,700 square feet, one yard will be 2,100 square feet and the fourth 1,000 square feet.

The design for the facility is that of a wheel, with outdoor exhibit areas surrounding a central indoor denning structure. this denning barn will contain night quarters for the cats, sections for expectant mothers and medical treatment areas, as well as an animal food kitchen, storage and service areas.

The roof of the den building will be a public viewing area. The design will permit equipment access for service and maintenance to all of the large cat areas.

Cost of Big Cat Country is estimated at $1.5 million, kept to a relatively low level because there will be no elaborate edifice. Financing of the project has been pledged by the St. Louis Zoo Association.

It is believed by zoo director Robert T. Briggs that the new facility will display the great cats' movements and behavior closely approximating activity in the wild, a concept not possible in the sterile conditions of concrete floors and barred cages.

The exhibit will be enhanced by graphics illustrating such things as the balance between preditors and prey, behavioral aspects, population pressures and controls, status in the wild, range and origin.

The zoo's old Lion House, built in 1916, is being torn down. Its inhabitants were sent to other zoos or to nonpublic areas on the zoo grounds throughout the summer. The building and its old- style cages were beyond repair or reasonable renovation, according to the zoo's consulting engineers.

Case No. 8368
ORDER OF PUBLICATION OF NOTICE

The State of Missouri to each and every defendant in the abovestyled action. You are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against you in the Circuit Court for the County of Scott, Missouri, the object and general nature of which is to quiet plaintiff's title against all claims and demands of defendants and those claiming under them or in their behalf in the following described property:

Part of Lots 1 and 2 in Out Block 42 of the Original Town, now City of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, as shown in Plat Book 4, page 129 in the Recorder's Office of said County, as described as: Beginning at a point on the South line of Kathleen Avenue 244 feet East of the Northwest corner of said Lot 2, thence east along said south line 60 feet to a point, thence south and parallel with the West line of said Lot 146 feet to a point, thence West parallel with the South line of Kathleen Avenue 60 feet, thence North 146 feet to the point of beginning.

The names of all the parties to said suit are stated above in the caption hereof and the name and address of the attorney for plaintiff is Garry E. Champion, 310 East Center St., Sikeston, Missouri.

You are further notified that, unless you file an answer or other pleading or shall otherwise appear and defend against the aforesaid petition within 45 days after the 12th day of October, 1974, judgment by default will be rendered against you.

It is ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the Daily Sikeston Standard, a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Scott, State of Missouri. A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and the seal of the circuit court this 8th day of October, 1974

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

World News in Brief

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met with Soviet leaders today to present them with a series of options for a new treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons. Details of the American proposals were not disclosed, but newsmen were told the United States is prepared to join the Soviet Union in negotiations for a broad agreement instead of concentrating on restricting the development of missiles with nuclear warheads.

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab foreign ministers have approved a militant Syrian resolution as the basic working document for the Arab summit meeting opening Saturday. But Egypt indicated that it would still go along with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach toward an Arab-Israeli settlement. During his recent visit to the Middle East, Kissinger won Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's approval for his proposal that the Arabs and Israel try for a gradual advance toward a peace settlement.

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's finance minister says the United States and Japan should join in a concerted effort to guarantee that Italy does not "fall to pieces" under the impact of quadrupled oil prices and its other economic woes. West Germany recently loaned Italy $2 billion to stave off bankruptcy, but Apel said he doubted this kind of bilateral aid would be repeated.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Ruth becomes special Watergate prosecutor Saturday, succeeding Leon Jaworski, who relinquishes the post Friday after a year on the job. The Justice Department announced Wednesday that Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had appointed Ruth as the new prosecutor.

SHS parents to meet teachers, review work

Parents of Sikeston High School students are invited to meet the teachers and review their children's work from 6:30 to 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Principal Roger Sherman said parents also will have an opportunity to see the television studio where video tapes are made of programs involving students, teachers and guest speakers.

Speakers who have been at the studio for taping include Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton and Missouri Attorney General John Danforth.

The parent- teacher night is sponsored jointly by the school and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Matthews man injured

MATTHEWS — A Matthews man was injured in a one- car accident at 10:45 a.m. Wednesday on an unmarked gravel road one and one-half miles west of town, the highway patrol announced today.

The accident occurred when Larry Gene Grimes, 26, was blinded by dust from a passing vehicle and lost control of his pickup truck which ran off the road, struck a dirt embankment and overturned on its side.

He was treated for a broken left shoulder and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

12 Sikeston educators to attend meeting

Twelve educators from the Sikeston school system will be among 20,000 people expected to attend the Missouri State Teachers Association convention, Nov. 6-8 in Kansas City.

The meeting will begin with 1,500 delegates from 415 local teacher associations assembly in Municipal Auditorium to transact business.

Arthur Mallory, state commissioner of education, will open the Nov. 7 morning session, and Tom Brokaw, National Broadcasting Corp. White House correspondent, will speak o n the topic, "A Report from the Potomac".

Abram L. Sacher, chancellor of Brandeis University, will speak that afternoon on "Crisis and Challenge". C. Jackson Grayson Jr., consultant, economist and lecturer, will speak at the Nov. 8 morning session.

Programs will be sponsored by 32 MSTA departments , as well as allied and associate groups.

About 250 exhibitions will be located in the Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Sikeston delegates will include Sam Harbin, Richard Giles, Ruth Sappenfield, Gloria Kellick, Glenn Milligan, Bob Depro, Shirley Hammock, Janet Johnson, Brenda Matthews, Ruth Ann Roberts, Darlene Sanders and Henry Smith.

system.

The city has applied for $95,700 in funds from the federal government and $126,000 from the state to complete the project.

The entire system will include 24,000 feet of eight - inch clay pipe, 300 service lines, three lift stations and a four- celled lagoon.

"The lines will be hooked directly to the houses," Mayor A. W. Wagley said, "and will involve no tax increase."

There will, however, be a fixed charge of $3.75 per month for the service.

If the bonds are approved, construction is expected to begin sometime next year.

A two-thirds majority is required for passage of the first proposition, and a four-sevenths majority is required for passage of the second proposal.

Voters will ballot at the city hall in ward - one and at Sutton's Service Station in ward two.

3 turned over to Pemiscot

CHARLESTON — Odie Bogan, 25, and Jessie Bogan, 24, of Mounds, Ill., and Jimmy Rayford, 24, of Kentucky were turned over to Pemiscot County authorities Wednesday after being identified in a lineup by witnesses from Hayti as the three men who held up El Rancho Motel at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday in Hayti.

The three were arrested about 1:20 a.m. Wednesday on Interstate 57 near Charleston by highway patrolman Bob Eddleman and taken to the Mississippi County jail.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons said charges of speeding and possession of marijuana may be filed against Jessie Bogan. However, he said the charges will not be filed in Mississippi County since the men were turned over to Pemiscot County authorities in connection with the robbery.

No official report has been received from the sheriff's office, Pemiscot County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Mike Hazel said today, but he expects armed robbery charges to be filed against the three.

said some major oil companies in the state have closed their rural plants, citing low profitability.

At the same time, cooperatives have improved their rural stations and bulk plants, Swails said.

"It's true that oil company profits are on the rise and so are co-op profits, but the cooperatives will return profits made to their patrons," he said.

Predictions are being heard that there will be another energy crisis before next spring, with petroleum prices high and supplies short, he said.

"No farmer having a history of buying from a cooperative has been denied service," he said.

Because of the energy shortage, Swails said Farmland has canceled all overseas meetings and trips for top executives. If 200 major U.S. corporations would do the same, there would be enough fuel saved in a year's time to plant the entire 1975 crop, he said.

There is presently enough credit to supply farmers' needs, but by 1980 the country may face a shortage of money reaching $350 billion, according to Gene Talley, a spokesman for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

Things are not going well in the money supply, he said, pointing out that four major banks have failed this year and several prestigious businesses have floundered.

Money is a big problem for electric utilities, also, according to Nelson Willingham, manager of Consolidated Electric Co-op. He stated that electric power is faced with problems of high production costs and he predicted the cost of electricity will double within 10 years.

The Associated Electric plant in New Madrid, and a second plant under construction, are both part of a cooperative, Willingham said. The anti- pollution requirements at the new Madrid plant will increase construction costs by $2 million, he said, and may lead to higher electric rates.

Winchester trial set

BLOOMFIELD — Trial or James Winchester of McGee on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle was set for Oct. 31 following preliminary hearing this morning in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Winchester was charged with the theft Monday afternoon of an automobile from Taylor- Christian Auto Sales in Dexter. Winchester reportedly took the car for a demonstration drive and did not return.

In other cases, Dennis Gott, 17, of Dexter, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail after pleading guilty to a reduced charge of stealing less than $50. He was originally charged with felonious stealing involving the theft of two batteries from tractors owned by George Hampton of Dudley.

Gott will serve his jail- time on weekends, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday and ending at 5 p.m. on Sundays for five weekends, providing he returns to school.

Fined for speeding were Lindal Charles Buttry of Bernie, $10; Gregory Scott Jackson of Poplar Bluff, $18; Joseph Edwin Pulliam of Bernie, $11; and Robert Lee Young Jr., $19.

We feel extremely fortunate in having Mr. Benton B. (Deac.) Conrad join our staff at our Banking Facility in Matthews, Missouri. Mr. Conrad is serving as "Special Representative" and in that capacity will help our officers and personnel re-acquaint themselves or become acquainted in the City of Matthews, as well as the fine surrounding farm and residential areas.

Mr. Conrad served in the Matthews School System from 1927 to 1971---and as principal from 1937 to 1971. He was reared in Bollinger County, Missouri; attended schools at William Mayfield in Marble Hill, Missouri; Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, where he earned his B.S. degree; Murray State University from which he was awarded his M.A. degree. He also did graduate work at Missouri University, Columbia, Missouri and S.I.U. in Carbondale, Illinois.

Tri County Bank is a service institution. To be effective and to deserve patronage from the area in which we serve, we must start with qualified personnel. We belive Mr. Conrad is deeply interested in his community, and with his help our chances to grow and be of service to this Community will come much sooner.

Especially For Attention of Matthews Residents:

Mr. Conrad has prepared a city map displaying the entire plat for sewer lines, the bonds for which will be voted on November 5, 1974.

Come in and see if it will be of some benefit to you in making a decision relating to a very important city improvement venture.

Bulldogs upset favorites

There are just three weeks remaining in the high school football schedule after Friday night's action so that means there are just four more chances for our weekly prognosticators to have a perfect night.

Everytime we think we have the right scores somebody either gets good or worse, we haven't found out for sure yet.

Last week Kelly Greer split with four right and four wrong. Danny Summerfield picked five right and three wrong. Eddie Smart picked five right and missed on four. He picked the results of Thursday night's game between Poplar Bluff and Cape Central but he should have forgotten about it like the others. Yours truly, Mr. Basketball hit four of eight which isn't very good. The only thing a .500 average is good in is baseball.

Here we go again still looking for that perfect week which started six weeks ago and instead of getting better we'r getting farther away.

Cape Central at Sikeston --- The Bulldogs finally met a team their size last week although that shouldn't be an excuse for their five losses as the Dogs lost the games mostly due to their inability to hold onto the football rather than the other teams weight advantage. Against the Bearcats, the Bulldogs didn't commit the offensive errors and won the game rather easily although the score indicated a closer game. Sikeston is capable of beating the Tigers if they can hold onto the football. Our panel says that the Tigers are a 4-1 favorite. I haven't seen Cape Central this year but have seen several Bulldog games and Sikeston will win 14-13.

SPORTS BEAT

By Bill Harrison

Daily Standard Sportswriter

Charleston at East Prairie -- The Bluejays have too much speed for the Eagles and the panel must know it for the Bluejays are 5-0 to win --- 35-14.

Hurculaneum at Jackson -- The Indians are an improving team and are picked 3-2 to win -- 14-12.

Perryville at Kennett -- The Indians are a better ball club than anyone figured this season. Their only loss in the conference came to Poplar Bluff so Kennett is still in the race. The Indians are 5-0 favorites to win the game with Perryville -- 21-7.

Poplar Bluff at Dexter --- Mike Moss will run the Bearcats crazy. Dexter is a good football team but not as good as the Mules -- 28-14.

Portageville at Caruthersville -- The Tigers are favored 5-0 to win this game. Caruthersville has the defense to do it -- 12-7.

Malden at Chaffee -- Both teams are just about equal in size and talent but judging from the score of the team in previous game the Greenwave have the nod due to defense -- 14-12.

Hayti at I-SC-- This should be a top game. As far as prestige is concerned probably the top game of the week. Hayti is flying high and the Rams are already the Bootheel champs. Hayti is a 4-1 favorite. I've seen both play and Hayti is the bigger team and has more offensive weapons. ISC is sound fundamentally --- Hayti 21, I-SC 19.

South Pemiscot at Rector, Ark. -- Because of location the Bulldogs have scheduled too many Arkansas teams. One is too many but Rector should have an easy time winning -- 40-7.

STARS FROM START

Big game at I-SC

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State freshman kicking specialist Tom Birney of Detroit made an auspicious debut on the Spartan varsity. In his first collegiate game he connected on five of six extra-point attempts in Michigan State's 41-7 victory over Northwestern in the opening game for both teams.

Birney also capably handled kickoff and punting chores.

The top game of this weeek's high school football schedule is at Illmo- Scott City where the Hayti Indians invade the Rams. I-SC was rated fourth and HHS seventh this week in class 2-A by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Coach Jerry Cecil's figures that the Indians are one of the best teams around and not many can argue the point too much.

Hayti features Danny White at halfback and Eddie Martin at halfback and both are very good runners and allaround football players. Both boys play both ways, which isn't seen too much in the bigger schools these days. Due to the lack of talent in the smaller schools the boys get to show off their skills on both defense and offense. Which is probably better for the individual anyway.

Both the Rams and the Indians have lost only one game this season. I-SC is a well coached team and coach Bill Wilthong has his boys playing good both defensively and offensively. Steve Hanschen is the leading ball carrier for the Rams. The Rams will have their hands full trying to stop Jimmy Morgan, Martin, White and Patrick Thomas.

Bass hunting

If you are real outdoorsman then you should try to hunt bass in the winter time.

Black bass in impoundments are school fish. When the water turns cold, they draw into tight little groups and find some sanctuary

Although anglers of the past thought the bass were dormant in the winter, modern bass fishermen have found the fish will feed.

Stick-ups off bluffs, rocky points and the edges of submerged islands are good places to start the hunt. There are times when a school will move into a shallow cove or cruise along shallow bars.

Like the quail hunter without a dog, the bass hunter has to use a trial-and- error method until he discovers a pattern to the type of cover the fish like on a particular day.

Armament will vary from lake to lake, angler to angler and situation to situation.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas's capital city, Little Rock, derived its name from a moss-covered rock jutting out from the south bank of the Arkansas River.

The rock was both an early Indian landmark for easy fording of the river and also a guidepost to travelers on the trail to the Ouachita Mountains.

Clayton nears record

MURRAY, Ky. — Sometime during the first half of Murray's football game with East Tennessee Saturday night, Don Clayton should become the most prolific ground-gainer in Murray's history.

The All-America tailback needs only 36 yards to break the career rushing record for the school, set by Rick Fisher in 1971. Fisher's record is 2,292 yards. Clayton has 2,267.

Clayton has averaged 120 yards a game in Murray State's first six games this season and 4.4 yards for 162 carries. He had 82 yards in the season - opener against Cameron State, 84 against Western Carolina, 137 against Morehead, 92 against Tennessee Tech, 186 against UT-Martin, and 139 last Saturday against Middle Tennessee.

Last season, Clayton set a season rushing record at Murray with 1403 yards in 10 games. His average was the second best in the nation for Division II players. He saw little action as a sophomore when he was recovering from a knee injury and had only 144 yards in 39 carries.

Clayton, who has averaged 27 carries a game this season, is also nearing Fisher's career record in that department. He has 443 and the record is 476. He has averaged 5.1 yards a carry and 103.1 yards a game for his career at Murray.

Clayton also led the Racers in scoring last season with 54 points and is in the lead again this year with 32 points. Last Saturday, he scored both touchdowns in Murray's 14-12 victory over Middle Tennessee. He has also caught 7 passes this season for 71 yards and 1 touchdown. It was his touchdown reception which put Murray into the lead for the first time in its 35-27 win over Cameron State. Against Morehead, he ran a two-point conversion with only 6 seconds left in the game to give Murray a 25-24 victory.

Murray has won five of its six games this season, losing only to Tennessee Techn. The Racers are 2-1 and tied for third place in the Ohio Valley Conference. They will play East Tennessee Saturday night at MSU's Roy Stewart Stadium, where they haven't lost a game in the two years it has been in use. They will then play at Eastern Kentucky, who leads the OVC with a 3-0 record, and at Austin Peay before returning to Stewart Stadium for games with Eastern Illinois Nov. 16 and Western Kentucky Nov. 23.

Sports Briefs

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have agreed to a one-year player development contract with Danville of the Class A Midwest League, a spokesman for the Danville baseball team said Wednesday.

The Midwest team, to be known as the Danville Dodgers, has been affiliated with the Milwaukee Brewers the past four seasons.

CHICAGO (AP) — Loren Babe, a former major league infielder, has been named manager of the Denver Bears, the new Class AAA affiliate of the Chicago White Sox.

Babe, 46, was a scout for the New York Yankees for the past three years and from 1961-66 managed in the International, Southern, Carolina, Pioneer and New York-Pennsylvania leagues.

He played 120 games in the major leagues in 1952 and 1953 with the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics as a third baseman.

Don Clayton (No. 21), Murray State University tailback from Malden, Mo., takes a pass for a first down on the four- yard line in Murray's 14-12 victory over Middle Tennessee last Saturday. He scored Murray's first touchdown from the 1- yard line two plays later. Clayton is nearing career records in rushing and rushing attempts at Murray.

Gilmore, Dr. J call on spirits

ST. LOUIS — Artis Gilmore ... Dr. J... the running, gunning San Diego Conquistadors. The Spirits of St. Louis face three of pro basketball's finest attractions at the Arena in the next five days -- and also three of its toughest tests.

The 7-2 Gilmore leads the Kentucky Colonels into St. Louis for their first meeting against the Spirits on Friday night at 8 p.m. Next comes the great Dr. J., Julius Erving, perhaps the most exciting player ever to play basketball, who makes his call with the New York Nets in a 7 p.m. game Sunday.

Then on Tuesday, the Qs, featuring 7-0 Caldwell Jones and spectacular 6-1 guard Dwight Lamar come in shooting at 8 p.m.

All will be making their first St. Louis appearance as Spirits fans get an early opportunity to see some of the best pro basketball the American Basketball Association has to offer. As an added attraction, Friday night will be Banner Night with the fans invited to bring a home-made banner for judging. The creator of the best and wittiest banner will win two tickets to any 10 home games. Tuesday night will be Clayton Night in which anyone purchasing a ticket through the Clayton Chamber of Commerce gets a discount. They do not have to live in Clayton.

Gilmore, the All American from Jacksonville, who has led the league in rebounding for all of his three seasons and averages more than 20 points a game, comes to town ready for an exciting matchup against St. Louis' newest sensation out of college, All American Marvin Barnes.

Along with Gilmore at center, new coach Hubie Brown has sharp-shooting strongman Dan Issel and Wil Jones as the forwards and Ted McClain and Louie Dampier as the guards. All are former All Stars. Gilmore, McClain and Jones are three of the top defensive players in the league, while Issel has a career scoring average of 28 points for four seasons. Dampier is the ABA's leading career scorer and three point field goal shooter.

The Colonels were 2-0 before meeting Virginia at home Wednesday and San Antonio at home Thursday.

Erving, the 6-7 incredible, soaring, scoring forward, has been the league scoring champion the past two seasons, leading the Nets to the ABA title last year as he ranked among the leaders in almost every statistical category. Best known for this stunning dunk shots, Erving will be faced by an old nemesis, Joe Caldwell of the Spirits, one of basketball's premier defensive experts.

The Nets also boast 6-9 Larry Kenon, one of the ABA's top rookies last season who will be returning to the Arena where he played for Memphis State against UCLA and Bill Walton in the NCAA finals several years ago.

San Diego, with Lamar, Stew Johnson and Travis "Machine Gun" Grant, had one of the runningest and shootingest teams in the game, presenting a crowd-pleasing style. In Jones, they also have one of the top young centers in the sport as he led the league in shotblocking last season and ranked third in rebounding.

The Spirits also will be playing Virginia at Hampton on Saturday night in a game to be televised back to St. Louis over KPLR, Channel 11, with Bob Costas calling the action. It is the first of 11 scheduled telecasts.

St. Louis took a 2-1 record to Indiana Wednesday night. In those first three games, Fly Williams and Steve Jones, both coming off the bench, were the big guns. Fly averaged 20.3 points a game and was the third leading, rebounder with 7.3 per contest. He also had 10 assists to rank only behind 11 by Milt Williams as he caught the crowd's fancy with his spectacular moves toward the basket and hustling play.

Jones averaged 20 points a game and had seven rebounds per contest from his guard spot. Barnes was next with 16.7 points, a figure which certainly would have been higher had he not been forced to leave Tuesday night's victory over Virginia in the first minute of the second quarter with a sprained ankle. Still, he led the team in rebounds with 13 a game.

Jr. Eagles in final at Scott City

EAST PRAIRIE — The Junior High Eagles will play their final game of the season tonight at Scott City. To date their record is three wins and one loss.

The team, which includes eighth and ninth graders, lost to Malden by a score of 22 to 6 on Sept. 26. They have defeated Portageville 6-0; Hayti, 20 to 6; and Charleston, 53 to 0.

The game with Charleston, played Oct. 17, began with the Eagles fumbling the kick- off on the Blue Jays 20 yard line. After a gain to the Eagles one yard line, the Blue Jays fumbled and the ball was recovered by East Prairie gridder. The East Prairie team scored their first touchdown after moving the ball 99 yards down field. Jeff Emory scored the touch down on a 50 yard run.

Terry Wheatley, quarterback, scored 21 points for the day, followed by Jeff Emory, who scored two touchdowns. Other scorers were Donald Robinson, eight points; Kevin Pritchett, six points; and Todd Marshall, six points.

First meeting

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University and Missouri Western State College will meet on the gridiron for the first time ever at 1:30 Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph.

The non-conference contest leaves the Indians secure in the knowledge that they can lose no ground in the race for the MIAA championship.

As long as that's all they're secure about, Tribe Coach Jim Lohr isn't worried. But if the team lets down, unhappy things could happen, Lohr said, even though the Griffons have been victorious but once in seven tires this season.

"They sure could beat us, if we go up there with anything but business on our mind," said the first- year Indian head man.

Two weeks ago the Tribe got a bit complacent after a big 44-0 win over Arkansas Tech and lost for the first time in a decade to the University of Missouri -- Rolla, 21-19.

The situation is much the same this week. The Indians last Saturday smashed a fine Southwest Missouri State University squad, 39-20. The Bears were the pre-season pick to wrest the MIAA crown from the Tribe.

Lohr said the Indians' offensive play in that game was the best he has seen in any football team for many years. The win evened Southeast Missouri State's record at 3-3.

Missouri Western is also piloted this year by a new head coach, Rob Hicklin. And like the Indians, the Griffons are also using the Houston Veer as their basic offense.

They have 25 returning lettermen, but Lohr describes the Griffon "as kind of a young club." He adds, "Their defense has been good on occasion."

Missouri Western's best offensive back, according to Lohr, is George Blakely, a 5-10, 185-pound sophomore from St. Joseph.

The Griffons' only win this season came over Iowa Wesleyan. Last Saturday they lost to Benedictine College of Atchinson, Kan. They have also been beaten by two MIAA teams, the University of Missouri -- Rolla and Northeast Missouri State University of Kirksville.

Southeast Missouri State's offense is directed by junior quarterback Rick Wieser of Topeka, Kan., who had his finest game of the season last week, completing 12 of 19 passes for 160 yards.

The top Indian running back continues to change from week - to - week, as one player, then another, has a good game. Saturday it was Anthony Wallace's turn, as the 5-11, 180-pound junior for West Palm Beach, Fla., rushed for 127 yards and one touchdown on 14 carries.

He has now gained 302 yards this season on 55 attempts. Close behind are Bobby Everage, a 5-8, 175- pound junior from Alton, Ill., with 265 yards on 47 carries and Roger Schmidt, a 5-9, 185- pound sophomore from Festus. Schmidt has rushed 43 times for 206 yards.

Junior Al Council, a 6-1, 200-pounder form Dunnellon, Fla., who has been hampered by injuries the past couple of weeks, ran only one play last week. He has gained 197 yards this season in 41 attempts.

Somewhat ironically, the Tribe's leading scorer is Mike Wood, a 6-0, 200-pound sophomore from Kirkwood. All of Wood's 34 points have come via the kicking game. He has booted 10 field goals, a school record, and four extra points.

The Indian coaching staff gives much of the credit for Wood's success to sophomore Tom Suter of St. Louis, who centers the ball on kicking attempts, and reserve quarterback Walter Denton of Oxford, Miss., who holds it.

Southeast Missouri State will be back in the northwest section of Missouri on Nov. 2 when it resumes conference play against Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville.

Hunting prospects excellent in state

Hunters in Missouri will have an excellent season in 1974 as almost all species are available.

The deer harvest for the state should top 30,000 and there were 20,000 Canada geese reported.

Rabbits are reported in better numbers than in several previous years. Squirrels are plentiful, even though nut production has been poor for a couple of years.

Missouri moves to an antlerless deer quota system for the first time on one of its deer management units. The unit, 6-A, is a new one. It is the riverbreak area of the former Unit 6 along the Missouri River in central Missouri. Compared with the rest of Unit 6, it has a high deer population and Department of Conservation deer biologists felt there could be a doe harvest there, though not in the rest of the unit.

A quota of 1,200 permits has been set, to be used by those drawn after special application. The antlerless deer permits were popular as hundreds more applications came in than the 1,200 permits available.

Too many hunters last year has resulted in a restriction at the August A. Busch Area to a quota of 500 a day, with special permits required the first three days.

There will be a primitive- weapon deer hunt added this year --- Sam A. Baker State Park. The Department of Conservation has been managing archery and antique weapon hunts in several areas for several years. All are on quota systems, by drawing.

What's the law?

The case of the big spree

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Low on funds, Georgie was low in spirits. That is until his curvy blonde girl friend happened to mention that her brother had a wad of dough stashed away in one of his drawers. Suggesting that maybe she ought to go and get it, Georgie's receptive girl friend proved to be as lightfingered as she was lightheaded.

Withing a half hour, she was back with the money. And, while they promptly took off for all the cool spots, they quickly ended up in a hot spot. His girl friend was arrested for stealing the money and Georgie was also arrested as an accomplice.

"Not me, brother," insisted Georgie in court. "I'm no accomplice. I didn't lift a finger to lift that money. My girl did it all and I was nowhere near the scene when she did it."

"Maybe not," conceded the district attorney. But Georgie surely made the scene later. He helped his girl friend spred the money around. What's more, he's the one who suggested that she steal it in the first place. That's why he's in this place and should be convicted."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE,would you convict Georgie as an accomplice?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person is an accomplice when he aids in the commission of a crime by acts or words of encouragment and provides assistance in planning the crime. To be an accomplice, noted the judge, it is not required that a person be present at the commission of the criminal act.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

No Physical Problems

Mental Stress and the Heart

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—After an examination and chest X ray, my doctor says I have "psychophysiological cardiovascular reaction with thoracic pain." Now just what is this? What nature of heart problem could this be?

Dear Reader—It wouldn't be possible for me to verify your doctor's diagnosis, and since the diagnosis is a general term, I can't be too specific. However, the term implies that he doesn't think you have any structural changes in your heart, such as hardening of the arteries or coronary artery disease or changes in the heart valve or other problems due to changes in the heart itself. Rather, he thinks whatever problems you have are related to psychological stresses. Commonly this means emotional stress and tension which, in your case, apparently causes chest pains since that's what thoracic pain means.

Not every chest pain is heart pain, and even certain irregularities of the heart can be caused by psychological stress. The medicines that you mentioned your physician has prescribed are those which are commonly used to help individuals with these types of problems, as opposed to structural changes in the heart. You should also realize that the diagnosis means that your doctor doesn't think that you have the kind of heart disease that would ordinarily cause a heart attack, heart failure, or other such problems.

Your question is an important one, and I'm personally convinced one of the aspects of treating a person with chest pain or disturbed function of the heart and circulatory system related to psychological stress is to reassure him that nothing is wrong with his heart. This helps him focus on the true problem, and helps to eliminate undue concern about the possibilities or other disastrous events which are most unlikely to occur in this setting.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can you please define the word costochondritis and explain what it is?

Dear Reader—Costo refers to the ribs. The spaces between the ribs are the intercostal spaces. The arteries along each rib are called the intercostal arteries. Chondro refers to cartilage, whether it's located in the knee or in the chest. The connections between the bony ribs and sternum are made of cartilage. The area where they join is called costochondral junctions. Whenever "itis" is used in medicine, it means inflammation.

So, simply expressed, costochondritis means inflammation where the bony ribs join the cartilage at the front of the chest along the rib cage. It can cause localized tenderness and pain. The cause for the inflammation is usually not understood and probably occurs for a variety of reasons. One of the most important points about it is to recognize that when these areas of the rib cage are involved over the front of the chest that it does not mean heart disease. Sometimes the difficulty goes away or its own and other times the area is injected with novacaine or other medicines to help relieve pain and the inflammatory reaction, if the condition is severe enough to warrant that.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state received its first official picture of the Missouri bird — the eastern bluebird -Tuesday, ending 47 years without a picture of the bird on display at the Capitol.

Bond said the print will be placed in the state museum on the first floor of the Capitol.

Martin, who painted the picture early last spring, said he discovered in April that the state was without a picture of the bluebird.

Foundation to reduce programs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One of the largest philanthropies in the nation, the Danforth Foundation, has announced that it will reduce programs planned for the fiscal year being June 1, 1975 by 12 to 15 per cent.

Gene L. Schwilck, foundation president, said Tuesday that the cuts were made necessary by the fluctuating stock market. But he said the reductions were modest in view of the current economic situation.

Schwilck said no cuts will be effected in this year's program involving some $9 million in grants, but that that amount would be reduced by about $1 million next year.

The Danforth Foundation was established in 1927 with $100,000 in shares of Ralston Purina by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth. In 1971 a large bloc was sold and the investment portfolio was diversified. Even that move left the foundation with nearly three million Ralston shares worth almost $120 million.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 24, the 297th day of 1974. There are 68 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the United Nations Charter went into force as the Soviet Union became the 29th nation to ratify it.

On this date —

In 1603, James I was proclaimed King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland.

In 1648, the Peace of Westphalia ended the Thirty Years War. European nations recognized the independence of the Netherlands.

In 1795, Poland was partitioned by Prussia, Austria and Russia.

In 1861, the first telegrams were sent across the United States.

In 1929, prices collapsed on the New York Stock exchange.

In 1952, presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower said he would go to Korea to end the Korean War if elected.

Ten years ago: The Olympics in Tokyo wound up with the U.S. winning the greatest number of gold medals, 36.

Five years ago: Troops in Lebanon clashed with demonstrators supporting anti-Israel guerrillas, and six persons were killed.

One year ago: A cease-fire between Israel and Egypt in the Yom Kippur war was in effect, but some fighting continued.

Today's birthday: Former pro football star Y.A. Tittle is 48 years old.

Thought for today: Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly well — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, American poet, 1807-1882.

Dear Editor:

The U.S. Senate has once again proved that it is incapable of saying "no".

President Ford requested that a Federal payraise be delayed from October until January at the least. The payraise would cost some $700 million dollars.

Now the Senate has overridden that request, and any chance of dealing a blow to inflation (small though it is) is gone!

Our Senator Eagleton was one of those who can't say no. Though he runs around Missouri saying we'll have to cut federal spending, he votes in Washington to do the opposite. Where will it end?

Major economists have said that over spending by the U.S. is a major factor in our inflation. This year though, Big Labor and the liberal McGovern democrats seek a veto proof Congress capable of overriding any vetoes against over spending. We in Missouri have a chance to defeat such a Democrat in the person of Senator Eagleton.

His opponent Tom Curtis has a good idea for cutting Federal spending:

LOWER the salaries of Congress until the federal budget is balanced, then raise their salaries again. After all if the average housewife has to keep within her budget, why not Congress!

I might add on this subject a recent report by U.S. News & World Reports that the Senate and House are considering raising their salaries after the election.

Heaven help us!
Sincerely,
Timothy P. O'Herin

The Sikeston Standard,

Dear Editor,

At various times during this past year news items have appeared concerning a "preliminary accord" reached between our State Department, and Panama, on a treaty to replace the old Canal Treaty.

This accord grants Panama increasing payments during the next few years, with a total surrender of United States sovereignty in not more than 25 years.

When Panama achieved independence fromColumbia it SOLD the land to the United States "in perpetuity." — This was an outright PURCHASE, just as was the purchase of Alaska from Russia, or the Louisiana Territory from the French.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, St. Louis, leads the opposition to this "giveaway" in the House, and our own Senator Symington has co- sponsored Senate Resolution No. 301, expressing the support of the Senate for continued U. S. sovereighty over the Canal.

It would be a very serious mistake to give the Panama Canal away, — to an unstable Government, such as Panama has — or any other for that matter. Panama has had about 59 Governments in 71 years, and between Cuba, Russia, and Panama, the Gulf might just become a Russian lake,– similar to the Mediteranean!!! Remember — when we forced France and England to give up the Suez Canal, it opened up the way for Russia to step in — with results so well known to us all.

If you agree with our thinking — why don't you let Mrs. Sullivan and Senator Symington know they have our support in their efforts to "SAVE THE CANAL."??

Respectfully,
J. Ernest Harper

Dear Sir:

This letter is a question, in fact a request, why was nothing printed in your daily paper about the attack on one of your junior high school student? ("never reported in the paper?") Since your saw fit to inform the parents of this school district that there was no trouble in the schools, only a week before the "attack" I fail to see why you never printed news of the offense. I happen to know that the incident was reported to your paper.

A student named Steve Mattison was attacked in the boys rest room on Sept. 9, 1974. As for the details you can get them from Mr. Clayton of "Sikeston Jr. High"

Mrs. Jack Mattison

Dear Mr. King,

I hope this is good enough I'm not very good at writing if it need any corrections would you'll do it. Thank you

Mrs. Jack Mattison

Dear Sir:

I wish you would have more about the election which Bruce Bissiac talks about in the year of 1974. I wish that you would have the candidates on more. I am looking forward to the congressional elections it is going to be exciting on election night. A congressional election is more exciting to me than a presidential elections. I like gubernatorial elections the best. I remember the gubernatorial election of Minnesota in 1962 when it took until May of 1973 to find out who won by recounts. I wonder how many remembers that. I wonder how many remembers Ned Breattitt in 1963 when he was on television continuously. Some times he was on all day. Why don't they have the candidates on now days. I am looking forward to the Kentucky Governors race in 1975. The race is going to be close. Here are the Democratic Hopefuls I think is going, Lt. Governor Carroll, Sec'y of State Stovall, former Democratic chairman of Kentucky and millionaire John Y. Brown, and Republican Hopefuls are Thurston Morton, Louie Newman and Tom Emberton. I am not a Kentuckian but I am interested in it. I hope that I can keep up with election like I used to. It used to be on most of the time. Those were my great days.

Yours sincerely
Alan Whitaker

Dear Mr. Blanton:

On behalf of the Butler County Democrats, may I take this opportunity to thank you for the newspaper coverage you gave us on our Ninth Annual Truman Day Rally. Since your paper has so great a circulation in Sikeston and the outlying areas, it was possible for us to reach many more democrats than we possibly could have through personal contact.

The articles preceeding the Rally most certainly helped the advance ticket sales and the summary of the event in Saturday night's paper was a good follow through on a job well done.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Bud Stone

Dear Charlie:

This will acknowledge your letter of October 10, 1974 requesting my assistance on the I-55 and Highway HH interchange proposal.

This is to advise that I have been in touch with the Department of Transportation, the Missouri Highway Commission, and the interested citizens of Sikeston. Presently, the HIghway Commission is beginning a cost usage study in order to determine the practicability of this project.

Please be advised of my complete support for this project. I will do all in my power to secure the approval for this interchange. If I can be of further assistance to you in any way, please feel free to contact me again.

Respectfully yours,
Bill D. Burlison, M.C.

As a voter and tax payer, I resent a recent "franked" mailing I received from Candidate Thomas Eagleton.

If I had been receiving his so- called newsletters regularly for the past 4 or 5 years, I probably would not have become concerned. But here, suddenly, in the midst of a heavy campaign I get all of this "news" from Washington spelling out Eagletons great concern over rampant inflation, waste in government and on and on.

As I recall, Mr. Eagleton has rather consistently voted for more and more costly big government spending programs. Now, he gluts the overburdened mails with a piece of junk mail printed at OUR expense, to tell us that he is against all of this government spending — I don't believe it!

I became even more perturbed, over this flagrant abuse of his free mailing privilege, when I discovered how many of my friends and neighbors had also received this so called newsletter, and NEVER until now. Even worse, some got as many as 6 in the mail the same day, others, both husbands and wives. were informed that they had this delivered to addresses from which they had moved 15 or 20 years ago.

Mr. Eagleton went to the U.S. Senate, supposedly, to look out for our interests. He immediately approves a raise for U. S. Senators to $42,000 per year. During just one year of his term in office he collected another $37,000 in fees for speeches around the country. Now, he sticks us, the tax payers for a bundle of his campaign propaganda under the guise of "a report to the people of Missouri."

Eagleton says, it's time for some changes -- I agree -- out with him!

Dear Editor:

Here are some things to remember when we go to vote for or against Senator Tom Eagleton:

1. Eagleton voted to support federal controls over all privately owned land in America (S. 268).

2. Inflation. Eagleton did not bother to vote for the Byrd Amendment that would halt government's planned inflating (that is, increasing) of the amount of money in circulation.

3. Eagleton voted to support foreign aid to communist governments (Helms Amend. 199).

4. Eagleton voted to restrict the right of peaceful citizens to keep and bear arms for self protection (S. 2507).

5. Eagleton voted to support more federal controls over local schools and local children (H.R. 7016).

6. Eagleton voted to support the so- called Genocide Treaty that would permit United Nations ——— jurisdiction over our U.S. Constitution.

Mr. Eagleton's voting record shows that he is giving us more and more and more government -- total government. And that tells us whether or not to vote for him agains.

Your truly,

"BETTER OR FOR WORSE"

Dear Editor:

For better or for worse, for richer or for poorer but not until death do us part. Gerald Ford is president, not by the peoples choice, but, by the choice of resigned felon Richard Nixon. Mr. Ford's payment for this back door entrance to the White House was a full pardon for Henchman Nixon, Mr. Ford's buddy, pal and dear friend.

During Mr. Ford's long career in Washington his robotic month has only spouted those words that were beneficial to his party. We do not pardon innocent people but this well established party rubber stamp has cast a large blanket of protection over his lawbreaking colleague whose name is Richard Milhouse Nixon. This action by President Ford is the greatest obstruction of Justice any one has committed in the entire watergate affiar. By so doing Mr. Ford has cheated every man, woman and child in America who believes in justice. An increase in crime in America will be understandable.

Mr. Ford's years of service in Government has never produced even the slightest hint of greatness. His I.Q. does not fit America's chair of leadership. Intelligence is not one of his proven qualities. Must we wallow in the mediocre Ford era, as we wallowed in the lawless Nixon ERA? Shouldn't America demand a new election and get rid of this lawless chain of royalty? The man who resigned because of unlawful activities is the same man who decided who our president is to-day.

Isn't it ironic the same constitution Nixon so flagrantly abused, is the same constitution that President Ford used to grant Nixon the mercy he did not deserve, and did not grant to his opposers. Shall I — Shall You — Shall We accept this type of Government, purpose and direction inf life? If you're a friend of Ford's you have nothing to fear in America do you?

The following once inspiring words now seem empty and hollow and echo mockingly as if in a giant empty chamber.

To wit: One Nation Under God, Indivisible With Liberty And Justice For All.
